EQUIPMENT

BUSINESS STILL BOOMS

By MERLIN C. LEWIS
Vice-President, THE FILM DAILY

THE CONSTRUCTION OF NEW THEATRES, and the complete rebuilding of older ones from the bare walls out, the increase in theatres equipped for 70mm projection and its accompanying multi-channeled sound, together with the attractive financing and, lately, leasing deals for the acquisition of new equipment, have caused a boom in the theatre equipment and its accompanying concessions businesss that has surpassed anything experienced since the advent of CinemaScope, when new equipment was needed to show the new films.

This was the undoubted feature of the 1962-63 season when the sales of new equipment reached an almost unbelievable high. Unbelieveable in the sense that companies that had been just eking out a bare profit and sometimes operated at a loss, were called upon to bid for the new equipment orders that began flooding the market.

New projection systems, new transistorized sound systems, new types of arc lamps that gave better light at less carbon expense to theatres, xenon arc lamps, and pulsed light gas discharge lamps, a shutterless projector, new booth equipment and better ventilation in the projection booths, all took a part in, at the time this is written, the boom in theatre equipment sales.

The boom had been forseen and experienced a considerable time before the Allied-TESMA-TEDA Trade shaw at the Sheraton Cleveland Hotel last December. But business actually written at the Trade Show was a welcome surprise to the manufacturers who showed their equipment to the large crowds of Allied members who came to see and who bought!

That business written at the Trade Show was a "surprise" was phrased that way because manufacturers who exhibit at industry trade shows generally charge their expenses to advertising and do not expect, generally, to sell anything at the trade show but do expect to line up prospects for business to be closed at the offices of the theatre owners some time after the trade show closes.

The manufacturers expect also, to gather their dealers who sell their wares in local areas and to completely acquaint the dealer's with the equipment they know about only through illustrated brochures at the time the equipment comes onto the market.

The dealers, seeing customers at the trade show from their own areas of the country, would button-hole the theatre owner and steer him to the booth of, say, a projection machine manufacturer, who also is a manufacturer of sound equipment.

Methods of selling aside, there has been a feeling throughout the business of manufacturing and selling theatre equipment and supplies that what had appeared to be a most precarious business for the past several years, has come back with a bang, and promises to continue its prosperous way at least for the next several years.

The market for new equipment exists. It now is the problem of theatre equipment manufacturers to get their share of the market.

CONTINUE TO BUILD NEW HARD-TOPS

The trend toward the construction of more and more drive-ins has been slowed down, although a considerable number of new drive-ins are being built, since theatre owners know that there is a bigger profit return from drive-ins, generally, than from hard-top theatres.

The bigger capacity of the newer drive-ins permits a greater gross on any given "good" picture, and an accompanying much larger gross sale in concessions areas. The greater sale per person in drive-ins over hard-tops is axiomatic and continuously proven in this business by reports at various National Association of Concessionaires conventions and regional meetings.

Who has the theater sound system so sound it won an Academy Award? AMPEX.

Now playing everywhere: high profit 70 mm film productions. The star of the show: Ampex sound system. With good reason. Ampex provides the ultimate in modern 70 mm sound projection equipment. This system gives you glorious reproduction of 6-track stereophonic sound as well as 4-track Cinema-Scope. It can handle single-track optical and provide stereo intermission music. And it's easy to operate: a station control center offers push-button sound selection, change-over, level control and remote gain control at each projector. What's more, it insures full protection against sound loss. You can enjoy complete audience satisfaction — and box office bonanzas. No wonder leading theaters everywhere use this leading system! It's available as a complete system or as separate or conversion units. For details write the only company providing recorders, tape and memory devices for every application: Ampex Corporation, 934 Charter St., Redwood City, Calif. Worldwide sales, service.

AMPEX

The trend toward more hard tops than drive-ins has been brought about by the great boom in the building of enormous complexes of shopping centers in the suburbs of all large cities, and theatres are an integral part of the shopping center complexes.

Excellent deals for the enterprising theatre operators are available in most cases because the shopping center owner generally will build a theatre to specifications of the theatre man in turn for a long term lease on the theatre property, at terms the theatre man can live with, sometimes a straight rental, sometimes a percentage of gross, and sometimes the best features of both.

Thus the smart theatre man can specify what kind of theatre he wants built, go to an equipment manufacturer and have the theatre completely equipped with the most modern, newly designed and improved equipment, and for the initial expenditure at the most of a few hundred dollars walk away with the key to the new theatre and be in business. It then remains a problem to get pictures for the new house, but the fact that the new house offers a great possibility of week-in and week-out profit, makes the producer-distributor look with wide eyed (?) welcome at this type of new operator. At the least he gets his share of the better product, and at the worst he can bid for it.

PHYSICAL IMPROVEMENT RELATED TO RECEIPTS

Long before its demise, the Motion Picture Research Council's field staff had surveyed the theatre market to determine the exactitude, if that's the word, of reproduction on theatre screens of the wonderfully photographed motion pictures that came out of Hollywood. Much to their dismay, their suspicions were sustained. Twenty-year old and older equipment in disrepair just could not approach the near-perfection of the beauty put into films in Hollywood and around the world, by projecting an image with flicker, faulty pull-down, and side weave and all of the other ills a bad projector is heir to. They did their best in showing theatre owners how their old equipment could be improved, but for the most part the projectors and sound systems had gone so bad by attrition of the years and the lack of maintenance, that they were hopeless.

It turned out that although theatre owners (all of this is speaking generally) had depreciated their equipment, none of the depreciation money had been put aside for replacement when such replacement had come due.

The Research Council men urged the theatre owners with such poor equipment to replace, with new, or even with re-built equipment if they could not afford new pieces and discovered that upon returning for another visit that many of the theatres had replaced worn out equipment and were putting on pretty good shows. They also found out that the patrons of movie thatres knew where they could go for entertainment without going half blind and that they stayed away, when they had a choice of another movie house to attend, regardless of the picture being featured.

There always are the selective few who will see only the pictures they want to see, and not to just "go to the movies." But these selective few were the ones who made their complaints of headaches and aching eyes to the theatre managers of the house with the bad equipment. Their very selectivity results from a higher intelligence than the mass of movie goers, and, seemingly, made them more vocal.

This was the beginning, about six or seven years ago, of what hs now turned into a complete realization on the part of theatre owners that they must make their theatres at least, and preferably more comfortable than the homes they are asking their prospective customers to leave, to come down and pay money to see a movie on his screen.

TRADE SHOWS

As stated before, in December of 1962, Theatre Equipment and Supply Manufacturers Association (TESMA) and the Theatre Equipment Dealers Association (TEDA) staged a trade show in Cleveland with National Allied, in conjunction with the national annual conventions of each of the three organizations. This was the first trade show since 1958 that TESMA or TEDA had been part of. This participation in the show ran by TESMA, was the result of the realization of manufacturer members of TESMA that the atmosphere of the business had become ripe for a showing, particularly since so much new equipment had been designed and put on the market at least in a preliminary way. To take advantage of the national meeting of Allied and to bring TEDA into the picture seemed propitious. So the contract was signed and the Trade Show turned out to be one of the most successful ever staged by the TESMA group. Although the Trade Show was not a large one, if the number of trade show booths occupied is the only criterion for judgement, it produced an awareness of the value of new equipment to theatre owners and it created a feeling of good will not surpassed at any time in the manufacturing and selling of theatre equipment.

Theatre Owners of America (TOA) and National Association of Concessionaires (NAC) had staged a trade show in Miami in November 1962, and while that Trade Show, also staged in conjunction with the annual conventions of the two organizations, was successful in the number of booths occupied by concessionaires, it unfortunately showed little new theatre equipment, to the disappointment of theatre owners who made a trip through the trade show area looking for it.

(Editorially, it can be stated here, that there still exists the feeling on the part of manufacturers that there should be one trade show a year, and that the two large exhibitor organizations could so arrange it, if they so desired, in spite of declarations from all sides that it could not be done.)

All information obtainable at the time this is written leads to the belief that National Allied will not stage a Trade Show in 1963. TESMA and TEDA separately have agreed to be part of a Trade Show at the Americana Hotel in New York in October of 1963, in conjunction with the Trade Show of TOA and NAC, together with the annual conventions of all four organizations. The great Albert Hall of the Americana is set up to receive more than 125 booths which should be sold out long before October.

WHAT ABOUT REBUILTS?

Early reference in this dissertation concerning the installation of re-built equipment in theatres that obviously now can afford to buy the best, and are limited only by their personal choices, the selling efforts expended on them, and the incidental requirements of their theatres, leads to the obvious declaration to be made here, and is made with enthusiasm, "rebuilt equipment is in no way at all the equal of even the poorest new equipment." And there is no poor new equipment.

The requirements for the performance of projection and sound equipment in theatres are so exacting, that no reputable manufacturer could possibly afford to sell anything that could not stand up to the continuing beating that projectors and sound equipment have to take day after day and week after week and year after year. normal maintenance and care, good equipment will last for a long, long time.

There are some dealers who rebuild projectors and try to sell them to theatres with the assertion that "it's just as good as new and a lot cheaper," should be dealt with by the Better Business Bureau. If used and rebuilt equipment is sold for exactly what it is without the promise that it is equal to new equipment, then there is a place for that kind of equipment—in run-down theatres that still cannot afford new equipment. They know that what they have will not do, so they are in the market for something at least a little better.

MANUFACTURER-DEALER RELATIONSHIP

There exists in the theatre equipment field today a closer relation between dealer and manufacturer than has existed ever before. This is a flat statement, without qualification.

In October of 1962 the Theatre Equipment Dealers Association moved to bring their organization into closer relationship with the Theatre Equipment and Supply Manufacturers Association for what it believed would establish a necessary rapport. TEDA extended an invitation to TESMA members, not to TESMA as an organization, to meet in Chicago to discuss the possibilities of a merger of the two organizations, and if that were not to be possible because of possible legal entanglements, then to seek other means that would bring the organizations closer.

E. H. "Um" Geissler, president of the dealer organization was a prime mover in the organization of the Chicago meeting, and made a public plea for what he thought would do the most good. He moved for merger. The merger did not take place, but TEDA invited the members of TESMA to become associate members of its own organization.

This proposition was examined by the individual members and many of them now are associate members of TEDA, as well as keeping their active membership in TESMA. This undoubtedly has brought the two organizations closer together and their "togetherness" was best evidenced by the absolute cordiality of the two groups, one to the other, during the Trade Show and Conventions held in Cleveland last December. The dealers let themselves be heard, as did the manufacturers, and there was nothing but sweet agreement. May it long continue.

LEGISLATIVE RESTRICTIONS IN FOREIGN MARKETS

By NATHAN D. GOLDEN

Former Director, Scientific, Photographic and Business Equipment Division, Business and Defense Service Administration U. S. Department of Commerce

THE FOREIGN MARKET for United States films was good in 1962 and remittances of films earnings from foreign countries were estimated at about $215-$220 million, about the same level as during 1961.

While there are import and foreign exchange problems affecting the importation of United States films in many foreign countries, there has been improvement in trading conditions in several of the most important foreign markets. During 1962, it was announced that import quotas would be removed in Italy, film earnings would be transferred without restriction, and the dubbing license fee of 5,500,000 lire per feature film would be removed. These actions make Italy virtually a free market for United States films. The new film agreement with the French Government provides for the importation of 140 United States feature films and continues the free transfer of film earnings. In Japan, conditions governing the importation of films and the transfer of film earnings have eased considerably and there is hope that Japan will be virtually free of restrictions in the near future.

United States films enjoy great favor abroad and the new developments give an indication that foreign business will continue to be good. Of concern to the United States film industry are developments in the Common Market as they affect the distribution of U.S. films in those countries, the larger threat of television competition in many of the major countries, and the declining attendance at motion picture theaters in several of the large European countries.

A significant factor in the high level of foreign business for United States films has been the growing number of theatres in foreign countries being equipped to exhibit 70-mm. and other wide-screen process films. Most of these more expensive, epic-type films have been very well received by foreign audiences and have attracted good box-office business. As this trend continues and more outlets for these wide-screen films become available, the release of these films at advanced prices and for long runs should form an even more important part of our movie business abroad.

Probably the most important problems encountered by United States film companies abroad are import licensing difficulties and the securing of foreign exchange with which to remit film earnings. Several countries maintain import quotas, limiting the number of United States films which may enter the country, while others have playing time restrictions that reserve a portion of exhibition time to national films. In other countries, there is a blocking of United States film earnings or limitations placed on the amount that may be transferred out of the country.

Major foreign countries having import quotas are France, Spain, Argentina, India, Japan, Korea, Pakistan, and Indonesia. Foreign exchange problems are found in Spain, where only 30 percent of earnings may be remitted; Egypt, where sizeable amounts of U.S. film funds are blocked; and India and Pakistan, where only a limited amount of dollar exchange is available for transfer of film earnings. Foreign exchange difficulties are also encountered in Morocco, Tunisia, and Turkey. Some of these restrictions are designed to protect and promote national film industries, while others are brought about by a shortage of dollar exchange.

The motion picture industry is truly an international medium of entertainment and communication and United States films are marketed in almost every country of the world. Because of the tremendous importance of the world market to the American film industry, accurate and complete data on trading conditions abroad are essential. The following is a country-by-country resumé of legislative restrictions, film agreements, and other factors that affect the distribution of United States films in foreign markets.

EUROPE

ALBANIA — The motion picture industry in Albania has been nationalized, and the importation, distribution and exhibition of films are entirely in the hands of the Albanian Government. The Government has shown no interest in importing United States films.

AUSTRIA—No measures are in effect in Austria which might reduce or prevent the distribution of United States motion pictures. Import licenses are required, but no difficulty is encountered in obtaining them. No restrictions are imposed on the transfer of film earnings.

BELGIUM — Under an agreement with the Belgina Goverment, United States film companies may remit 65 per cent of their gross receipts to the United States. During 1959 and 1960 the full 65 percent remittance was made, amounting to about $3,000,000 in 1960 and $3,400,000 in 1959. Remittances are usually in dollars. The 35 percent of gross receipts remaining in Belgium may be used for operating expenses.

In June 1960, the Government declared null and void the decrees of August 1, 1957 and March 28, 1958 that regulated film rental arrangements between distributors and Belgian exhibitors, who are now free to negotiate without Government interference. United States distributors release their films on a percentage basis. No quantitative import restrictions exist for foreign films. However, under an agreement between the Government and film distributors, 80 percent of all black and white 35-mm. film printing is done in Belgian laboratories. No import duty is applied to negative films. In principle, all 35-mm. color films are imported as positive prints.

The Government authorizes aid to Belgian film producers. The Minister of Economic Affairs is authorized to extend premiums to Belgian film producers meeting certain prescribed conditions as to type and length of film and the requirement that the film be produced principally in Belgium and by Belgians. For long films of 1,800 meters or more, the premium is 80 percent of the admission tax; for shorter films, 25 percent; and for newsreels, 5 percent.

BULGARIA — All theatres in Bulgaria are nationalized, and the importation and distribution of motion picture films are controlled by the state monopoly. Only a very few United States feature films are reported to have been released in Bulgaria in the past few years.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA—The Government of Czechoslovakia has established a state monopoly that controls the production, distribution and exhibition of motion picture films. No imports may be made without a license. Only a few United States feature films have been released in Czechoslovakia in recent years.

DENMARK—The importation of foreign films into Denmark takes place freely and the remittance of film earnings is permitted to all areas. Producers of Danish feature films receive Government aid in the form of a license to operate a motion picture theatre, which is exempt from the tax on theatre profits. They also receive Government subsidies at the rate of 25 per cent of the entertainment tax for a black and white film and 40 per cent for a color film. The current admission entertainment tax is 7/17 of gross theatre receipts.

FINLAND — There are no regulations limiting the number of films that may be imported into Finland. A separate application to the Bank of Finland is required to transfer funds, but no serious problems have been reported with regard to foreign exchange for the transfer of film earnings.

FRANCE — The film agreement between the French Government and the Motion Picture Export Association of America expired December 31, 1962. A new agreement, announced in the trade press early in 1963, provides for 140 import licenses for feature films from the United States to be dubbed into the French language. This is the same level as during the last year of the old agreement. The new agreement is for two years ending December 31, 1964. All restrictions on the transfer of film earnings have been terminated.

Under the film aid law of June 1959, the French Minister of Finance and Economic Affairs and the "Minister who is responsible for the motion picture industry" will jointly administer a special account to be known as "Financial Aid to the Motion Picture Industry." This account will be financed from the following sources: Revenues from the special tax on theatre tickets; revenues from film exit visas; and refunds of loans and advance payments on receipts granted to motion picture producers and theatre owners. Each year a Ministerial decision establishes the amounts which will be made available for the granting of loans and subsidies.

Financial aid will be extended to producers of French films and to international co-productions provided the latter are covered by official co-production agreements. Aid will also be given to French theatre owners, and French studios and laboratories engaged in the printing and development of films. Loans may be granted to individuals and companies who undertake the construction of new motion picture theatres; also eligible for financial assistance are theatre owners who sell less than 2,000 tickets per week during a full year.

Playing time regulations require French films to be exhibited five weeks out of each thirteen.

GERMANY—No import quota regulations or playing time restrictions are in effect in West Germany. United States film companies encounter no difficulty in remitting their film earnings from this market.

Throughout 1962 it was reported that the German film industry was in trouble and that the industry and the German Government were working on plans to put film production back on a healthy basis. Production of German feature films reached a low of 75 in 1961 and 1962 production was not expected to exceed 60 major films at best. One proposal was a "self-help program" to be worked out jointly by German producers, exhibitors and distributors. This program provides that a general fund be established for financing new production, increased market research and advertising, and increased recruitment of new talent. The fund is to be financed by a levy of 3 per cent on gross box-office receipts, which will be borne as follows: 1.7 per cent by exhibitors; 0.8 percent by producers; and 0.5 percent by distributors. The levy is estimated to provide a fund of DM15-20 million annually (about $3,750,000 to $4,000,000).

GIBRALTAR—All booking of United States films into Gibraltar is done through distributors in London and payment is made in pounds sterling

GREECE—The importation and distribution of motion pictures and the transfer of royalty earnings are governed by specific regulations of the Ministry of Commerce. No quantitative import restrictions are imposed on motion pictures. Foreign exchange remittances for print costs and royalty earnings are subject only to prior auditing of the distributor's records.

In September 1961, a bill for the protection and promotion of the Greek industry was enacted into law. This bill creates an aid fund from which loans may be obtained for the production of Greek films or for the establishment and operation of studios and processing laboratories. It provides for minimum rental rates, compulsory playing time for Greek films, and a partial refund of the admissions tax to the Greek producer during the first five years the film is exhibited. The act also provides special measures for foreign enterprises making pictures in Greece which are designed to encourage co-productions with foreign film companies. It is not believed that the new law will seriously restrict the operations of United States film companies in Greece.

HUNGARY — Production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures in Hungary are nationalized and all phases of the industry are under Government control. With the announcement in 1958 of the United States-Russian agreement to exchange motion picture films, new efforts were made to distribute United States films in Hungary. Late in 1958 it was announced that a group of United States films had been sold to the Hungarian Government and during recent years other United States films have been purchased. Details are not available as to the terms of payment.

ICELAND—All motion picture films brought into Iceland must obtain an import license and a foreign exchange permit from the Import Bureau. Remittances of film earnings can only be made against licenses. It has been reported that licenses are usually granted without any difficulty being encountered.

IRELAND—The importation of motion pictures continues to be handled from the United Kingdom. All United States films are obtained from British subsidiaries of U. S. film companies and payment is made in sterling. No quotas or other import regulations are in effect in Ireland that restrict importation or exhibition of United States films.

ITALY—The Italian-American film agreement expired August 31, 1962. The new agreement, as announced by the Motion Picture Export Association of America, contains important improvements regarding the importation and distribution of United States films in Italy. The new agreement provides for the elimination of the film quota, the free transfer of film earnings, and the removal of the dubbing license fee. Under the old agreement, a portion of U. S. film earnings were blocked for use in Italy and the dubbing license fee was 5,500,000 lire for each foreign feature film imported. According to the Association, the new agreement assures virtually a free market for United States films in Italy.

The Italian Film Law, scheduled to expire on June 30, 1962, was extended through March 31, 1963. Extension of the law was necessary, since the Italian Government's new film bill had not been enacted into law as of that date. The old law provides for playing time requirements for Italian films of 100 days a year and requires Italian theatre owners to screen either an Italian newsreel or Italian short subject at each showing. The law also contains provisions setting up a subsidy of 16 per cent of gross receipts to be paid to Italian producers and a 20 per cent tax rebate for theatres that exhibit Italian films.

LUXEMBOURG—No trade restrictions are in effect in Luxembourg that might retard or prevent the importation or exhibition of United States films. Import permits are not required.

United States films are rented by Luxembourg theaters and are paid for through Belgium and there are no foreign exchange problems.

MALTA—All United States films entering Malta are brought into the country through London and are distributed by the Malta United Film Corporation, a subsidiary of the Kinematograph Renters Society in London. The Government of Malta announced in June 1960 that price controls on theatre admissions had been abolished and exhibitors are now free to set admission prices.

NETHERLANDS—There are no restrictions on the importation of United States films into the Netherlands and no problems with regard to allocation of foreign exchange for the import of United States films. Regulations governing playing time for films provide that exhibitors shall show for at least 12 weeks of each year feature films that were not made in the United States and for which no dollars would be paid.

NORWAY—In January 1961, it was announced that all controls on the transfer of motion picture earnings were removed. However, all requests for transfer must still be filed with the Bank of Norway, which is prepared to automatically approve all such requests. No import quota or playing time restrictions are in effect in Norway.

POLAND—Government-owned Film Polski has a monopoly of production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures in Poland. All transfer of foreign exchange is subject to the approval of the Polish Government. Early in 1958, it was announced that an Informational Media Guaranty program had been established for Poland enabling Poland to again purchase United States feature films. This program allows United States film companies to accept payment in the currency of Poland with the United States Government guaranteeing conversion to dollars of the amount specified. The Informational Media Guaranty program has been continued since 1958, with an amount of about $250,000 being available during the past year for motion picture films.

PORTUGAL — Remittances of United States film royalties have been free of complications during recent years; however, they are subject to prior approval by the Bank of Portugal. Import licenses are required for all imports into Portugal, but no difficulty is encountered in obtaining licenses. Theatres are required to exhibit Portuguese films one week of every five weeks of forign films, except when national productions are not available.

RUMANIA — All phases of the Rumanian motion picture industry, including production, distribution and exhibition, have been nationalized and are controlled by the Government. Foreign exchange may be transferred only upon approval of the National Bank of Rumania.

With the announcement in October 1958, of the United States-Russian cultural agreement to exchange motion pictures, new efforts were made to distribute United States films in Rumania. While there have been reports of United States feature films being sold to the Rumanian Government, details are not available as to how many films are involved or on what terms payments were arranged.

In December 1960, it was announced that the United States and Rumania were negotiating cultural exchanges for 1961-62 that will include motion picture films.

SPAIN—The United States film industry has carried on negotiations with the Spanish Government almost continuously during the past year trying to resolve problems in that market. In 1959, an agreement was signed between the Spanish Government and the Motion Picture Export Association of America (MPEAA) for the year ending October 30, 1960. The agreement was extended to cover the year ending October 30, 1961. It provided for a total of 88 import licenses for United States films, of which a portion would be given to MPEAA companies for their own allocation and distribution, with the balance being allocated to Spanish independent distributors. It is believed that this agreement was extended to cover the year ending October 30, 1962. However, at the end of 1962 no new agreement had been announced.

At the presnt time, 30 per cent of U. S. film earnings in Spain are put into transferable account "A" and 70 per cent into blocked account "B". It has been reported that account "A" funds are being freely transferred. Account "B" funds must be used within Spain.

The Spanish Government requires each importer of foreign films to distribute, in Spain, one Spanish film for every four imported films dubbed into the Spanish language. All foreign film imports must have an import license. Only a few films are exhibited in their original language and dubbing is an important segment of the industry.

Spanish import and dubbing taxes on U. S. films range from 650,000 to 1,000,000 pesetas for a feature film. These taxes are levied in accordance with the anticipated commercial value of the films; the U. S. films are the most popular and, therefore, pay the highest import and dubbing taxes. (60 paper pesetas equal U. S. $1.)

Spanish playing time requirements state that theatres in Barcelona and Madrid must exhibit at least four different Spanish pictures during 56 days a year, theatres elsewhere at least nine different Spanish pictures during 63 days a year. A newsreel must be shown at each theatre program and the only newsreel permitted in Spain is the nationally produced "NO-DO."

SWEDEN—The importation of motion picture films was liberalized in 1954 and import licenses are no longer required by the Swedish authorities. Effective December 29, 1958, the Government of Sweden established non-resident convertibility for the Swedish crown and no problems have been encountered in the transfer of United States film earnings.

SWITZERLAND—Imports of films are controlled by the Federal Decree of September 26, 1938. The importation of feature films is subject to an individual quantity quota system. There are 45 film distributors in Switzerland; each one is allotted a quantity quota. Within this quantity quota, a distributor is free to import films from whatever country he prefers. The Swiss authorities appear to be handling the quota very liberally. In 1961, a total of 600 films were allocated to the distributors, which is actually more than were imported.

In July 1958, the Swiss constitution was amended to permit Federal legislation on the motion picture industry. A new film law is, at present, in preparation, which reportedly deals with the promotion of production in Switzerland, opening of new theatres, and cartel practices.

TURKEY—In 1958, the Turkish Government announced that it had suspended all payments of foreign exchange and the Turkish lire was devalued from 2.8 lire to the dollar to a new rate of 9 lire to the dollar. In May 1959, an agreement was worked out for paying U. S. creditors, with the amounts due to be rescheduled over a 12-year period, including payments for goods delivered and services rendered prior to August 5, 1958.

Since 1956, an Informational Media Guaranty program has been in effect in Turkey. U. S. film distributors, after signing contracts with the U. S. Information Agency, may accept payment in the currency of Turkey for their films, with the U. S. Government guaranteeing conversion into dollars of an amount established annually in the program. Film earnings in excess of those covered in the guaranty program were to be included in annual exchange allocations by the Turkish Government.

There has been a gradual liberalization of film imports beginning in late 1960 and completed on July 28, 1962, when a new decree of the Turkish Government placed the importation of United States films on the same basis as other foreign films. Specified procedures remain for the films which will be imporated under the Informational Media Guaranty program, but U. S. films imported outside the program may be imported on a strictly commercial basis. The Central Bank has confirmed that implementing procedures have been established and that any qualified Turkish importer may apply for import of United States or other foreign films. However, it is necessary to obtain an import license and a letter of allocation of foreign exchange.

Another factor affecting the importation of United States films was an eight-fold increase in customs duties effective January 1961. Also the municipal tax on theatre admissions continues its long-standing discrimination against foreign films. In first-class theatres, the tax on foreign films is 70 per cent and that on Turkish films is 25 per cent.

U.S.S.R.—The Soviet film industry is a Government monopoly under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Culture, and both domestic production and importation of foreign films are subject to the regulations of the Soviet Government.

The most significant development during recent years was the announcement of October 1958 of the United States-Russian cultural agreement on the exchange of motion pictures. This agreement called for the purchase of seven Soviet features by United States film companies and the sale of 10 United States features to Russia. The price for each Soviet or American film was set at $60,000 for each standard size film and $67,000 for each wide-screen film, with payment to be made in dollars. The agreement also provided for the exchange of documentary films.

The first showing of films covered in this agreement took place on November 10, 1959, when a Russian film was premiered in Washington, D.C., and a U. S. feature was shown in a Moscow theatre. This agreement has been extended and is currently in effect. There have been several Russian films distributed in the United States in the past year and a number of United States films have been shown in Russia; however, information as to terms of payment is not available.

UNITED KINGDOM—The Anglo-American film agreement covering the remittances of United States film earnings was terminated in January, 1960, thus eliminating all restrictions on remittances of earnings on United States films. The British Board of Trade announced in Parliament the termination of the agreement which had been in effect since April, 1950.

During the past year 30 per cent of first feature films exhibited in British theatres and 25 per cent of the supporting films were required to be British productions. The Eady tax plan to assist the British film industry was put into operation in 1950. This plan called for a voluntary increase in the entertainment tax to establish a subsidy to be used by British film producers, distributors, and exhibitors. The Cinematograph Films Act of 1957 made this levy statutory and extended the plan for a period of 10 years.

In 1949, the National Film Finance Corporation was established, with an initial grant of 5,000,000 pounds sterling from which loans could be made to assist British producers. In 1957 the lending powers of this Corporation were extended for an additional 10 years.

YUGOSLAVIA—The motion picture industry in Yugoslavia is nationalized and all phases of the industry are controlled by the government. Because of the dollar exchange position of the Yugoslav Government, in 1952 the United States Government allocated dollars, under its Informational Media Guaranty Program, to enable Yugoslavia to purchase U. S. films. Under this program, U. S. film companies, after signing contracts with the U. S. Information Agency, accept payment in the currency of Yugoslavia with the U. S. Government guaranteeing conversion of certain amounts of this currency into dollars.

In October 1957 it was reported that a new Yugoslav Film Law established a playing time quota of 10 per cent of the screen time for showing of Yugoslav films. In addition, a theatre cannot terminate a showing date of a domestic picture unless attendance is below 40 per cent of a theatre's seating capacity for three consecutive days.

CANADA

United States motion pictures enter Canada and are distributed throughout all the provinces without quota or exhibition restrictions. Canadian distributors are permitted to remit to the United States produces the net profits on rentals and royalties, less a withholding tax of 10 per cent. Import licenses or exchange permits are not required.

SOUTH AMERICA

ARGENTINA—There are no restrictions on the transfer of United States film earnings from Argentina. An agreement was announced early in 1958 whereby United States distributors would observe a 200-feature release quota for the year beginning April 1, 1959. This agreement has been renewed each year without change. Imports of United States documentary films, short subjects, and newsreels are unrestricted.

The Argentine Government has for some years operated special programs of assistance for the domestic film industry. These include required showing of Argentine films, subsidies to producers, loans to producers, and annual prizes for best films. The following subsidies are paid to producers of Argentine films, with funds received from a 10 per cent admissions tax. During the first year of exhibition, producers of black and white films receive an amount equal to 20 per cent of gross receipts collected at all theatres exhibiting the film; producers of color films receive 30 per cent. During the second year, the amount received is 10 per cent and 15 per cent, respectively.

By Government decree, the first-run theatres are required to show an Argentine film one week out of 13 weeks of exhibition. The second-run theatres must show an Argentine film one week out of four weeks of exhibition. The Institute is authorized to make loans to film producers up to 50 per cent of the cost of the production. The premiums for the best films of the year have a real importance to the industry as they are comparatively generous.

BOLIVIA—Import licenses are not required for motion pictures going into Bolivia. Foreign exchange for importation of motion pictures is obtained in the free market.

BRAZIL—Brazil, as a market for U. S. motion pictures, continues to rate high. No special restrictions are imposed on the entry of United States films. In January 1960, the Foreign Trade Department (CACEX) of the Bank of Brazil issued a regulation to the effect that one copy (master or lavender) of black and white feature films could be imported without exchange cover. A similar regulation was issued on color films but was not strictly enforced until February 1, 1961. The effect of these regulations is to discourage the importation of positive prints and to induce the processing of all such prints in Brazilian laboratories. Since 1957, all United States film earnings have been remitted at the free market rate of exchange.

Beginning January 1, 1962, the Federal Government announced that it would resume the control of censorship of motion pictures in all the territory of the nation. Prior to this, the various states had control over censorship of films in their own areas.

In January 1959, a decree was issued raising the admission price ceiling. The decree provided freedom from price controls for special category (showcase) theatres and established new maximums for first category theatres at 30 cruzeiros, for second category theatres at 22 cruzeiros, and for third category theatres at 15 cruzeiros. Prior to this decree the price ceilings were 18 cruzeiros for "scope" pictures and 12 cruzeiros for standard prints. (In December 1962, at the free market rate, about 460 cruzeiros equal U. S. $1.00.)

Playing time regulations were established in December 1959 by governmental decree. This decree stated that all theatres in Brazil are obliged to exhibit national (Brazilian) feature films during 42 days per year, including 14 days in each four-month period and in this total two Saturdays and two Sundays.

BRITISH GUIANA—No special restrictions are imposed on the entry of United States motion pictures into British Guiana and no serious import problems have been encountered. While dollar exchange is in short supply, it is believed that sufficient foreign exchange is made available to permit the importation of enough U. S. films to supply the market.

CHILE—No special restrictions are imposed on the entry of United States motion pictures into Chile. Import licenses are not required. While difficulties concerning film remittances were encountered during 1962, at the end of the year it was reported that a satisfactory arrangement had been worked out and dollar remittances were being made.

COLOMBIA—There are no quota measures in effect which reduce or prevent distribution of United States motion pictures in Colombia. Import permits are required but distributors of U. S. films have no difficulty in obtaining them. Since 1957, all United States film earnings have been remittable at the free market rate of exchange.

ECUADOR—No trade restrictions prevent or restrict the distribution of United States films in Ecuador. Import permits are required, but are issued freely. Foreign exchange for film remittances is obtained in the legal free market.

PARAGUAY—Import licenses are not required for motion picture films; however, an exchange permit must be obtained from the Central Bank of Paraguay. Since 1957 all United States film earnings have been remittable at the free market rate of exchange.

PERU—Motion pictures may be entered into Peru without license or authorization of any kind. The status of remittances of film earnings remains unchanged. Foreign exchange for remittances of film earnings since August 1948 must be obtained in the free market.

SURINAM—No special restrictions are imposed on the entry of United States films into Surinam. Import licenses are required and this license carries the right to foreign exchange. Exchange is available to permit importation of sufficient films to supply the market.

URUGUAY—At the end of 1959 it was announced that imports of motion pictures into Uruguay would be free from restrictions. Import licenses would not be required and foreign exchange for remittance of film earnings would be available at the free market rate of exchange.

VENEZUELA—There are no restrictions on the importation of United States films into Venezuela or the transfer of foreign exchange in payment of such imports.

MEXICO AND CENTRAL AMERICA

MEXICO—An import permit is required for motion picture films going into Mexico; however, United States film companies have encountered no difficulty in this respect. Earnings of foreign films in Mexico may be remitted freely.

The Mexican Government imposes a ceiling price of four pesos (32 cents) on motion picture theatre admission prices. In 1961 there were reports that the Mexican Government would grant permission for a few theatres to exhibit wide-screen productions at higher admission prices. Several pictures of this type are now being exhibited in Mexico.

A new motion picture law was introduced in the Mexican Congress in November 1960, but was not acted on before the congress adjourned at the end of the year. It was expected that a law would be introduced again when congress reconvened in September 1961, but at the end of 1962 there were no reports of any action taken with regard to new legislation.

COSTA RICA—No quota or contingent measures are in effect in Costa Rica that might interfere with the showings of United States films. There are no restrictions limiting the transfer of foreign exchange, however, all exchange must be obtained in the free market.

EL SALVADOR—There are no trade restrictions designed to reduce or prevent the distribution of United States films in El Salvador. Import permits are not required, and no difficulty is encountered in the transfer of foreign exchange.

GUATEMALA—Import permits are not required and there are no foreign exchange restrictions that might hamper the distribution of United States films in Guatemala.

HONDURAS—Import permits are not required and there are no foreign exchange restrictions that might hamper the distribution of United States films.

NICARAGUA—Importation of motion pictures into Nicaragua has remained unrestricted. Import permits are required. There are no foreign exchange restrictions which might hamper the distribution of United States films in Nicaragua.

PANAMA—Import permits are not required. United States currency is the medium of exchange in Panama and there are no restrictions prohibiting or limiting the transfer of funds.

CUBA—In January 1961, the United States broke off diplomatic relations with the revolutionary Government of Cuba, and the future of the motion picture trade with that country is uncertain. It is not believed that any new United States films are entering Cuba or that United States film companies are receiving any remittances of film earnings.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC — No restrictions on importation of films or transfer of foreign exchange.

HAITI—There are no restrictions on the importation of motion picture films into Haiti. Haiti has no exchange controls; its currency, the Gourde, has been fully convertible at 5 Gourdes to the dollar for over 40 years.

AFRICA

ALGERIA—Normally, all United States films are sent first to France for dubbing and then brought into Algeria. United States film earnings have been either deposited locally or remitted to France. This practice may be changed in the future, as Algeria obtained its independence as of July 2, 1962. At present, import permits are not required for films imported from France, but would be required for imports from other countries.

ANGOLA—There are no governmental regulations in Angola tending to restrict or hinder the presentation of films, distributors state that no difficulties are encountered in obtaining permits. Since the great majority of imported films are received from Lisbon film distributors, foreign exchange presents no problem, as all payments are made in Portuguese escudos. A few films are received from South Africa.

CONGO, REPUBLIC OF THE (Leopoldville)—Import licenses are required for motion pictures going into the Congo and the import license carries with it the right to foreign exchange. However, since the achievement of Congolese independence, trading conditions in this market have been very uncertain. It appears that there will be a difficult period ahead for the movie houses until the internal situation in the Congo becomes more stable.

EAST AFRICA (Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, and Zanzibar)—The importation of motion picture films from the United States is under open general license. It is believed that films are imported into Kenya and circulated throughout Uganda, Tanganyika, and Zanzibar without restriction or payment of extra duties. There is no difficulty in transferring film earnings.

ETHIOPIA—Import permits are not required for motion pictures going into Ethiopia and although licenses are required for the transfer of foreign exchange, no difficulties have been experienced in securing dollars to pay for United States films.

GHANA—Import licenses are required for motion pictures being brought into Ghana. It is believed that licensing is required to facilitate censorship control and to place films under a maximum foreign exchange quota. Most films, including United States pictures, come from distributors in the United Kingdom. Before films can be shown, they must be passed by the Cinematographic Board of Review. Theatre operators are assigned a quota expressed in dollars, and may bring in as many United States films as their dollars will buy. As far as can be ascertained, this quota system has not proved burdensome to United States film distributors.

GUINEA—An import license is required from the State Trading Agency for motion pictures entering Guinea. It is believed that most United States films enter Guinea from France and are paid for in French francs.

IVORY COAST—Import licenses are required for motion pictures entering Ivory Coast. It is believed that United States films are brought into the country from France and are paid for in French francs.

LIBERIA — Import permits are not required, and there are no restrictions on the transfer of foreign exchange.

LIBYA — In December 1960, motion picture films were placed under import control licensing. The unit of currency is the Libyan pound, which is at par with the pound sterling. In September 1960, a decree was issued prohibiting the showing of foreign-language films in Tripolitania, unless they contain Arabic subtitles and explanations.

MALAGASY, REPUBLIC OF—Import licenses are required for motion pictures imported from countries other than France and for which foreign exchange is allocated for payment. Most films, including United States films, are usually imported from France and are paid for in francs.

MALI, REPUBLIC OF—An import license is required for motion pictures entering the Mali Republic. It is believed that most films, including those from the United States, are brought into the Republic from France with payment made in French francs.

MOROCCO—Foreign exchange is controlled by the Moroccan Government. Film earnings during the last half of 1960 were blocked. However, as the result of negotiations between United States film industry representatives and the Moroccan Government, an agreement was worked out for the transfer of 1960 and 1961 film earnings. It has been the practice, in past years, to import films from France with film earnings being transferred to Paris. This practice may be changed with future transactions being made directly with film companies in the United States.

In December 1960, the Minister of Information and Tourism announced that after January 1, 1961, all newsreel films would be prepared in Morocco, using the facilities of the Moroccan Motion Picture Center. The Minister also stated that all foreign films shown in Morocco must have Arabic subtitles if they are not already dubbed in the Arabic language and that future dubbing for all films to be shown in Morocco should be accomplished by the Moroccans themselves. Films dubbed in French must have Arabic subtitles.

The Moroccan Government appears to have a twofold purpose in these new regulations. The first is to develop and expand the Moroccan motion picture industry and the second is to encourage foreign film companies to make greater use of Moroccan film production facilities.

MOZAMBIQUE — Import permits are required. Film distributors have had no difficulty obtaining film, since most films come from South Africa, and payment for their rental fees is South African pounds. In those few cases, where dollar payments were required, exchange has been made available.

NIGERIA — Films are imported into Nigeria from the dollar area under open general license, and dollars may be made available for remittances. There have been no serious problems reported during the past year regarding importation or exhibition of United States films in Nigeria.

RHODESIA AND NYASALAND, FEDERATION OF — The importation of exposed motion picture films from sterling areas and dollar areas in under open general license. There are no currency restrictions.

SENEGAL, REPUBLIC OF — Import licenses are required for motion pictures entering Senegal. It is believed that most films, including those from the United States, are brought into Senegal from France with payment made in French francs.

SOMALI REPUBLIC—Import licenses are required for motion pictures entering Somali, and there are foreign exchange restrictions. United States and Italian films predominate the market. It is believed that most of the United States films are supplied from Rome distributors and are dubbed into the Italian language.

SOUTH AFRICA, REPUBLIC OF—Under the import licensing system in operation in South Africa, distributors of United States films are permitted freely to import their product under open general license and are allowed to remit their earnings.

SUDAN—Motion picture films are under open general license in Sudan; however, the importer must first register the commodity with the Ministry of Commerce. Approval of the Ministry of Commerce is necessary before the importer can enter into a firm contract with the foreign supplier. It is also necessary to have approval before foreign exchange can be made available. The Ministry of Commerce may refuse to register the films on the basis that the price is too high or for commercial policy reasons. There is no difficulty in transferring film earnings.

TUNISIA—Import permits are required for all importations involving foreign currency. In past years, practically all United States films entered Tunisia from France without import permits and were paid for in francs. This practice may be changed with future transactions being made directly with film companies in the United States.

In July 1960, it was announced that the Tunisian National Assembly had passed a new Cinema Code establishing a fund for the development of the Tunisian film industry. Revenue for this fund was to be derived from taxes levied on theatre admissions and from a new tax levied on release visas. The showing of films in Tunisia is subject to the acquisition of a visa issued by the Secretary of State for Information. The tax levied on release visas was at the rate of 25 millimes (about 6 cents) per meter for new films and 10 millimes (about 2.4 cents) per meter for visas to re-issue films more than two years old.

After strong protest by the United States film distributors, as well as French and Italian distributors, the United States withdrew from the market in November 1960 and ceased exporting new films to Tunisia. This matter was resolved in April 1961 and United States films again entered the market. The United States film companies agreed to pay the tax in full through the first half of 1961 after which it would be progressively reduced until entirely removed by 1965. The first stage in the cut, from 25 to 20 millimes, became effective July 1, 1961.

UNITED ARAB REPUBLIC (EGYPT)—The Egyptian Government has no import quotas limiting the number of foreign films which may be imported. United States film companies are granted a blanket import license, which reportedly permits about 280 United States films to be imported annually.

Problems have been encountered in recent years with regard to the transfer of film earnings. At the end of 1961, it was reported that United States film companies had a considerable sum blocked in Egypt. Negotiations were carried on throughout 1962 between U. S. film companies and the Egyptian Government, regarding this blocked fund problem, and at the end of 1962 it was reported that, although some remittances had been approved, there was still a sizeable amount of U. S. film funds blocked in Egypt.

An Egyptian law requires that one week out of each four months playing time be reserved for the showing of Arabic films. The largest and most modern studio, Studio Misr, was nationalized in 1961 and is operated under the supervision of the Ministry of Culture and National Guidance. Another studio has recently been bought by the Ministry of War. The Egyptian Government, in 1962, discussed with independent film producers and distributors the provisions of a draft law, which would authorize the Government to exercise control over the production and distribution of Egyptian-produced films. It has been reported that very few of the Egyptian-produced films have been profitable to the producers.

SOUTH PACIFIC, ASIA, AND THE EAST

AUSTRALIA—Import permits are required for motion picture films, however, there are no restrictions on the number of films to be imported. Since 1957 film earnings have been freely transferable. In New South Wales distributors are required to distribute a number of Australian films equal to three percent of the total number of films distributed, and exhibitors are required to exhibit 2.5 percent Australian films and 15 percent British films. When it is not economically feasible to maintain this quota the restriction is waived and in practice the quotas do not work any hardship on the distribution of U. S. films.

BURMA—For several years the United States film industry was allocated import permits from the Burmese Government under a quota permitting

2,100,000 feet of exposed film (about 225 features) to be licensed annually. While we have no information as to allocations for 1962, it is believed that sufficient United States films are being imported to meet the Burmese market requirements. Film remittances are reported to be virtually free, subject only to licensing arrangements with the National Bank of Burma. A screen quota is in effect directing Burmese theatres to show Burmese films for 60 days a year.

CAMBODIA—Licenses are required for the importation of motion picture films into Cambodia. While the transfer of foreign exchange is controlled by the Government, it is believed that foreign exchange is available for the importation of United States film. There have been no reports of serious difficulties with respect to transfer of foreign exchange.

In August, 1959 a new tariff was announced which increased the duty on exposed motion picture films from about 15,000 riels for an average film of 3,000 meters in length to 45,000 riels for such a feature (35 riels equals U.S. $1.00). In spite of protests on the part of the United States companies, this new tariff is still in effect.

CEYLON—United States films are under an open general license in Ceylon and may be imported without an individual license. There are no import quotas. All films are censored by a Board of Film Censors. No censor fee is charged. Exchange controls are in effect in Ceylon, however, remittances of film earnings are not restricted providing prior approval of the Controller of Exchange has been obtained.

CHINA (Mainland)—The communist regime has complete control of production, distribution, and exhibition of motion picture films in all areas of the mainland of China. No new United States films have been imported into this area for several years and there are no indications that United States films will be imported in the near future.

FIJI ISLANDS—Most films shown in the Fiji Islands are imported from New Zealand and payments is made in New Zealand pounds. Films imported directly from the United States would be subject to license requirements applicable to imports from hard currency areas.

FORMOSA (Taiwan)—Formosa has a film import quota limiting the number of films to be imported. Trade sources report that the 1961-62 quota was set at 420 feature films, with 260 being allocated to the United States. Remittances of film earnings are set at 70 per cent of net profits with 30 per cent to be retained by film distributors for use in Taiwan. In February 1960, the Government of Taiwan removed controls on theatre admission prices and exhibitors are now free to set their own prices.

HONG KONG—Import permits are not required for motion pictures going into Hong Kong. A quota has been set up whereby theatres are required to show British films seven days during each quota period of 70 days. This quota has not been strictly adhered to because of the insufficient supply of British films. There are no measures that make it mandatory to show Hong Kong-produced films. No limitations are placed on the amount of foreign exchange transferred for motion pictures.

INDIA—Because of monetary exchange difficulties, imports of foreign films into India have been restricted. The annual quota for established importers of foreign films has continued at 10 per cent of their best year's imports during the base period April 1951-March 1953. United States film companies, however, have been granted a special quota by virtue of a series of agreements between the Motion Picture Export Association of America and the Government of India. For the two years ending March 1962, this quota was set at 55 per cent, contingent on the repatriation to their parent companies only such amounts of net box-office receipts annually as are determined by the Indian Government. It is believed that this agreement has been extended for another two-year period. Earnings in excess of that permitted to be remitted are blocked.

INDONESIA — The Indonesian Government established import quotas for motion pictures in 1955. For the year ending August 31, 1961, the quota was set at 425 feature films, with 150 allocated to the United States. For the year ending August 31, 1962, the quota was set at 416, with 131 allocated for United States films.

Remittances of United States film earnings have been a difficult problem for the past several years. It is believed, however, that special arrangements have been worked out regarding remittances of film earnings. Playing-time regulations require all theatres to show Indonesian feature films for one week out of every month, if available.

JAPAN—Conditions governing the importation of films into Japan and the transfer of film earnings have eased considerably in the past few years. In September 1960, unremittable (blocked) film funds totalled about $4.2 million, but by January 1962 this figure had been reduced to about $1.4 million. The Japanese Government has established remittance rates for film earnings as follows: For United States films imported under a percentage rental system, the remittance shall be limited to 50 per cent of distribution income when the non-resident's share of the receipts is not more than 60 per cent, and to 40 per cent when more than 60 per cent. For film imported under a flat rental system, the basic price is set at $35,000 per picture.

There are still restrictions on the number of films that may be imported into Japan. The regular quota for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1962 was fixed at 231 feature films; 113 being assigned to member companies of the Motion Picture Export Association of America (MPEAA) and 118 import licenses to be distributed to Japanese importer-distributors and independent United States film companies. The same basic import quota was continued for the year ending March 31, 1963.

The limitation on the number of prints of each feature film to be imported has been set at 25 prints and the period during which the U. S. films may be commercially exhibited in Japan is fixed at seven years after importation.

In past years, the United States film companies made sizeable long-term loan agreements with the Japanese Government from their blocked film funds. These loans, in the total amount of about $18,000,000 were to be payable in semi-annual installments after three years had elapsed. The first of these loans was negotiated in 1955, a second in 1957, and the last in 1958.

KOREA—There are no arrangements in Korea by which foreign films may be imported by branch offices of United States film companies. Foreign films may be imported only by Korean films. Films are imported into Korea as any other commodity, with dollars being made available for payment by the Bank of Korea. United States films are sold to Korean distributors for a flat amount.

The Government of Korea continues to maintain a limitation on the number of foreign films which may be imported. During 1961 the quota was set at 84, while during the first half of 1962 it was reported as 50. Import licenses are allocated to Korean importers with no designation as to country of origin of the films.

NEW ZEALAND—New Zealand law makes it mandatory for film distributors to acquire British films to the extent of not less than 20 per cent of the number of foreign feature films exhibited. There are no restrictions prohibiting or limiting the transfer of foreign exchange for films. Import permits are required, but are freely granted. There is no customs duty, as such, on imported films; however, there is a Film Hire Tax which is assessed on the net receipts derived from the exhibition of foreign films in New Zealand. With respect to United States films imported into New Zealand, the Film Hire Tax is levied at the rate of 15 per cent of 60 per cent of such net receipts.

PAKISTAN—Import permits are required for motion picture films and the transfer of foreign exchange is controlled by the Government of Pakistan. The agreement between the Government of Pakistan and the Motion Picture Export Association of America for the year ending September 30, 1962 provided that the number of feature films imported by member companies of the Association would not exceed 210 and the transfer of film earnings was limited to 840,000 rupees. (One rupee equals about 21 cents in U. S. currency.) It is believed that this agreement was renewed for the year ending September 30, 1963.

In October 1960, the Government of Pakistan invited U. S. motion picture films to be imported from independent companies, not members of MPEAA. It is not believed that films imported under this arrangement will exceed 25 each year.

PHILIPPINES—United States films enter the Philippines without restriction and there are no limitations placed on the transfer of film earnings. Early in 1962 the Government announced a decontrol program and film earnings are now freely remitted at the free market rate which, at the end of 1962, was about 3.9 pesos to the U. S. dollar.

SINGAPORE AND MALAYA—Import permits are not required for motion pictures in either Signapore or Malaya. However, in Signapore, prior approval of the Official Film Center must be obtained before films may be released. During 1959 legislation was enacted empowering the Minister of Home Affairs to impose screen quotas; however, no action in this respect had been taken at the end of the year. The 10 percent screen quota devoted to British films was abolished during 1959. No difficulty has been reported with respect to remittance of film earnings from Singapore or Malaya.

In 1956, a duty was imposed by the Federation of Malaya on motion picture films imported from Singapore. Prior to this, distributors of U. S. films shuttled film prints back and forth between Singapore and Malaya to fill bookings in both places.

THAILAND—Import permits are not required for motion pictures imported into Thailand, and there are no restrictions on the transfer of foreign exchange covering film imports. Exchange for film remittances is obtained at the open market rate of exchange, which is now the only prevailing rate of exchange in Thailand.

VIET NAM—Import licenses for motion pictures are required. Because of the dollar shortage, the United States Government established an Informational Media Guaranty Program in the amount of $1,000,000 for the year beginning October 1956. This amount has been reduced through the years and during the past two years has been set at $200,000. United States film companies, after signing contracts with the U. S. Information Agency, accept payment in the currency of Viet Nam with the U. S. Government guaranteeing conversion into dollars of an amount established in the Program. Earnings in excess of this Guaranty Program would be blocked in Viet Nam.

ADEN—Aden, as a British Crown Colony, imports United States films from sterling countries and payment for the films is in sterling. There have been no reports of problems regarding the importation and exhibition of United States films in this Colony.

AFGHANISTAN—There are no restrictions imposed by the Afghan Government on the importation or exhibition of motion picture films. No import or quota regulations are in force. The problem of transferring foreign exchange does not arise as all films are obtained through distributors in India, Pakistan, and Egypt and are paid for in the currency of the country from which they are imported.

IRAN—While import and exchange controls are still in effect in Iran, United States film companies have not encountered serious difficulties in importing their films or in the remittance of foreign exchange.

IRAQ—Import licenses are required for motion picture going to Iraq; however, no difficulty has been reported in obtaining licenses. Iraq has maintained a liberal import program for dollar items and no serious problems have been reported regarding the transfer of foreign exchange. In 1961 all imports were put into two categories: "Allowed" imports and "Prohibited" imports. A list of prohibited items was released, and motion picture films were not included in the list.

ISRAEL—Import permits are required for motion pictures going into Israel; however, no quantitative restrictions are in effect. It is believed that United States film companies are transferring their earnings on a regular basis, without any serious difficulties being encountered.

The Israeli Government passed a law in July 1954 requiring all movie showings of 90 minutes or longer in length to include an Israeli-produced newsreel, and that all exhibitors must show a minimum of four hours of other types of Israeli-produced film each year. Israel has two domestic newsreel companies. Exhibitors are presumably free to schedule the showing of two newsreels—one produced in Israel and one foreign—if they so desire.

JORDAN—Jordan, a small country with a population of about 1,700,000, is a relatively good market for United States motion pictures. The number of motion picture theatres operating in the country continues to grow. At the end of 1962 there were 45 compared to only 37 at the end of 1960. At present, the motion picture industry faces no competition from television and there are no foreign exchange or import licensing problems for films coming into the country.

LEBANON—Import permits are required for motion picture films entering Lebanon. Foreign exchange is available to remit film earnings and no known obstacles exist which discourage entry and exhibition of U. S. films. Lebanese law requires that all foreign films projected in Lebanon have a customs visa, censorship clearance, and Arabic subtitles.

SYRIA—Import permits are required for motion pictures going into Syria. Syrian law requires that representation of foreign firms in Syria be in the hands of Syrian nations. Foreign exchange for the importation of motion picture films is available. Currency control regulations permit importers of foreign motion pictures to pay for rental of the films in foreign exchange up to a limit of 60 percent of the net revenue of each film.

CANADA
A DISTINCT IMPROVEMENT

By HYE BOSSIN
Editor
Canadian Film Weekly

THE HOPEFUL ACTIVITY OF 1961 in the Canadian motion picture industry turned into a distinct improvement in that all the circuits say that the decline in attendance is at a lower rate than it has been in recent years. It must be remembered that since 1953, when the effects of TV were first beginning to be felt, admissions to Canadian theatres, as recorded by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, have dropped about 40 per cent.

DBS figures reveal the degree of shrinkage. In 1953 the record national gross for theatres was recorded — $108,603,966. In 1960 it had shrunk to $72,294,344, both figures being exclusive of amusement taxes, which are applied by province and municipality and not the federal government.

In 1952, the year the government-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corp. began offering TV, the trade hung up an all-time attendance record of 261,475,867 admissions and in 1960 this was down to 117,734,361. Both gross and attendance figures continued their decline in 1961 and 1962.

In 1954 the number of theatres began to drop. At that time it was 2,813 and in 1960 1,659. Canadian Film Weekly figures show that in 1961 there were 1,618 35 mm. houses, of which 236 were drive-ins. In 1962 there were 1,591 35 mm. situations, of which 243 were drive-ins. Thus, though the total declined by 27, drive-ins increased by seven. During 1962, 50 theatres closed, of which four were drive-ins, compared with 77 in 1961, of which three were drive-ins.

ASPECTS OF EXHIBITION

Taxes: In Canada the amusement tax is not federal but provincial or municipal and exhibitors have been successful in winning reductions in what Frank H. Fisher, vice-president and general manager of The Odeon Theatres (Canada) Ltd., calls "blood money." The various governments get more profit out of the box office as a total than the theatres do and without any investment, he claimed.

Associations and exhibitors acting independently are beginning to show results in their fight for lower realty taxes, business assessments and license fees. They want civic councils, government departments and assessors to take into account the depressed state of the theatre business. In some provinces, as well as in some communities, the per-seat license fee has been replaced with a flat charge, saving the exhibitor much money. This also ends an old form of discrimination.

The Motion Picture Theatres Association of Ontario, a province in which a one-purpose building can't get a stoppage of the assessment tax or a rebate for the period vacant, is fighting for theatres to be declared eligible. The government insists that a theatre is a one-purpose building as long as the seats aren't removed. The person with a dark theatre says removing them is a costly process and he shouldn't have to do that to be eligible.

Small-gauge drive-ins: Another interesting aspect of Canadian exhibition is the growth of 16mm. drive-ins, there being eight now. There are also a number of successful 16mm. art theatres in large centres.

Immigration: About 25 per cent of Canada's population is the result of post-war immigration—Canada had a population of 12,292,000 in 1946 and it is now 18,683,000. To match this proportion the USA would need an increase of about 35,000,000 in population. Without the immigrant, who gravitates toward the general theatres when he can grasp enough English, there would have been an even greater decline in attendance.

Films such as "The Ten Commandments" and "Ben-Hur" are shown in Canada in English, French and Italian. There are quite a few cinemas playing non-art foreign films. And, of course, the full-time and part-time art houses, which now number between 25 and 30 and continue to increase, also draw on the pool of new Canadians.

Sunday movies: This year Sunday movies will spread out of Ontario, which got them last year, into other provinces. Winnipeg, Manitoba and Vancouver, British Columbia, which voted favorably in plebiscites, will have them. In Ontario 28 communities were added to the more than 100 that asked for them last year, while 16 declared against. The latter will have another chance as local exhibitors move for another plebiscite with a petition bearing the names of 10 per cent of the eligible voters.

Theatres Act revisions: With the use of safety film exhibitors have been pressing for revisions of the Theatres Acts of each province. These Acts, governing cinema operations, are stringent in application and demanding architecturally. Soon it will not be a major infraction to smoke in a projection booth. The Province of Ontario is in the process of revising its Theatres Act, 1953 and this will no doubt be an example for other provinces. It will mean lower building costs and lower insurance rates.

70*Mm. Houses*: Canada has about 20 70mm. houses.

Complaints: Complaints registered before the annual meeting of the Motion Picture Industry Council of Canada, an equivalent of the USA's Council of Motion Picture Organizations had to do with poor poster service, damaged and dark prints, unfair 16mm. competition by schools and churches showing features, and the need for a three-year protection clause against TV showings of features.

Theatre-TV: On Oct. 10, 1962, Telemeter a Paramount subsidiary with a pay-TV home service in the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke, moved into the heart of the city with bold experiment in theatre television which soon proved itself in a manner to indicate that exhibition might very well be reshaped by it in future years.

Using Eidophor equipment, it began presenting the 35 away-from-home games of the Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club in the 1,499-seat College Theatre on a 30-foot screen with clarity that matched the usual cinema projection. The games were offered on a seasonal subscription basis at a price of $2.50 each and quite a number were sold out through the addition of window business. Several important fights, offered at a $5 top, ran from capacity to two-thirds.

It was found that most of the business for the hockey games and the fights were right from the neighborhood. This means that the attraction power would be the same in any neighborhood of the city.

Sixtieth Anniversary: This year, the Canadian Motion Picture Industry celebrates its 60th anniversary, which is based on the opening of the Electric Theatre in Vancouver by the late John Schuberg in the autumn of 1902 as the first permanent installation. The Canadian Picture Pioneers is holding luncheons in major cities with notables and the press invited.

Showman of the Year: An award with that title will be made by the Motion Picture Industry Council of Canada for the best campaigns.

DISTRIBUTION

Central Shipping, introduced by the Adlemans of Philadelphia, made much progress last year.

A number of distribution companies dealing with art and other films began business. Seven Arts Productions, a Canada-based company, established its own distribution company to deal with the Canadian trade.

The Province of Ontario ruled that films and videotapes were exempt from the recently-begun three per cent sales tax, bringing a sigh of relief.

Suggestion in the report to the delegates from the Association of Motion Picture Producers and Laboratories of Canada at the MPICC that a tariff on features would help foster Canadian production was a shocker. The AMPPLC delegates agreed to go no further with it providing there were some meetings on the subject with other MPICC-affiliated associations.

A resolution condemning arbitrary film censorship was passed by the MPICC, which also protested against censor boards being used to earn revenue.

Canada still has about five per cent of nitrate prints, these coming from Pacific areas. Every effort to eliminate nitrate film will be made.

PRODUCTION

Canadian production, mainly non-theatrical, showed a slight increase in dollar value because the federal government placed a duty on TV commercials made in the USA. Some USA film makers came to Canada. A suggestion that a similar step be taken for features has been made, as previously reported.

One feature, "Ten Girls Ago," was made in Toronto in 1962 by Am-Can Productions, which is headed by Ed Gollin of New York, who launched a public issue of stock. With Bert Lahr, Buston Keaton and Eddie Foy in the cast, it was placed with Universal for release. Exteriors for "Big Red" were shot by Disney in Quebec during 1961 and the same company did much of its work on "The Incredible Journey" near Toronto in 1962. Late in 1962 Larry Matanski, who produced "Wings of Chance," a Universal release, in Alberta, began work on "The Naked Flame." Taylor - Roffman Productions of Toronto, which made "The Bloody Brood" and "The Mask," announced that it will produce "The Well" in the Canadian West.

JAPAN

TOKYO

IF 1962 WAS the Year of the Tiger (in keeping with the Sino-Japanese tradition of naming each annum after the year of an animal – "Year of the Hare," etc.) then in many ways he was a very virile and active quadruped. For although admission totals fell, estimated box office receipts were up 3,107,000,000 yen (approx. $8,630,556) and distribution earnings of the U.S. majors at 5,862,230,438 yen (approx. $16,283,973) showed an increase of 927,360,919 yen ($2,576,003) over the 1961 figures of 4,934,869,519 yen ($13,707,970.89). Resurgence of the MPEA companies continued the comeback noted in this space last year and returned them near their 1954-55 neighborhood of $21 million. In addition, distribution revenue from imported pictures (other than those brought in by the U.S. majors) rose to an estimated 4,440,564,769 yen (approx. $12,334,902) from the previous year's figure of 3,889,927,000 yen (approx. $10,805,353).

NATIONAL BOX OFFICE

Official figures for January-October were given as 64,419,000,000 yen (62,720,240,000 yen for same period of 1961) with those for November-December estimated at 11,681,000,000 yen against 9,280,000,000 yen, for a grand total of 76,100,000,000 yen against 72,993,000,000 yen.

Estimated admissions for the year totaled 670,000,000, down from the 1961 estimate of 867,000,000. Average cost of admission during 1962 was Yen 108.25, as compared to Yen 84.55 in 1961 and Yen 62.02 in 1957.

DOMESTIC

In calendar 1962, Japan produced 375 features, compared with the previous year's total of 535. Drop-off reflected the greater emphasis on quality over quantity and the absence from the production scene of Shintoho (the company folded due to financial reasons in late 1961). For the first time, color production at 199 exceeded that for b&w, 176. Features produced were divided as follows: 295 modern (78.7%), 80 customers (21.3%). Total length of features produced was 897,548 meters, or an average of 2,393 meters per feature. Average length was 150 meters (or 12.6 minutes) longer than that of the average feature produced in 1961.

Features released totaled 402, including 27 revivals. Five co-productions were filmed: Toho's "Star of Hongkong" and "Three Gentlemen From Tokyo" (both with MP&IG, Hongkong), Daiei's "The Great Wall (Central Motion Picture Corp., Taiwan), Nikkatsu's "Bridge Over Quemoy (C.M.P.C., Taiwan), Okura's "Broken Coffin" (China Film, Taiwan).

Increasing interest in co-productions reflects the Japanese industry's desire to boost exports through utilizing overseas locations, also to insure distribution in the co-production country. Locationers during 1962 included Shochiku's "Near That Wall" (Thailand and Cambodia) and "On the Horizon" (Hongkong and Amoy), while others were tentatively scheduled. During 1962, production costs for an 8,000-foot feature increased from 5-15% over the 1961 estimates of Yen 33,160,000 (approx. $92,111) for b&w and Yen 38,290,000 (approx. $106,361) for color. The Japanese Producers Association—Eiren—decided during the year to handle all future co-prod. agreements wth foreign countries on a national scale, rather than by UniJapan Film, the latter's role being changed to one of liaison, mediation and promotion.

EXPORTS

Sale of Japanese films abroad earned an estimated $3,710,000, as compared to the 1961 estimate of $3,240,612. However, the total was below the announced target of $4,550,000, due largely to the political atomosphere prevailing in Taiwan and Indonesia. More films were exported on percentage deals, with flat sales dropping from 80% to 50% of all exports. The government had been requested to conduct market research surveys to boost sales. Estimates show that 1,648 prints of features, 149 shorts and 427 newsreels were exported. Principal markets: Okinawa, U.S., Brazil, Hongkong, Taiwan, Thailand and other Southeast Asian countries.

IMPORTS

During the year, 228 imported features were released. Principal suppliers: U.S. 135, Italy 25, France 24, U.K. 20, U.S.S.R. 8, Germany 6, Sweden 2, Mexico, Poland, Yugoslavia, Czeckoslovakia, Argentina, Spain, Hongkong and Korea—all one each. The total included six in 70mm, 120 in color, and 33 re-imports. Estimated distribution earnings for all imports were given as Yen 11,027,238,219 (approx. $30,631,217). An estimated 5% of all ports are dubbed in Japanese, the remaining 95% subtitled for Nippon release.

The eight MPEA companies were given a total of 107 licenses, broken down as follows: Allied Artists, 7; Columbia, 11; M-G-M, 17; Paramount, 16; 20th-Fox, 15; United Artists, 12; Universal, 13; Warner Bros., 16. Allocations to other importer-distributors: RKO, 15; Daiei, 9; Okura Eiga, 7; Eihai, 14; Nippon Herald, 20; Italifilm, 11; Shingaiei, 6; Shochiku-Select, 9; Shoei, 7; Tokyu Bunka Kaikan, 3; Towa, 23.

The 1962 fiscal (starting April 1) policy on theatrical and TV imports remained essentially the same as in the previous year. Statistics for the first six months through September: $7,650,000 total budget, including $3,610,000 for films imported for percentage playoff and $2,120,000 for flat buys; $1,600,000 for TV films and $275,000 for newsreels, plus $40,000 for miscellaneous product. The second half (through March, 1963): $3,300,000 for percentage playoff, $4,689,600 for flat buys, $310,400 for television (latter two adjustable within limit, depending on buyers' positions); $49,000 for stage makeup, $546,975 for negative 35mm color stock, $1,054,409 for positive, including $222,281 for export prints, $34,650 for negative 16mm color stock, $115,965 for positive, $22,750 for intermediate.

Customs duty: Yen 30 per meter for 35mm product, Yen 50 per meter for 70mm.

Top imports during the year (grosses in Yen): "101 Dalmations" (234,770,000), "El Cid" (222,400,000), "Mondo Cane" (211,000,000), "Stagecoach" (171,000,000), "Blue Hawaii" (154,570,000), "Shane" (137,770,000), "Hatari" (122,300,000), "Man Who Shot Liberty Valance" (106,410,000), "Sergeants 3" (100,500,000), "Too Hot To Handle" (85,800,000), "My Darling Clementine" (82,000,000), "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon" (81,000,000), "Barabbas" (78,340,000), "The Hustler" (77,010,000), "L'Italian e Amour" (75,000,000). "Stagecoach," "Shane," "Clementine," "Yellow Ribbon" were re-issues.

EXHIBITION

Japan's 35mm theatre total fell to 6,636 at year-end, down 645 from the 1961 figure of 7,281. In addition, there were 72 theatres equipped for 70mm as of November 1, 1962. By far the largest number of Japan's theatres (4,621 or 69.7%) play only domestic features, while 745 (11.2%) play imports only and 1,270 (19%) play both domestic and imported pix.

The year saw some 10 theatres remodeled and opened as new houses, with a further 10-15 equipped for 70mm projection.

CENSORSHIP

Eiga Rinri Kitel (which roughly translates as Motion Picture Code of Ethics, abbreviated as Eirin) was originally modeled after the Hollywood industry's Production Code Administration and continues today as one of the most exemplary in the world, with its decisions generally acceptable to both trade and public. Eirin has a commissioner with three administrators and a reviewing board comprising 11 members who alternately screen domestic and imported product. The success of Eirin is attested by the fact that while rules and regulations provide for an appeals board when necessary, such has never been required. Review of motion picture imports by the Customs Division of the Japanese Finance Ministry has often mistakenly been referred to as censorship. Such scrutiny emanates from the Customs Law of 1910 which authorizes the inspection of all items intended to be imported into Japan and banning of imports which might violate public safety and morals. Thus, while all film imports are reviewed by customs, the intention is not to censor in the same context that film censorship is generally considered. In effect, films are only viewed to decide whether they could be deemed harmful and, by and large, film importers have few complaints against such review of their product.

Eirin screened 857 films (1,040 previous year), 619 trailers (against 826) and scrutinized 19,367 posters (against 22,492). The breakdown: 368 domestic films over 1,500 meters (522), 37 between 900-1,500 (48) and 200 under 900 (192). Imports totaled 220 over 1,500 meters (235), 11 between 900-1,500 (5) and 21 under 900 (38). Reissues or re-imports screened included eight domestic and seven foreign. Total of 382 Japanese trailers were reviewed (588 the year before) and 237 imports (238). Some 12,813 posters on domestic films were viewed (18,512 in 1961) and 6,544 on imports (4,340). No pictures were banned, though 16 domestic features and nine imports were severely cut. Nine domestic trailers and four shorts and one imported trailer also felt the censor's scissors. Major reasons for cuts: nudes, sex, excessive violence, national feelings. The board gave 15 domestic and six imports "adults only rating" and recommended 41 of the former and 14 of the latter "for youth."

EQUIPMENT

Imports of equipment remain small due to the active domestic industry which continues to cultivate markets worldwide. Japanese motion picture and TV equipment is generally of high standard, competitively priced, and incorporates newest developments through so-called "technical agreements" with U.S. and European companies.

The year saw a demonstration of Philips' color Eidophor, sponsored jointly by Victor Co. of Japan and Toei. Victor Sound Equipment Co. set a five-year expansion plan aimed at increasing domestic sales and exports.

Customs duty on imports is 20%. Unexposed raw stock is levied 30% for both 16mm and 35mm b&w and color. Exposed, but not processed, newsreel, is taxed Yen 10 per meter. Duty on features is Yen 5 per meter under 10 meters, Yen 25 per meter over 10 meters, and Yen 50 per meter over 50 meters.

FESTIVAL AWARDS

Daiei's "Wife Confessions" took best direction and best editing awards at the 9th Film Festival in Asia. Other awards at the same festival: Best b&w photography, best sound recording, Toho's "Sunjuro;" educational merit award, Toei's "Run, Genta, Run;" best planning non-dramatic category, Iwanami Productions' "Mammoth Tanker—Naess Sovereign;" best photography non-dramatic category, Toei educational department's "Life of Water Birds."

PERSONNEL CHANGES

The year saw Shiro Kido return to Shochiku as executive vice-president; the retirement of Shingaiei Distributing Co. president R. Pelica and director Andre Chevalier, with T. Katayama taking over the president's post, and the succession of Italifilm president Dr. Giulianna Stamigioli by Masafumi Soga. Suichi Yoshida, Daiei executive in charge of the foreign department, resigned March 10 and was succeeded by Sakigake Morita, with Hidemasa Nagata (son of the company president) taking over production reins. Harro v. Zeppelin replaced Edgar Snow as Westrex managing director, Snow returning to the parent company in the U.S. Julian Berman was named Columbia's Far East supervisor, while continuing duties as Japan general manager. Yoshi Itoh was named standing director in charge of sales, publicity and foreign division of Toei.

OBITUARY

Nobuo Metori, vice-president, Paramount Pictures Ltd. (Japan), died June 16 at Tokyo Cancer Clinic after illness of two years. Metori was the first Japanese national to head the operations of a U.S. film company after the war. He was appointed managing director in 1952, subsequently named v-p.

TELEVISION

Growth of TV in Nippon has been meteoric with the numbers of registered set owners skyrocketing from some 900 in February, 1953 to 13,611,940 as of December 31, 1962. The latter figure represented some 59.6% of total households, 84% of all city families. NHK government networks (107 stations transmitting general TV programs, 78 educational) at present reach an estimated 85% of all households. NHK-TV general network devotes some 38.9% of air time to social and cultural items, 25.4% to news and a similar percentage to entertainment, with the balance to sports and education. Commercial television has increased its share of the advertising market in a spectacular fashion, with latest figures (for 1961) indicating total advertising revenue for commercial outlets at Yen 53,900 million—up from Yen 400 million in 1954. Comparative figures for 1961 show newspapers accounting for total advertising appropriation of Yen 82,400 million, radio at Yen 17,800 million and magazines Yen 12,500 million. Commercial stations numbered 44, with three new outlets bowing in during the period under review (see trade lists).

Taking Tokyo's four commercial channels as a guide, 84.62% of a typical week's programing would be domestic, with the remaining 15.38% comprising imported product including newsreels. The week's 7,352 minutes telecasting breaks down to 6,221 minutes of domestic fare, 1,131 minutes imported. Some 95% of imported programs are dubbed into Japanese, with the other 5% subtitled. In a typical month the average day has 810 minutes of TV) the Japanese viewer would find his programs breaking down as follows: Amusements 10,193 minutes (40.6%), educational and cultural 8,669 minutes (34.5%), news 3,254 minutes (13%), sports 2,217 minutes (8.8%), advertising 199 minutes (.8%), others 588 minutes (2.3%). Sponsored programs account for 79.4%, with the sustained program total at 20.6%. An average month would see the telecasting of 1,633 spot commercials.

The television import policy for fiscal 1962 (starting April 1) remained basically the same as the previous year with no number limitation on series, but a proviso that they must be carried on a minimum of one Tokyo and one Osaka station. Total weekly expenditure for each network was not to exceed $8,000, excluding tax. However, stations were permitted to pay one-third more than the total cost of b&w programs for color, with other allocations possible for special programs. Global allocations for any length one-time programs: NHK governmental network, $184,800; four Tokyo stations, $33,600 each; four Osaka outlets, $25,200 each; two Nagoya stations, $14,200 each; three Kyushu stations, $11,200 each; two Hakkaido stations, $8,400 each; 26 other outlets, $4,200 each. Prices paid for half-hour telefilms averaged about $800 per episode, with foreign features going for about $1,000-$2,000. Customs duty on television imports is levied at a rate of Yen 25 per meter.

NHK has been experimenting with color transmissions since 1957, commenced tint telecasts in Tokyo and Osaka in 1960, and now has 16 experimental color outlets which transmit 1½ hours daily to an estimated 10,000 color receivers. However, because of technical and economic difficulties, it's likely to be some years before color becomes a medium for the masses. Current price of a 14-inch color set at Yen 200,000 is one good reason why. Tokyo's Channel 12, previously operated by U.S. Armed Forces, was returned to the Postal Ministry and the license granted to a promotional organization for JOTX-TV.

Kokusai Film Centre was formed to produce and distribute both domestic and imported TV pictures. Backers included former Nippon Radio chairman Kogoro Uemura and Kokusai Telephone and Telegraph president Keizo Shibuzawa. Summit Eiga was appointed to handle sales of NBC video product, with Pacific Television no longer responsible for sales policy and contracts.

NON-THEATRICAL

The upward trend in non-theatrical activities continued during 1962 with approximately 1,063 productions from some 147 companies. Contents range widely from public relations, personnel recruitment and training to documentaries of construction projects, national developments, etc. Films are also being utilized for higher grade school and adult education, vocational guidance, etc. Breakdown of the estimated production reveals 305 35mm films, a total of 844 reels, 794 16 mm films with 1,734 reels. Non-theatrical distribution is through 700 film libraries spread throughout the islands of Japan. Most are operated by public bodies and similar organizations, while a number of large-scale commercial libraries also contribute to the effective use of non-theatrical films. The entire film purchase fund amounted approximately to $1,000,000 and the total number of prints owned by these libraries would be about 60,000. A rough estimate places the number of projectors owned by schools and public organizations at around 13,000, but the fact that some 4,000 are sold each year indicates this total might well be far below the number actually in use.

Biggest national event of the non-theatrical field is the Educational Film Festival which takes place in Tokyo in October each year. In parallel with this festival, conferences of audio-visual specialists from all parts of the nation are held, principal topics being planned production and utilization of non-theatrical films. In the same week that the International Short Film Festival is held, each of 20 foreign countries contribute one film each via their embassies. These films are grouped into different programs and later circulated through main cities all over Japan.

Second most important event is the annual Contest for Cultural and Documentary Films on Japan for the purpose of introducing Japan and things Japanese abroad. Prints of prize-winning films are circulated through Japanese diplomatic and other organizations in foreign countries.

FUTURES

Japan's motion picture imports will be increased in fiscal 1963 by some 18%, preliminary to complete import liberalization in April, 1964. The 18 licensed importers (half of whom are foreign-capitalized) will receive a uniform increase of two films in the fiscal 1963 exchange allocation, while a further eight pictures may be imported by four foreign-capitalized and four local-capitalized importers to bring them in line with other firms. The standard import price of $35,000 per film will be retained, but this will no longer be the ceiling and limitations will not be imposed on import prices provided there is no clear evidence that buying power is being misused. The domestic depositing system (at the end of November, 1962 foreign film profits deposited in Nippon totaled about $1.3 million) was to be abolished as of April 1. The system was originally instituted to slow down the outflow of such profits.

The Japanese government will declare the country's transfer to the status of an International Monetary Fund Article 8 nation, with the announcement expected to be made before the scheduled IMF general meeting in Tokyo in September, 1963. Such a move would prohibit Japan from imposing exchange restrictions, currently controlled according to IMF Article 14 (permitting exceptions for imposing such restrictions). Although the domestic film industry has long gone on record as stating that film quotas are in no way related to protectionist objectives and that the entire issue was availability of foreign exchange, it may be that the domestic industry will reverse its policy when a freely convertible yen market is established. And while a free market is a basic concept of the international policy of MPEA, peculiarities of the Nippon market could demand a re-evaluation of this policy to make it consistent with local conditions. For example, the reliable estimate that 20% of the MPEA licenses accounted for the distribution revenue the eight companies earned during the present calendar period could indicate that even if the American companies had substantially more licenses, they would not necessarily turn in proportionately higher earnings. One conceivably valid reason for a domestic industry shift to a protectionist policy is the fact that total feature production in 1962 was some 26.5% below that of the previous year.

The new year is likely to see a stricter application of the industry's production code of ethics, following criticism of Daiei's "Onsen Geisha." Minimum admissions were to increase to Yen 300 for first-runs after February. Look for additional Cinerama installations in key Japan cities.

SPAIN

By DON JOSE MARIA GARCIA ESCUDERO
Director General of Cinematography and Theatre

MADRID

GENERAL

A. Business as regards motion pictures in 1962 followed more or less the same line as the year before. In the cinemas, we have not yet noticed that the public abstains from going to see pictures, although it has been noted in some places.

B. As box office control is still in a preparatory stage, it is very difficult to estimate the total receipts of cinemas in this country, and it is altogether impossible to determine the percentage corresponding to the national cinema, or to the foreign cinema. We estimate the total receipts of the Spanish box offices at around 3,100,000,000 pesetas.

C. Certain important modifications have taken place in the structure of the groups in charge of the censorship of pictures, the purpose being the speeding up of their functions, and above all, to obtain a wider opening within the moral principles by which it is inspired. The Junta de Censura (Board of Censors) has established some formulas of censorship, which (without going into detail) serve as an orientation as to how to apply it, as well as a guarantee for producers and distributors. Once these formulas have been examined by the principal sectors concerned (in the first place, by the industry of cinematography) they will be published, I hope, within a short time.

The objections raised by the censor to any pictures, mainly refer to the moral side, and here the main point always is the adaptation of pictures for adults and for young children, as there does not exist a cinema especially for young people. When some of the conditions concerning cinema for children are published, they will no doubt also influence the criterion of the censor which will then be able to give preference to the requirements of an adult audience, when the children have their own special cinema.

D. For 1963, we are foreseeing a revision (which might be considerable) of the status of our cinema in regard to the Governments plans for economic development. In any case, the next step to be taken will be to slightly increase the number of pictures for the national market in order to cover a possible decrease of public assistance to the cinema. The North American pictures are still considered to bring the best receipts for the box office, but they tend to decline due to the lack of good pictures as compared to those from other countries.

E. At the moment, the total number of cinemas is 8,875. Of these, 1,230 are non-commercial. In 1962, another 250 cinemas were opened. The total capacity of all cinemas is estimated at 5,400,000 seats, 248,000 of these in non-commercial cinemas.

The population of this country, is 31,000,000 in round figures. The seats in the commercial cinemas correspondent to permanent cinemas (3,525,000) and cinemas that open only for a season (1,627,000). The price of tickets has been the same since 1956 considering that any changes in the price of admission, which might have taken place since that time, were only minor ones.

DOMESTIC

A. Production

1. The number of pictures produced, all in Spanish language, is 73.

2. Their average cost of production is about Ptas. 5,000,000.

3. Of the 73 pictures, 29 are in color, 28 in Eastman Color, and one in Technicolor.

4. There were 17 co-productions, as follows:

6 Spanish-Argentinian: Halcon P.C. — Argentina Sono Films; Coral P.C.—Internacional P y C; Argentinas S.R.L.; Cop. C. Castilla — A. Mauricio, Forreter Agar; As Films—Produp. Tecuara; Visor Films—Angel L. Bellagamba; Castilla CC — Federico J. Aicardi, y Salvador Salias.

3 Spanish-Italian: Cinema Luvi—Ara Cinemat. SRL — Cinema Lombarda; Procusa — Cineproduzzione Ass; PC Benito; Perojo—Cia C. Mondiale.

2 Spanish-French-Italian: Balcazar—Finanziaria Films—Intercontinental; Agata Films—CSICC—Champion All.

1 Spanish-Mexican: Suevia Films—Filmex SA.

1 Spanish-French: Dabe Films—SOPADEC.

1 Spanish-North American: Tecisa—Capricorn PYNC.

1 Spanish Puerto Rican: Mezquiriz—Probo Films SA.

5. Pictures produced by Spanish companies have been shot in wide screen (CinemaScope).

B. Distribution

1. The number of pictures distributed in 1962 was 355.

2. Of these, 98 were American, 32 Italian, 57 Mexican, 16 German, 26 English, 6 Austrian, 23 French, 17 Argentinian, and four miscellaneous. The number of Spanish pictures distributed was 58 and 18 co-productions.

3. It is impossible to determine the receipts of pictures in regard to which country they come from, as we have not yet established the control over the box office in this respect.

C. Exhibition

1. Cinemas:

a) The number of permanent cinemas is 5844; seasonal cinemas, 1551.

All cinemas exhibit pictures from any country.

2. The total receipts of Spanish pictures is unknown. However, they are estimated at about 20 per cent of the total amount which would be, deducting tax, etc., approximately 400,000,000 Ptas.

3. The average tax on admission prices is 28 per cent.

4. The tax is actually recouped partly by the state, partly by the municipality, the latter receiving 22 per cent of the gross receipts, but this system of levying taxes has recently been suppressed as this too is going through a stage of revision.

FOREIGN PRODUCERS

A. Distribution:

1. The total number of pictures imported in 1962 was 255:

Distributor:	USA	Eng.	Ital.	French	German	Others	Total
Universal	6	2	2	1	1	1	13
C. B. Films	6	2	–	2	2	1	13
Radio Films	6	1	1	3	3	1	15
MGM	5	–	2	2	–	–	9
Hispano Fox	3	1	1	1	3	3	12
Columbia	2	1	2	1	–	4	10
Warner Bros.	2	–	1	1	–	–	4
Paramount	2	–	1	1	–	–	4

2. Payments effected in foreign currency in 1962 amounted to $5,500,000.

3. There are at the moment 39,000,000 Ptas. in the blocked "B" account, and the "A" account is at zero. These funds derive from American pictures. In agreement with the MPEAA, the "A" account serves for recoupments which are transferable, and the "B" account serves for blocked monies to be spent on shooting a picture in Spain, and for other expenses of the American firms.

B. Exhibition

The net receipts of foreign pictures in Spain can be estimated at Ptas. 1,600,000,000 approximately.

DOWNWARD TREND IS SINGAPORE STORY

By BERNARD J. WILLIAMS

Staff Correspondent, THE FILM DAILY

SINGAPORE

FILM BUSINESS during the period under review showed a downward trend overall. This is attributed here to the fact that a general trade recession has affected the Singapore Malaya territories, mainly due to the unstable political situation in the neighboring countries of Southeast Asia.

Eighty per cent of the film market as affecting Singapore and Malaya territories is held by U.S. imports.

Strict censorship rules launched by the Government of the State of Singapore call for the banning of the brutality, sexy suggestive scenes, racism, any attempts to glorify colonialism and imperialism, juvenile delinquency, and any attempts to cast slurs on religious issues both past and present.

There have been no special changes in censorship regulations as such, but more foreign imports have suffered at the hands of the censors in Singapore than in previous years. The existing censorship board is worked on a Pan Malayan basis, covering both Singapore and Malaya territories, with an Appeal Board which has the authority to repeal any decision made by the film censorship board. Incidentally, many a film banned for exhibition by the Singapore Censorship Board has been freely passed for exhibition in the Federation of Malaya. As a result, many Singapore cinegoers, deprived of seeing banned films in Singapore, take an hour's ride from the State of Johore, which is in the Federation of Malaya and only separated by a causeway, and have their eyeful of films that are banned by Singapore censors. This difference of opinion among the Malayan Film Censors and the Singapore censors is looked upon with a tongue in the cheek attitude by the trade and the cinegoers themselves. Another point of interest is that where only a few years ago no films from Red China were allowed entry or exhibition in Singapore, films from the Chinese mainland are given entry into the State of Singapore and are gaining popularity. The Federation of Malaya, however, does not permit any Red China films into the country which has only just recently won its fight against Communist terrorists. Meanwhile, however, the Federation of Malaya planned to set up an independent Board of Film Censors, but this may have to be shelved too because in August 1963, Singapore, Malaya, Sarawak, British North Borneo and possibly Brunei are to be merged into one nation and be called Malayasia. This might necessitate a change in plans and it is quite possible that a Malayasian Board of Film Censorship will be set up eventually, since all the territories mentioned will be working together as a whole and under the same constitution.

CHANGING TASTES

It is generally felt that U.S. pictures are not doing so well in Singapore and Malaya as in past years. Industry leaders indicated that tastes of the local cinegoers have considerably changed in that they are going in for "spectaculars." Whereas U.S. produced spectaculars are far between, Italian films of the same type are making serious inroads into American grosses here, and seem to have obtained a firm footing and a loyal following among local moviegoers, especially the younger set, the group that can affect box office results.

There are approximately 200 cinemas of all types throughout Singapore and Malaya and the adjoining territories mainly operated and owned by the Shaw Organization and the Cathay Organization.

The Shaw Organisation is spread throughout Southeast Asia with a chain of 127 cinemas, nine amusement parks, three film production studios, in Hongkong, Singapore and Kuala Lumpur, in the Federation of Malaya. In recent years the Shaw Organisation invested over $1,000,000 in import of Italian films that have been fast catching on in Singapore, Malaya and adjoining countries in SEA. Shaw's are also sole distributors in Singapore, Malaya and Borneo for Universal International Films, Associated British Pathe, and Pathe Overseas of France. Product of Warner Brothers, M-G-M, United Artists and Columbia is also released exclusively in the Shaw circuit. They also hold the Cinerama franchise for Singapore and Malaya.

The Cathay Organisation owns and operates a chain of 60 cinemas of international standards in Singapore, Malaya, Borneo, Brunei and Sarawak, and Cathay's International film distribution department supplies over 200 other cinemas in the same areas, where films in the Chinese language are in ever increasing demand. The Cathay Organisation opened three new theatres during the year under review. The Odeon, with a seating capacity of 880, was opened in Batu Pahat, Malaya. The New Brilliant, capacity 820, was opened in Kluang Johore, and a third, the Boon Pang, seating 1180, was opened in Brunei in British North Borneo.

BOX OFFICE CONTROL

Box office prices are solely controlled and pegged by both governments in Singapore and the Federation of Malaya. The film trade has explicit orders from both governments that under no circumstances are they to hike prices unless they have the express permission of the government authorities. Box office prices have been hiked from time to time on special pictures with the blessing of the government, as in the case of "The Ten Commandments" and "Ben-Hur."

Cathay Keris Film Productions of Singapore, operated by the Cathay Organisation, produced 11 feature films in black and white, in the Malay language, during the year under review, and 40 films in the Chinese language were produced for overall distribution in Southeast Asian countries and abroad in the Hongkong Studios of the Cathay Organisation.

The Shaw Organisation, which controls and owns Shaw's Malaya Film Productions Singapore and the Merdeka Film Studios in Kuala Lumpur, produced 12 feature films in black and white during the year under review.

Singapore is to have television, government owned and government controlled, sometime in 1963. S. Rajaratnam, Minister for Culture under whose jurisdiction Singapore's TV will operate, went abroad a few times last year to get first hand knowledge from experts on the operation and administration of the proposed TV set up.

Technicians were sent abroad to improve their knowhow of TV in England and Australia, before assuming top posts with the government's TV departments.

It is generally felt, however, that there may not be enough live talent to feed regular programmes but the local government has promised that everything will be done to encourage local talent. Meanwhile cultural, educational and other TV films with the accent on entertainment will be shown initially.

Meanwhile in Malaya, Canadian experts made their reports about programming and administration of TV to the Malayan Government under the Colombo plan. It was envisaged that, initially according to the recommendations made by Colombo Plan experts, TV would be confined to the Federation of Malaya's capital, Kuala Lumpur, and later extended to the other territories.

GROWING FILM SHORTAGE

A MAJOR PROBLEM

By GUSTAV GENSCHOW

Staff Correspondent, THE FILM DAILY

BONN

GROWING FILM SHORTAGE was one of the major problems in West Germany in 1962. While a total of 602 feature films were released in 1958, the corresponding figure was down to 433 last year. The number of Hollywood films declined in Germany from 250 titles to 122. Domestic German production went down correspondingly from 108 to a mere 60 features. But as the German share in the local screen time decreased below the 30 per cent mark, the Hollywood share in the German screen time total went up over 30 per cent. This is credited to the fact that Hollywood product is attracting more moviegoers and, consequently, have longer runs at German theatres. As a further consequence, Hollywood earnings in Germany are not affected by the decline. As a successful measure American distributors in Germany are actively planning acquisition of local German language product and offering it to German and international theatres along with their original Hollywood films. Columbia, for example, plans to offer a special block of six to 10 German-language features to German theatres for the 1963-1964 season. These films are believed to have excellent sales possibilities as local German production is expected to go down to 50 features during the 1963 calendar year, making the film shortage even worse.

The shortage resulted from a general decline in moviegoing and, too, from a financing bottleneck. Some of the more important film financiers have curtailed activities or have withdrawn from film financing altogether. There are several plans to overcome the lack of financing funds. These plans were discussed at top-industry, Government and parliamentary level, with no immediate results.

CASH PRIZES AWARDED

The Government's Praemienplan is still in effect, providing cash prizes for "good" films. One or two producers get a substantial share of their negative costs back via the Praemienplan, and successful actors, directors, receive substantial cash prizes from the Government funds. However, the plan has turned out not to stimulate production to an extent that local production would increase to the previous level of 100. A total of 100 feature films per year is generally accepted as a minimum for the German industry.

A German-type Eady Plan was drawn up and published in 1962. The Plan, called Selbs-thilfe-Plan, provides for 3 per cent of all box office grosses to go into a special fund. This would add up to DM 15,000,000 to DM 20,000,000 ($3,750,000 to $5,000,000) annually. Producers would share in the sum according to their own film grosses, which would mean that successful films and producers would get high subsidies and other films and producers would get less. "Bad" films would get nothing and a special censoring committee is planned to rule "bad" films out. A special twist in the plan is that German theatre owners demand that film rental rates would not be increased over the general level of 43 per cent. This has been point of prolonged discussion.

The Selbsthilfe-Plan affects American operations in Germany as it would subject Hollywood films as well as all other product to the three per cent tax. On the other hand, only German films would benefit from the plan. Secondly, the 43 per cent rental rate ceiling is not very acceptable for American companies which have to recoup extremely high production costs for their "big" films.

The Selbsthilfe-Plan may run into anti-trust legal trouble, and consequently a bill for a German Film Law has been introduced. The bill provides for a compulsory participation in the German Eady-type plan. Tax on grosses would be three to five per cent. Annual take would be DM 25 to DM 30,000,000. Of the total, 55 per cent would be distributed to producers according to individual grosses. The balance would be used for additional financing, loans, etc. The fund legislation would be in effect five years.

EXPORT EARNINGS DOWN

German film export earnings went down. They were at about DM 25,000,000 ($6,125,000) in 1961 and were estimated at DM 20 to 25 million for 1962. The trend is credited partly to the lower number of German films available and partly to more complicated situations in traditional German export areas in Europe. The European Common Market did not turn out to be a promotional device for German exports. German films are shown in Italy as well as in France but theatre owners and moviegoers are still reluctant to patronize German motion pictures. Export Union, the promotional setup of the German industry, planned to increase activities in most parts of the world but plans had to be abandoned due to a cut in Government subsidies for the organization.

The Berlin Film Festival, on the other hand, has developed more and more into a trade show with more and more importers and exporters attending the annual show in West Berlin. In 1962, for the first time, there was a complimentary TV film show. This year, the show incorporates a competition. The Festival organizers hope to develop the TV department into a major international showcase for TV films. Theatrical film competition will be carried on at the previous basis but a new and improved selection procedure will be adopted. It will give the Berlin Festival management a greater voice in national selection procedures in countries planning to participate. Higher standards for entered films is expected.

Entertainment tax totals were down considerably in 1962. This was partly due to still declining attendance and partly to reduced tax rates. German theatre owners continued their fight against the tax at regional levels. Some of the German Bundeslaender (federal states) abandoned the movie tax completely last year, and others have reduced them considerably. There are different tax rates, in the remaining areas, for "extremely valuable," "valuable" and normal films. Pictures having the official "valuable"rating pay little or no tax. The 1961 entertainment tax totaled DM 82,000,000 ($20,500,000). One third of this total may be credited to Hollywood films. The official 1962 figure was considerably below the previous level. The cut will not immediately benefit American and other distributors due to the "frozen" rental rate situation, but it will relieve the financial situation in the German exhibition field. The number of theatres is declining at a rate of about 300 annually. At the start of 1963 there were about 6,300 situations in operation. Construction of new houses has almost completely arrived at a standstill and circuits are in a process of concentration and contraction. German exhibitors are complaining about competition by motion pictures on TV. There were 165 feature films on German TV screens last year. This year, the number is expected to double.

NEW NETWORK

A new German television network started on April 1, with a hook-up of over 30 UHF transmitters and a ready-made audience of several million. The new network, Zweites Deutsches Fernsehen, has a budget of some million deutschmarks, a staff of 1,400 and a huge demand for filmed material, theatrical and specialized. The new organization is financed from set license taxes as well as from advertising. Together with the older German network, ARD, it has a total audience of close to 8,000,000 sets. The total is growing at an annual rate of one to two million and the trend is expected to go on for at least two or three years when the saturation point will be reached. Competitive impact upon motion picture exhibition is consequently not expected to decrease before then.

Color television is in active preparation in West Germany. Test transmissions are under way, and regular broadcasts will start in one or two years subject to the introduction of a uniform European color TV standard. Color sets are expected to be very expensive (equivalent to $1,000 to $1,200) and they will not have an immediate effect upon moviegoing. A very slow start for Color TV in Germany is likely.

Major West German production and distribution companies are still in a period of adjustment and more corporate charges are expected. Europa, one of Germany's "Big Five" had to close its doors last year but its Hamburg production studio continued to operate on a separate and independent financial basis. Like other German studios it has turned over a large part of stages and production capacity to television. TV is now active in Berlin, Hamburg and Munich studios.

OUTLOOK IS GOOD

The outlook for the 1963/1964 season is good for Hollywood films in Germany as the shortage of local product continues and as more and more exhibitors who previously played only German films are turning to American companies for product. American earnings can be transferred freely but an important share in the earnings still remain in Germany as all Hollywood films are dubbed into the German language in local dubbing studios. Censoring by churches is continuing at a moderate level. Hollywood films have been getting more favorable censoring ratings in contrast to films from Europe and the trend is expected to continue. There is still no quota in sight in Germany despite the fact that the Bonn Government has the right to introduce a quota for foreign films under the new Film Law.

Any quota would make the situation worse than it is now due to the film shortage and in addition a quota would be opposed by Paris and Rome governments under Common Market rules.

There is no chance now that Hollywood films would be restricted under a Common Market quota in Germany despite the fact that such a uniform quota for all of the six ECM countries has been discussed. This is a consequence of the fact that both France and Italy despite German protests have prolonged their own national setup of film regulation and subsidy. Thus the differences between national industry situations in the ECM area will continue to exist at least during the next year.

In East Germany, American films are still not admitted. There are very few from other Western countries, the larger share being imported from Eastern countries. Moviegoing and the number of theatres in operation are reportedly declining while production is continuing at about two dozen features per year. Moviegoers from East Berlin, formerly a most important group in West Berlin audiences, are now absent due to the Berlin situation. As a consequence some of the Berlin "border theatres" closed their doors and American companies lost some of their (subsidized) showcases in West Berlin.

INDIA IN 1962
IN THE LAST THROES

By S. S. PANI
Staff Correspondent, THE FILM DAILY

MADRAS

EXPECTATION BY THE TRADE that more than 300 pictures would be produced has not been borne out. According to reliable estimates for 1962—the trade appears to be very secretive—Bombay produced 118 pictures as against 123 in 1961. This is the lowest on record after 1952, when only 112 were made. Production has been steadily declining from 1947 when Bombay made 195.

Madras produced 45 pictures in Tamil as against 31 in 1961. Original films were 26, while dubbed productions accounted for the balance. In Telgu 46 were made against 54 the previous year. In Kannada, the language of Mysore State, 15 films were produced against 13 the previous year, while in Malayalam, the language of Kerala State, production increased to 15 from 11 the previous year.

Madras makes pictures in the North Indian language of Hindi, also the favorite medium of Bombay films. Here production rose from eight the year before to nine in 1962. What is most remarkable in the case of Hindi films made in Madras is that original films rose from three to five while dubbed versions fell by one to four. These versions were mostly Tamil and although dubbed, they proved very popular, which seems to establish that Madras technique as well as Madras direction and players are immeasurably superior, as are production values. With Madras producing in all Indian languages worth mentioning the hub of the industry has definitely shifted to the South, and it is well established that the finest studios are in Madras, as are the largest number of theatres.

This is confirmed by the fact that while Tamil films made in Madras are on the downgrade, generally speaking, Madras shows a rise while Bombay registers a fall.

Calcutta seems to be registering an even pace with 39 films, almost all of them class, and Satyajit Ray's success internationally, particularly in the United States, is the envy and despair of other production centers. Realistic pictures are of the essence Indian, original and true to life, while others are hoked-up imitations of Hollywood films and a few are gauche mythologicals.

To sum up, as against 260 pictures in 1961, India in 1962 produced 287, the major credit for which goes to Madras.*

Notwithstanding, the moving finger that started writing in 1947 still continued to move on. From despair the industry now appears to be in the last throes.

Import of American films into this country is determined at Government level, as also arrangements for remittance of earnings, of which details are not available. Arrangement now in force will reportedly be valid until 1965 and there has been no change in the position. Detailed information is not available at this stage, but there is a hunger for the American film. One fact emerges, however, is that no additional licenses for imports would be given to other countries or newcomers as this could involve foreign exchange.

Communist countries send in films and accept rupee payments but the glamour seems to have worn off especially after Red China's aggression on India. Also, there is the dismal failure of the Russian Film Festival in Madras when two weeks of Russ showings brought in Rs. 220,000/ (about $5,000) and expenses were Rs. 20,000/ (about $4,500). Arrangements for the festival were in the hands of Mr. B. Nagi Reddy, controlling the largest and best equipped studio this side of the Suez, and President of the Film Federation of India. Such Russian films as "The Cranes are Flying" were once enthusiastically received. To put it mildly, antipathy for Communists has become so pronounced that a Japanese scholar was manhandled in a large town in Madras State, being mistaken for a Chinese.

* Ed. Note: Statistics released by the U. S. Department of Commerce lists a total of 312 features produced in India in 1962, up from 297 in 1961, but down from the record 320 in 1960.

CENSORSHIP

There has been no change in censorship officially but observing the way Indian films are being censored, one cannot help feeling that a greater degree of leniency, than consistent with decency, is being shown.

Censorship of film posters has been introduced as these were the decoys to seduce the adolescent to see films at any cost. Other censorship objections are suggestive dialogue and song, dialogue with double-meaning implying either sex or politics not palatable to Government, and veiled glorification of the sub-normal and the abnormal.

Foreign films are shown in India in only about 70 theatres. The elite and student class which see American films do not care to visit the other theatres.

As regards foreign films, mainly Hollywood, the number of prints available is as small as the number of available theatres, and as the imported pictures are limited, they get record attendances and have to be taken off while they could still be popular for a few more weeks. Reference to this is understood to have been made by Eric Johnston in his report to the M.P.A.A. It is necessary to re-emphasize that the class of people who see foreign films never care to walk into an Indian house, whatever be the appeal or the lure.

In 1962, most Indian pictures failed all over India, particularly star-studded films. There are about 3,200 theatres showing Indian films of which about 200 occasionally show foreign product. Arithmetically, foreign films should collect one-fortieth of Indian films revenue, but the figure is estimated to be about one-fifteenth. Exact figures are not available.

The United States provides about 90 per cent of the imports. Communist countries dub their films in English for the Indian market and the dubbing is done here. Other foreign-language films have not succeeded in finding their roots because of language difficulty. These are shown only as pieces of art to discerning audiences, and are understood to be supplied free.

Censors also object to political propaganda by the Communist and Free World against each other. Where films are in languages other than English, a copy of the script with an English translation has to be submitted to the Censors, and the translation has to be accepted at face value. With this censorship, almost all foreign countries have started exhibiting 16mm "documentary" films, which are heavily inlaid with political propaganda, and these are exhibited by mobile vans. Very severe restrictions have now been placed on such exhibitions and the licensing of sites for such exhibition. For instance, the phrase "Iron Curtain" was objected to by the Censors in a West German 16mm. film.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

Future of the Indian product is regarded as gloomy. An important English daily in Madras, which charitably devotes some space to films (other papers dismiss films with casual mention and tabloid reviews on no occasion creditable to the product) says, "The year 1962 was a year of gloom in Madras for films, despite the spurt in Tamil pictures which raised their number from 32 to 45.

"With 22 pictures flopping—of them 14 were star-studded—the year's production was on the whole a disappointment to filmgoers and disillusionment to producers and distributors, many of whom have been compelled to close business.

Poor quality and hackneyed themes left ducer's pocket. Capital has been borrowed at usurious interest and the fact that the product was in most cases the first and last venture, and that the producer might have been anything in the world before he embarked on this adventure, are left unsaid.

There was only one successful Tamil film and this was accused of plagiarism. One Tamil picture "Senthamarai" (Red Lotus) was ten years in the making by fits and starts, and the children in the cast became blooming young men and women at the time of completion. Established stars, male and female, are being relegated to the lumber room and it is no secret that most of the films in which they have been starred are indirectly financed by them.

One ingenious device for stars to by-pass income tax is not to take a fee but to have territorial right assigned in lieu.

The Indian film industry continues to be marred by difficulties, which as things stand, may persist and hamper its progress during the current year. Movie-making is no longer easy or simple. Shortage of raw material, over-rising production costs and falling box office returns have acted as a restraining influence, the full effects of which are likely to be felt in 1963.

However, the market for U. S. films is likely to show a change for the better, as a result of the certain fall in production of the domestic product in 1963, provided there is a change of policy on imports. Although there is plenty of talk about completion of arrangements for co-production, not one of these claims will stand scrutiny. In Hollywood, there is a discernible trend toward co-production in India, but the major obstacles here are finance and dearth of talent. It was reported David O. Selznick's representative would be in India to discuss production. The proposed co-production would star Jennifer Jones.

Such a co-production, with a version in the Hindi language, has been made. It is the Jindas Enterprises Private Ltd., product "Tarzan Goes to India," featuring Jock Mahoney and the Indian find, Simi. The picture is released by M-G-M.

Total number of theatres showing movies is about 4,800 and those constructed during the year could be counted on one hand. There has been no surge in construction although many State Governments have released curbs, and this is in glaring contrast with the demand for more theatres made in 1959 and apportionment of screening time for the Indian product in houses showing the English-language product exclusively. Admission totals are not available but it is estimated there has been easily a 50 per cent fall in Indian film earnings. The population of this country is about 420 million but other forms of entertainment as the stage drama, musical performances and the classical dance are making headway, as most thinking people are fed up with Indian films which tell the same story, impossibly rehashed over and over again.

DOMESTIC PRODUCTION

Bombay made 118 pictures. Broken down by language they are: Hindi, 82; Marathi, 22; Guja rati, 5; Punjabi, 5; Bhojpuri, 1; Tamil, 1; and nondescript, 2.

Madras made 128 films as follows: Tamil, 45; Telugu, 46; Kannada, 13; Malayalam, 15; Hindi, 9.

Calcutta made 39 films, all in Bengali.

Fewer than ten pictures were made in color. Color raw stock import quotas are given only against export earnings, and these have registered a sharp fall.

DISTRIBUTION

While production figures are approximations, the number of pictures censored and released is not available. There are reports some of these are involved in legal tangles with producers selling the same territory to more than one distributor.

TAXATION

Each state has its own rates of taxation and the percentage on the average is between 25 per cent to 50 per cent. To this has been added a local tax, which varies. An entertainment tax is collected by State governments for public recreation in the centres of collection.

AUSTRALIA

SYDNEY

THE AUSTRALIAN INDUSTRY year was almost a repeat of 1961 with television seriously affecting box office returns throughout the nation, causing the closure of many suburban and country theatres and bringing restricted screening policies to dozens of others. On the other hand, 1962 saw the re-opening of a number of city houses as "new" hardticket showcases playing extended seasons with top attractions.

There is little doubt that the Australian industry pattern is closely following that experienced in the U.S. over the past decade or so. Today, the future of the industry in the Commonwealth is definitely tied in with the specialized handling of super blockbusters and the successful promotion of other product that offers a counter attraction to the lure of home viewing. In this respect, a refreshing aspect of 1962 trading was the outstanding box office returns achieved by a number of family pictures, especially those bearing the Walt Disney stamp. At the same time, many so-called adult themes failed to attract any appreciable patronage—a possible indication that Australians have had their fill of the sordid and squalid. Once again, westerns proved to be box office poison, though attracting top ratings on TV. Not since "High Noon" in 1952 has an oater really hit the top of the box office tree here.

EXHIBITION FIGURES

No admission figures are published or available in this territory, but the drop-off at the nation's ticket windows can be gauged from the fact that lack of patronage has forced the closure of many long-standing and long-successful suburban and country theatres. Australia's 35 mm theatre total at year-end was 1,317 covering 1,097 cities, towns and suburbs. Figures for the previous year were 1,512 and 1,190 respectively. New South Wales totals (with previous year's figures in parentheses): city 22 (22), suburban 88 (94), country 328 (438), touring circuits 6 (6). Victorian totals: city 20 (20), suburban 58 (67), country 180 (195), touring circuit 4 (5). Queensland: city 13 (14), suburban 46 (55), country 290 (297), touring 3 (3). South Australia: city 9 (9), suburban 24 (33), country 97 (108), no touring shows (2). Western Australia: city 12 (12), suburban and country 81 (90), touring 13 (13). Tasmania: city 5 (4), suburban and country 44 (54), touring 3 (3).

In addition, there were 127 drive-ins (up from the 1961 total of 113). State totals: Victoria 38, South Australia 28, Western Australia 26, Queensland 16, New South Wales 15, Tasmania 4. Total car capacity was 73,308.. Commonwealth also has total of 162 situations for 16mm screenings, and a further six touring circuis for 16mm. Largest theatre circuits are Hoyts Theatres Ltd. (controlled by 20th-Fox in U.S.) with 125 theatres, 100 of which are wholly controlled and 25 operated in association with other interests, and Greater Union Theatres Ltd. (half owned by the Rank Organization of U.K.) with 109 theatres, 53 wholly controlled, 56 in association. Both Hoyts and GU have extensive drive-in interests, as does Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer which operates 12 hardtops and five drive-ins, two of which are the Commonwealth's only twin ozoners.

During the year the Victorian and Western Australian governments eliminated the entertainment tax on theatre admissions. Though this had been actively sought by local exhibitors associations, its passing came too late to save a number of marginal theatres and others which had found the combination of TV and tax just too much to combat.

TOTAL IMPORT FIGURES

Annual report of the Commonwealth Film Censorship Board showed total imports of 446 features (630 the previous year) for the period July 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962. Most noticeable was a drop of 108 features from the U.S. Principal suppliers (with 1961 totals in parentheses): U.S. 176 (284), U.K. 115 (145), France 21 (29), Italy 44 (18), U.S.S.R. 21 (35), Greece 29 (30). However, during the same period only 289 first-run pictures were screened in Sydney, normally accepted as the first situation for almost all releases. Total was an increase of eight over the previous year. Major factor in the smaller number of releases (426 first-run features were screened in calendar 1956, for example) was the increase in city showcases playing roadshow pix for extended seasons.

Plenty of talk, little action on the production front. That was once again the case as only two features—Visatone Island Pictures' "They Found a Cave" and the Commonwealth Film Unit's "Festival in Adelaide"—were produced in the Commonwealth. "Cave" was filmed by Sydney's Visatone Television and Tasmania's Island Pictures from local authoress Nan Chauncy's novel of the same name, with locations in Tasmania and interiors at the Visatone studios at Bondi Junction, Sydney. Cast was for the most unknown, but with Columbia handling release in Australia and New Zealand the color production appeared set for top receipts as a matinee or holiday attraction. The Film Unit feature was shot during the two-week annual Adelaide Festival of Arts and picked up for distribution by Universal-International here. Tentatively scheduled were a film based on the life of famed Australian bushranger Ned Kelly, with England's Karel Reisz to produce and direct, Albert Finney to star; Michael Powell's production of the Nino Culotta best-seller "They're a Weird Mob"; and local producer-star Chips Rafferty's present day story "Cattle Drive." Discussed at some length were plans for a feature based on "Something for Nothing," novel by a South Australian author previously scheduled for filming by now-defunct Southern International. This time, Hollywood's Albert Zugsmith was to lens the film, provided local interests could find £200,000 (approx. $448,000). Former Aussie star Ron Randell also had plans for filming. Suggested title: "Girl From Wooloomooloo." So too, did English scriptwriter-producer Ted Willis. But easily the most ambitious plan was announced by Allied International (Aust.) Ltd., which sought £1 million (approx. $2.24 million) from the public to build studios and launch a continuing program of film and TV production.

Of the 446 features imported and screened by Chief Commonwealth Film Censor Colin Campbell and his staff, 265 were classified as suitable for general exhibition, 181 as not suitable for children. Of the latter, 36 were registered subject to the special condition that all advertising emphasized the films were suitable only for adults. Australian censorship is among the most sensible in the world. As a result, the industry rarely finds any complaint with decisions made or deletions ordered. Censors object mainly to excessive violence, nudity, sex, obscenity and horror.

NON-THEATRICAL FILMS

Recent years have seen a decided swing of non-theatrical films away from the home and into office, sales auditorium and classroom. One contributing factor has been television, but probably the most important reason has been the realization of the power of audio-visual aids in the sales and teaching fields. Most of Australia's major companies today use non-theatrical films in a variety of ways—for public relations, staff training, demonstrating and selling. Several of them have gone as far as to establish their own production units to gain optimum impact from what were once almost solely regarded as "home movies."

Though statistics are not available as to the number of projectors currently in use throughout the Commonwealth, some 2,500 are sold each year. Of this total, about 85-90% would be imported. The Film Division of the National Library in Canberra remains the focal point for non-business users of non-theatrical product, lending to government agencies and to users in Commonwealth territories. Other commercial and private libraries in every State of Australia cater to the continually growing field.

Since its introduction to Australia on September 16, 1956, television has grown until at December 31, 1962 there were a total of 1,496,437 television receivers licensed. Short term hirers' licenses added a further 63,920 to this total, for a combined receiver license figure of 1,560,357. Australian regulations require each TV receiver to be licensed annually.

Australia is emerging from a long period of adjustment with employment increasing following the government switch from a restrictive to non-restrictive financial policy. Yet there seems little doubt that many sections of the motion picture industry still face a troubled and uncertain future. This is particularly the situation facing many independent exhibitors. Hard hit by television in the suburbs and some country areas, they have to face a continuation of splash release through circuits, with the latter houses screening top pictures long before they reach the independent theatres. Another problem is the extension of video with the opening of further city stations and country outlets. Circuits are in a more favorable position and it's doubtful they will have to shutter many more houses.

On the production front, investigations by the government-backed committee could eventually provide long sought assistance, particularly for producers of films for television.

NEW ZEALAND

WITH A POPULATION of some 2½ million scattered over a two island-area some 1,000 miles long, New Zealand is a nation of small communities with little interest for the most part in continental or Asian theatrical films.

The introduction of television two years ago under the control of a government corporation has had its effect on cinema attendance, though not at a rate comparable to that experienced in similar territories where commercial telecasting has been allowed. However, the sale of TV receivers is growing in momentum and the small screen medium's effect on theaters will become progressively more severe.

Those connected with the industry have observed reduced attendances at some Auckland theaters but most felt it is still too early to predict any definite trend because of TV competition. Exhibitors are hopeful that new methods of film presentation will do much to offset the effects of TV. Then too, TV stations have been established only in Wellington, Auckland, Christchurch and Dunedin, the sets-in-use figure climbing very slowly compared to that in Australian cities of similar size.

Undoubtedly the most important event in New Zealand during the past year was the enactment of the Cinematograph Films Act which liberalized very substantially the provisions of the law relating to film exhibition. New regulations on censorship, theater licensing, film safety provisions and the licensing of projectionists became law. Net effect of these changes has been to distinguish between commercial exhibitors and others. Projection licenses which previously had to be held by all persons showing films are now only required by commercial exhibitors.

Films now have to be registered in two categories. Group 1 are in the main commercial features while Group 2 consists of short films not longer than 33 minutes screening time. Films registered in Group 2 may be freely exhibited by members of the public or by private organizations, no permit being required. The same bodies do not now require a permit for films in Group 1, in most cases. In others a permit is issued subject to prescribed conditions. Under the Act, the functions of the licensing authority have been extended to embrace inquiries and investigations about the provision of extra exhibitors' licenses in any locality, also permits and renters' licenses.

As from October 1, 1964 the importation, manufacture, renting, transportation and exhibition of highly inflammable film will be prohibited. Designers of the Act hope this will eliminate all hazard of film fires which has plagued the industry for so many years.

During the year under review 529 35mm features were screened by the N.Z. censor, as compared to a total of 480 the previous year. Principal suppliers (with previous year's total in parentheses): U.S. 211 (230), Commonwealth countries 125 (82), other countries 193 (168). Four Commonwealth features were rejected as were 12 from U.S. and three from other countries. The proportion of 35mm theatrical films awarded a G certificate (approved for exhibition without qualification) declined from 44% to 39%, while the proportion of Y certificates (recommended for persons 13 years of age and older) remained at 21%. "A" certificate films (approved for general exhibition but recommended suitable for adults only) increased from 23% to 27%; 11 films received 8 certificates (specially suitable for children) and 11% of all films were granted a restricted or R cerificate (six for persons 13 years or older, 47 for persons 16 or older, and three dealing with homosexuality and such social problems, to persons 18 and older).

Almost half the films from Commonwealth countries were granted G or S certificates, as against less than two-fifths for U.S. films and imports from other countries.

Cuts were made in 247 features — 368 because of excessive violence (390 excisions for the previous year), 261 (290) because of sex, 68 (44) because of horror and 84 (105) for other reasons. Some 30 per cent of Commonwealth films were cut because of violence, 36% because of sex, 12% because of horror and 22% for others reasons. Excisions made in U.S. features were: violence 50%, sex 32%, horror 11%, other reasons 7%. Of imports from other countries, 58% of cuts were for reasons of violence, 33% for sex, 5% for horror and 4% for other reasons. Features approved without cuts totaled 252, while 20 were rejected altogether.

In the period to March 31, 1962, 21 new exhibitors' licenses were granted, including two for new theatres and 19 for existing buildings, 15 were transferred and 15 surrendered or cancelled. Exhibitors' licenses in force totaled 591 as compared to 565 a year previously. Number of renters' licenses remained unchanged at 20, while there were 79 projection licenses, compared with 45 at the same date in 1961. The Cinematograph Film Operators' Licensing Board issued 209 licenses, bringing the total issued since the commencement of the current triennial licensing period on June 1, 1959 to 882, including renewals. The number includes 559 grade, 105 provisional and 218 assistant operators' licenses.

Despite the competition offered by television, the Dominion industry should remain on a fairly even keel during the current 12 months. Circuit leadership is strong and far-seeing, while many independent showmen have already demonstrated their capabilities in actively combating video. One advantage is the fact that N.Z. TV is controlled by the government and doesn't seem likely to be as enterprising as its commercial counterparts in other countries.

MALTA IN 1962

By CECIL SATARIANO
Staff Correspondent, THE FILM DAILY

SLIEMA, MALTA

DARK CLOUDS PRECIPITATED OVER MALTA'S CINEMA INDUSTRY during 1962. And even optimists do not see a silver lining ahead in 1963.

No doubt, the darkest cloud still hovering threateningly overhead has been the accelerated expansion of the TV industry which gathered momentum with the advent, on September 29, of a new video station (Malta Television Service). To this was the perennial problem of censorship which was even more accentuated during the year under review. Finally, but no less important, was the continued decrease in releases which is expected to be even less during 1963.

EXHIBITION

According to statistics furnished by Malta United Film Corp. Ltd. (MUFC), local representative for all major British and American film distributors, the box office champion of all time is still "The Ten Commandments." "Ben Hur" which, at the time of writing, was in its third month in the island's capital, had still not reached the records registered by "Commandments." Other films that fared exceptionally well have been "Pepe" and "The Miracle"—the latter being the box office surprise—and "miracle"—of the year, piling up returns far beyond the most optimistic expectations.

At the other end of the scale, the MUFC lists "South Pacific," "The Alamo" and "The Sleeping Beauty" as "the most disappointing films of the year."

A total of 284 films was released in Malta during 1962. Of these, 15 per cent were French/Italian, 30 per cent British and 55 per cent American. From the total of 224 releases distributed by the MUFC, only 191 were new films, the remaining 33 being reissues.

DISTRIBUTION

The only change important in distribution in 1962 took place when the MUFC decided to drop the three leading theatres in residential Sliema from the first run circuit and premiere all films in Valetta, the island's capital. This change is believed to have been brought about by Malta's new TV service which the MUFC officially stated "appreciably affected cinema attendance in the Sliema district."

The Radio City Co., managed by Walter Baldacchino, whose Italian-French imports are first premiered exclusively in a leading Valetta theatre and later distributed throughout the island by the MUFC, continues to make inroads in the local market. The success of Italian films in Malta has been primarily due to Baldacchino's shrewd eye for local tastes and preferences, and also due to the co-incidental fact that local tastes and preferences happen to be for the Biblical-historical-mythological spectacle which the Italian industry has been turning out in increasing numbers. Baldacchino has thus restricted his imports largely to this type of film. He has, in fact, been doing it for a couple of years, giving local cinemagoers a steady diet of this fare. There is no indication that the public has tired of it.

The stars that command the greatest attention at the box office are all males—Pat Boone, Elvis Presley, Steve Reeves and Gordon Scott.

TELEVISION

Prior to the introduction of Malta's TV service, the MUFC repeatedly maintained that the Italian video programmes which local TV viewers were receiving from Sicily were not seriously affecting cinema attendance. But the cinema industry in Malta has, in fact, been on a steady decline ever since it was discovered, four years ago, that the strength of the 625-line type signal received from the nearest (83 miles) direct video transmitter on Monte Lauro in Sicily was sufficient to provide good fringe reception.

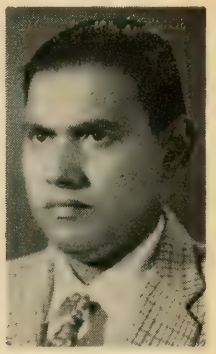
Statistics speak for themselves. Attendance in 1956 was registered at 6,201,092, dropping by 376,155 in 1958 when Italian TV first made its appearance and declined still further by 1,100,861 in 1962. In other words, annual cinema attendance has, since 1956, gone down by roughly one-and-a-half million.

This year (1963), local TV viewers have an added attraction in that they are now picking up Italy's second channel, offering set owners the choice of three programmes every evening. Italian television, incidentally, is of the highest standard technically and entertainment-wise.

The pattern followed by TV broadcasting in Malta is similar to independent (i.e. commercial) TV in Britain. The network is supervised by the Malta Television Authority (similar to the Independent Television Authority in England) whose task it is to protect the public interest in the broadcasting field, ensuring impartiality in broadcasting, and seeing that public morals are safeguarded. There is, however, no "ad hoc" censorship on Malta TV, but certain programmes such as musicals and gangster films are occasionally previewed by the Authority for possible censorship. The Authority has the power to "prescribe" programmes for showing on Malta's Television service which it, in fact, does and for which the Authority has £25,000 at its disposal which comes from the £4-per-year license fee paid by an estimated 20,000 television owners.

CENSORSHIP

The present Government Censorship Board functions on a set of rather inelastic rules which defy all moral logic. Films featuring prostitutes, however positive in content, are out. Homosexuality is inadmissible, no matter the treatment. Two-piece costumes are disallowed. A long embrace and/or kiss, even between husband and wife, is curtailed. Musical films featuring dance-song numbers are heavily censored. "Ben Hur" had one cut (a 10-second scene showing a brief, incidental dance) deleted at the request of the censor and three cuts of violence made at the request of the Diocesan Film Commission before this body recommended it. "Geronimo" had a scene removed in which the wife tells the hero that she is pregnant. A shot was removed from an Italian film showing a woman breast-feeding her child.



It is easy to see from these examples why censorship in Malta is the number one problem with local film renters.

Twelve British and American films were banned during 1962 and thirteen French/Italian. The English-speaking imports refused a certificate were "A Taste of Honey," "Marriage Go Round," "Triangle on Safari," "The World by Night," "Victim," "Go Naked in the World," "Walk on the Wild Side," "A Kind of Loving," "Don't Bother to Knock," "Splendor in the Grass," "Only Two Can Play" and "Jessica."

Of the 284 films that were exhibited, 154 were cut. A check of the running time of these films released locally, compared with their official, original length, reveals that there was roughly 41,800 feet of film censored during the year under review.

This prodigious footage should give a clear picture of what the local film renter is up against. The irony of it, however, is that scenes that would normally never be permitted by the film censor appear continually on the small TV set via both the local station and Italy's network.

UNREST, PROTECTION MARKED PAKISTAN YEAR

By S. A. QURAISHI

Staff Correspondent, THE FILM DAILY

KARACHI

THE Government of Pakistan gave unlimited protection to the local film industry during 1962. This approach by the Government was taken on the recommendation of a Film Enquiry Committee first set up in 1960. Implementation of recommendations started in 1962.

Import of Indian films was banned for five years and all old Indian films in circulation were decertified by the Board of Film Censors to avoid unhealthy competition with Pakistani product and to give local product an open field for exploitation at home.

In spite of such protection, however, private finance for local producers remained shy. Whatever films were given to Pakistani exhibitors by the local industry was not enough to satisfy the audience, and much of the product could not flourish commercially.

The protection of the local industry had another adverse effect as well, creating an acute shortage of films for consumption by the country's 402 cinemas. This created unrest for distribution and exhibition. Since the beginning of the implementation of the Government plan, the exhibition and distribution trade had urged the Government for early recertification of old Indian films, while producers were defending the Government action.

All three sections of the industry spent 365 days in fighting each other and approached the Government on behalf of their own interests. With it all, the situation remains quite unchanged. Government protection still exists, and so does the crisis.

This unchanged situation drives movie patrons to see foreign pictures, so that attendance in movie houses showing foreign films has increased. Private parties were thus encouraged to import more films for home consumption on bonus permits.

TELEVISION

The Government of Pakistan has completed its planning to televise to important towns during 1963 and to the more outlying districts in 1964. TV stations will be constructed at Karachi, Rawalpindi, Multan, Hydrabad, Lahore and Dacca (East Pakistan) for more than four million people, entailing the use of 10,000 TV sets at the early stages and 20,000 more at a later stage.

Messrs. Phillips Co. (Pakistan) Ltd. is responsible for making about 2.5 million Karachi citizens and about 50,000 others from Interior Sind become TV-minded within about four months. At the International Fair held last September, Phillips Co., Ltd. installed a TV station covering the whole city of Karachi, and some 50 sets were placed at different important spots including the exhibition grounds themselves. TV is responsible for increasing patronage at the fair and has benefitted the plastics industry in Karachi and Lahore as well. Some 20,000 large and small plastic toys designed as TV sets were bought by citizens for both decorative and play purposes.

This would seem to indicate that TV in Pakistan will be a very successful project in the coming year, and its effect is bound to be felt by the motion picture industry. A few producing concerns have already started production of TV documentaries and foreign concerns are also reportedly interested in this market.

Exhibition may take a downward trend once TV is really established, and many theatres may be compelled to provide giant screen systems to overcome box-office problems.

LEGISLATION

While the Cinematograph Act of 1918, duly amended is still in force, the new act, now being drafted may be presented to the National Assembly in the near future. Though the Central Film Censor Board ceased to function, the censor code is still enforced via the Provincial Film Censor Boards, with very few changes. A new law on licensing of production, distribution and exhibition as well as on the financing of film producers and cinema owners may be enforced in 1963. The Karachi Entertainment Duty Act has been amended, providing for exhibitor purchase of special revenue tickets which are pasted on the back of each admission ticket, instead of collection of entertainment tax by exhibitors with later remittance to the State Bank.

CENSORSHIP

Censorship in Pakistan is considered liberal for foreign films and too strict for locally-produced films. Producers are demanding revision of the present censorship law while social and religious institutions are urging that present laws be tightened.

Foregn film distributing concerns are also not satisfied with the present law and are demanding liberalization of the law, since sex and horror scenes, which are the cream of the picture, from a commercial point of view, were always scizzored. Censorship duties were transferred from the central to provincial Governments, namely the Government of West Pakistan at Lahore and in East Pakistan at Dacca.

Approximately 380 features and 710 shorts, documentaries, newsreels and advertising reels were examined in 1962 by the Central and Provincial Boards. Among the features 260 were from America, 30 from the U.K., 20 from Italy, 45 domestic and 25 from other countries.

PRODUCTION

Local film industry in Pakistan produced 37 features in 1962, with 35 released in comparison to 41 in 1961. Thirty releases were in Urdu, 2 in Punjabi, 2 in Bengali. Karachi contributed three, Lahore Zone 29 and Dacca (East Pakistan) three.

Producers faced great difficulties in getting financing. About 110 films were on the set in the beginning of the year out of which only 35 were completed and the rest plus 20 additional films are still in production. In spite of protection provided by the Government producers could not produce enough to meet the requirements of the trade.

Producers are demanding financial help, tax exemption, and refund of Entertainment Tax of Pakistani pictures to producers to meet their losses. To boost the local industry, Government of Pakistan is planning to set up a Film Development Corp. and Film Financer Corp. in the near future.

Up to December 31, 1962, the total capital investment on Film Production was estimated at Rs. 49,753,000, including Rs. 26,920,000 invested in studios and equipment. During 1962, one Studio at Karachi closed down and one studio re-started its work. One new studio has been constructed at Lahore and another is now functioning at Dacca East Pakistan. Permission and facilities for four more studios at Lahore will be given.

Pakistan Film Producers Association is pressing hard to have the Government allow utilization of Blocked Funds of the U.S. and U.K. distributors' revenue for the advance ment of the local industry and co-production with foreign producers. The U.K. and Italy reportedly agreed to use of funds for co-productions while the U.S. is seeking transfer of the whole Blocked Fund to the U.S.A.

Production may not increase in 1963 over 1962. There are 210 producting banners in Pakistan but only 120 are active.

DISTRIBUTION

The Distribution trade in Pakistan remained looser while imported films enjoyed commercial benefits. Total investment in distribution is estimated at Rs. 36,050,000, including 7,600,000 towards 110 films under production. Releases in 1962 included 35 domestic (including Bengali) 217 from the U.S.A.; 20 from the U.K., 20 from Italy, 12 from the U.S.A. (independent). In addition 140 domestic and 160 foreign re-issues were screened.

A decrease of 40 per cent was recorded in revenue of domestic films in comparison to 1961. As a majority of the local product could not satisfy audience tastes, a decrease in revenue resulted. During 1962, investment from distributors on local product was increased by 34 per cent in comparison to previous years. Import of films on bonus vouchers was also increased by 27 per cent over the previous year. Total ban on import of Indian film and decertification of all old Indian films compelled distributors to invest in local product and keep their capital in circulation. The Pakistan Film Distribution Association has not endorsed the Government action on Indian films, but has not received favorable response from the Government.

Total distribution revenue is estimated at Rs. 20,000,000 out of which 50 per cent is shared by foreign product. Out of this 30 per cent goes to the U.S. Total remittance to the U.S. (MPEA) was Rs. 8.5 Lakh, with .8 Lakh to U.S.A. on a bonus permit.

Distribution business is almost monopolized by a few big distributors in West and East Pakistan. Small distributors face great hardship in securing good theatres on reasonable terms.

According to the recommendation of the Film Fact Finding Committee, the whole distribution trade should be licensed and their ratio of share has to be reduced. Distribution business during 1963, it is feared, will deteriorate by 23 per cent.

EXHIBITION

The Film exhibition trade in Pakistan passed through a very critical and experimental stage during 1962. There are 402 cinemas in East and West Pakistan for a total population of about nine million with 110 cinemas situated in East Pakistan, 44 in Karachi and 258 in West Pakistan. In all, 371 are four wall, with 31 open air and touring mobile cinemas. About 202 cinemas are showing domestic product, 178 are showing both domestic and imported, and 22 are exclusively exhibiting imported pictures. Total investment in Pakistani exhibition is estimated at Rs. 106,850,000.

Construction of more houses is being encouraged by the Government of Pakistan and licenses for mobile cinemas has been issued for rural areas. Financing is available but procurement of suitable land is impossible, while in rural areas land is available but financing is shy. Exhibition of foreign films is very much on the increase as fans like sex, horror, fighting colour and scope pictures. Domestic films, though produced with good story, music and cast could not attract the audience and most cinemas showing domestic films showed heavy losses.

The Pakistan Film Exhibitors Association is pressing hard to the Government of Pakistan to recertify old Indian films and allow import on a restricted basis of Indian Films to meet the requirement of their annual consumption. In case recertification is not made, the scope of exploitationof foreign and especially U.S. product is wide.

Construction of more cinemas, especially for the showing of foreign product is needed. Few industrialists however are contacting foreign institutions for investment in the cinema industry in Pakistan.

IMPORTS

As in the previous year, no change was made by the Government in import policy. Permits for import of U.S. (MPEA) pictures totaled 210 against remittance of Rs. 8.5. Thirty pictures were imported from Italy on a rental basis at Rs. 6000—remittance and about 10 from the U.S. on the same basis. A total of 272 pictures was imported in 1962.

Import of Indian films were banned for five years since March, 1962. Import of films on bonus vouchers increased by 110 per cent during 1962. It is presumed that import of foreign films on bonus vouchers will be increased by 25 per cent during 1963.

EXPORT

The Government of Pakistan and Pakistan Film Producers Association individually and collectively are trying to boost export of Pakistani films, for which reason a delegation of the PFPA visited the Far East and Middle East and exhibited many Pakistani films in special shows. About 10 Pakistani films were exported during 1962 to the U.K., Middle East and South and East Africa. PFPA has decided to dub the pictures in the language of those countries in which the films have demand. Liaison offices in the U.S.A., U.K., Italy, Germany, France, Japan, China, Russia may be opened in the near future.

ITALIAN FILM INDUSTRY EXPANDS

By EITEL MONACO
President of ANICA
(National Association of the Italian Motion Picture Industry)

ROME

THE year 1962 can definitely be considered as a good one for the Italian film industry.

While in every country of the Western world the situation as regards production, distribution and exhibition must be described as "uneasy," in Italy the number of productions—either fully Italian or with an Italian major contribution — has increased to 174, from last year's 158. To this figure we must add 16 medium-length films for youth and 51 with a major foreign participation (for these, the Italian contribution was of an average 30%).

Other favorable points are the continuous progress of technical standards, the variety and novelty of stories, the artistic assets of the most qualified part of our production, and the mounting returns from exportations (from 15 to 35 million dollars in the last five years). Even the home market has kept its positions at 740 million tickets sold and a total receipt of about 130,000 million lire. The praise for a situation so very different from the other markets, goes first of all to the great interest which the Italian film has been able to raise in its home audiences: in 1962 the Italian film has earned 45% of the total home market receipts.

However, the situation of the Italian film industry is strictly connected to the situation of the other film industries. The diminished number of competitive productions is bound to cause a greatest demand of films on the foreign markets: it is however but an apparent benefit, quickly annulled by the simultaneous fall of the receipts from the same markets. A contraction of the audiences in those countries which have been at one time our best customers, must obviously reduce the receipts from our exportations.

Other, and by no means less serious problems, are the growing costs of production and, even more, the high level reached by the salaries and wages of some privileged categories of artists and technicians.

The greatest difficulty of all, however, is still the absurd amount of taxes on film business: in 1962 such taxes have reached 35,000 million lire. It is true that the weight of fiscality is partially reduced by the so-called Government aids to the Italian films. But such aids, recently extended by our Parliament to June 30th, 1964, were reduced from 16% to 15% of gross receipts. Such reduction was a consequence of a request by the European Economic Community: Article 85 of the Rome Treaty provides, in fact, for the abolition of all State aids that could alter the balance of competition, but the State aids now in force in favor of our industry are nothing but a sort of compensation for the exceptional taxation with which our industry is burdened, in addition to the taxes normally applied to all other industrial and commercial activities.

The Italian film industry has consequently promoted, within the European Film Industry Committee, the realization of a self-financing plan based on the abolition of all State aids, to be enforced simultaneously with the abolition of all taxes on film business.

The situation of technical equipment, such as studios, developing, printing and dubbing laboratories, etc., has shown a tendency towards an increase in studios investments, besides a continuous renewal and modernization of the existing equipment, which are now to be considered as the best in Europe.

The year 1962 has also seen the continuation of that cooperation between the Italian and the American film industries, which over the last ten years has yielded such satisfactory results.

All restrictions to the free international film trade, were also abolished in Italy in 1962, by the abrogation of the so called "dubbing tax" on foreign films, and by the complete liberalization of exchanges and monetary remittances.

THE 1963 FILM DAILY YEAR BOOK OF MOTION PICTURES

1962: A YEAR OF RELATIVE QUIET

By MANDEL HERBSTMAN
FILM DAILY Staff Writer

CHANGES, ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND DISAPPOINTMENTS marked the television year of 1962. Yet for the most part it was a relatively quiet year. There were no scandals that rocked the industry as in years before. There were no reverberating "wasteland" charges. Even the nature of the entertainment was pretty much the mixture as before. One wit characterized it as a year in which television drove the people back to the movies.

The ceremonies bow of Telestar marked a headline-making accomplishment. There was the exciting moment on the homescreen when faces from France came into view on the American shores. The orbiting satellite gave the live picture signals a boost across the Atlantic Ocean. When it came in, the veil to the future was pushed aside to provide a glimpse of global communications to come.

In the documentary and news reporting field television again stood out. There were the heart-quickening moments of the Cuban crisis, the human and scientific drama that inhered in the orbital flight of Colonel John H. Glenn, Jr., and his safe reentry after moments of uncertainty; the numerous programs in which the cameras turned their focus on President and Mrs. Kennedy.

On the creative entertainment level there were few startling achievements or innovations. The formula series became entrenched. In the words of the New York Times television critic, Jack Gould, "the entertainment plight of television could be summarized in the title of its most popular show: "The Beverly Hillbillies.'"

A noteworthy birth in the New York area during the year was the educational station WNDT, following a long period of struggle.

The vitality of Federal Communications Commissioner Newton Minow was felt during the year. Hearings were conducted by the FCC into network practices and policies. Towards the end of the year hearings were begun to curb the loudness of television commercials. In still another respect Minow's influence was felt. Long a champion of programs for children, his efforts bore fruit when all three networks began programs for children.

Making news on the executive level was the resignation of Oliver Treyz as president of the American Broadcasting Company Television network and his replacement by his former aide, Thomas W. Moore.

As usual motion pictures enjoyed a tremendous popularity on television. A year end survey indicated there was a pool of more than 10,000 features available to television stations.

By way of noteworthy figures, advertisers invested an estimated $721,211,000 in national and regional spot television during 1962, an increase of 16.8 per cent over the $617,398,000 for 1961. In 1962 there were 1,275 advertisers whose expenditures exceeded $20,000; 152 advertisers were in the million-dollar and over group.

Also in the facts and figures department: The number of overseas TV transmitting stations totaled 2,641 in 1962, an increase of 29 per cent over the 2,047 figure in the previous year. The U. S. Information Agency also reported that the number of TV receivers went up from 53,760,000 to 63,502,000 in 1962.

Seven countries and territories initiated TV in 1962: Gibraltar, Malta, Trinidad-Tobago, Morocco, Indonesia, Taiwan and Kenya.

Most spectacular growth was in Japan where 4,151,000 new TV sets came into use in 1962 for a total of 12,837,100.

THE MOTION PICTURE ASSOCIATION

DURING 1962 THE MPAA carried on the continuing battle against censorship and classification throughout the United States, promoted films among religious, educational and women's organizations and received the E Award, the Export Flag from the Government for its support of the President's export expansion program.

In an effort to promote some of the important new releases for 1962 the MPAA Advertising and Publicity Directors Committee conducted a special radio campaign featuring a musical jingle based on the industry's slogan, "Get More Out of Life. Go Out to a Movie!"

During the year Eric Johnston, president, addressed a number of organizations on various facets of motion pictures. In Hartford, Conn., he spoke to the men's club of Temple Beth Israel on "Movies, Ideas and Courage." In Great Britain, at the golden jubilee banquet of the Cinematograph Exhibitors' Association, his talk was entitled "Let Our Statures Touch the Skies." In Washington he addressed the Advertising Club on "The Motion Picture: Advertisement for Freedom." In Ohio he talked to the Motion Picture Council on motion picture censorship, and in Washington he addressed the Women's Democratic Club on "Motion Pictures: The Nation's Best Salesman Abroad."

Early in the year the industry was faced with classification bills in the New York state legislature. Concerted efforts were made by the association and all branches of the industry to defeat this legislation. Many communications groups joined with the industry in opposing censorship and classification bills, including the Authors League, the Record Industry Association, the American Book Publishers Council, the New York Civil Liberties Union, the Metropolitan Council of B'nai B'rith and the New York State Broadcasters Legislative Committee.

The industry again supported the Academy Awards telecast in April and promotional kits were prepared and made available to exhibitors through the joint efforts of the MPAA and the Theatre Owners of America. Some 2,500 exhibitors participated in a special promotion campaign supporting the awards.

Gordon White, advertising code administrator, made a cross-country tour to review the industry's relations with the press. He visited some 15 or 20 key cities and his report indicated considerable regard and approval of the industry's self-regulatory system under the Advertising Code Administration. He found few complaints about the industry's advertising and these were handled on the local level.

Eugene Picker, vice-president of United Artists, was elected by the MPAA board to represent it on the COMPO governing committee. He succeeded the late Abe Montague, who served in the post for many years.

Johnston appeared before the Senate Finance Committee in Washington and testified in behalf of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

Representatives of the association — Margaret Twyman, director of community relations, and Barbara Scott of the legal department—presented statements before the House of Representatives District of Columbia Subcommittee at hearings on bills to establish censorship of motion pictures and television in the District. Sidney Schreiber, MPAA general counsel, requested President Kennedy to veto the D.C. So-called anti-obscenity bill on the contention it was reminiscent of the seizure of printing presses in 17th-Century England. The president vetoed the bill.

The motion picture industry was represented at the Seattle World's Fair during U. S. Film Week with 14 outstanding films from the past. The 14 programs were exceptionally well attended and considered a highlight of the fair.

Mrs. Twyman during the year addressed many groups and organizations, including a workshop on "Mass Media and the Family" at Harriman, N. Y.; the Federation of Motion Picture Councils at Grand Rapids, Mich.; a workshop on juvenile delinquency at Brooklyn College; the citizenship conference at the University of Illinois on "Citizenship and the Cinema." She was the official hostess for a reception honoring the new president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington, D. C.

In November the Marano Committee of the New York State legislature held a hearing in New York City on film classification. The association arranged for the appearance of Paul Newman, film actor, and Arthur Hornblow, Jr., veteran producer. Appearing for the association, Geoffrey Shurlock, director of the Production Code Administration, Mrs. Twyman and Miss Scott presented statements and answered the committee's questions. The hearing was well covered by the press, radio and TV.

At the request of President Kennedy, arrangements were made for the industry to distribute a short subject in celebration of Navy Day entitled "The Answer." United Artists released the color short nationwide. It was made available to all theatres free of charge.

Later in the year the United States Information Agency requested that the industry consider the theatrical distribution of Jacqueline Kennedy's visits to India and Pakistan. Following a drawing among the member companies, United Artists handled the subject. The two shorts were combined into a half-hour color film which is being well received by the motion picture public.

The second international poster contest sponsored by the MPAA International Film Relations Committee was held with entries from 11 countries. First prizes went to Warner Bros. for a poster by the German artist Rolf Goetze for "Splendor in the Grass."

Representatives of the motion picture industry met with a group of leading educators at a meeting at the Harvard Club under the auspices of the MPAA community relations department. This exploratory session to determine areas of closer working relationships was most productive. It will be followed by further meetings.

Johnston was elected president of the International Federation of Film Producers Associations for a two-year term at its London meeting in November.

PRODUCTION CODE ADMINISTRATION

SELF-REGULATION of motion picture production evolved gradually from early beginnings in 1922 when the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America was founded. Several progressive steps to establish higher standards of production culminated in the adoption on March 31, 1930, of the Production Code, which continues as the basic document in the industry's policy of self-regulation.

This Code, a voluntary agreement entered into by the member companies, acknowledges the producers' responsibility to the public and asks in return "a sympathetic understanding of the problems inherent in motion picture production, and a spirit of cooperation that will allow the opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all concerned."

The Code machinery of self-regulation operates at four points:

1. The original story or play may be submitted to the Production Code Administration for suggestion and criticism before the first screen adaptation is written.
2. When the script is completed, it is submitted for a check with Code requirements.
3. In the early stages of production, members of the Production Code Administration staff are often called in to discuss sequences that present problems.
4. After this careful reviewing all along the way, the finished picture is reviewed and, if it meets Code requirements, a certificate of approval is issued.

The Code machinery is available to all producers, foreign or domestic, whether or not they are members of the Association, a service increasingly utilized.

How well the Production Code Administration has performed its functions in maintaining both Code Standards and the integrity and vigor of the screen as a medium of entertainment is evidenced by the steady stream of high quality pictures that continues to flow from the studios.

ADVERTISING CODE ADMINISTRATION

AS WITH all forms of self-regulation in the motion picture industry, the efforts of the member companies of the Association, through the provisions of the Advertising Code (adopted June 10, 1930), are directed toward promoting and maintaining a high standard of advertising throughout the industry. This cooperative effort brings into conformity with the requirements of good taste all press books, newspaper advertising, trailers, outdoor displays, novelties and other forms of publicity and exploitation.

All motion picture producers, whether or not they are members of the Motion Picture Association, who accept the Production Code seal on their product thereby agree to conform also to the Advertising Code.

To insure uniform interpretation of the Code, all advertising material is submitted in advance to the Advertising Code Administration at the Association's office in New York or its branch in Hollywood.

TITLE REGISTRATION BUREAU

DEVELOPMENT — (a) The difficulty experienced by motion picture producers and distributors in protecting valuable property rights in the titles of their film productions, in the absence of copyright protection on the title itself, and the expense and delays of litigation in establishing usage rights, brought about the gradual development of a voluntary method of title registration in a central agency. The Title Registration Bureau was established by the members of the Association in 1925.

(b) From 1925 to 1936, the unwritten rules and regulations governing the bureau's operation were crystallized into a formula named the "Memoranda of the Title Committee" (commonly called the "Title Memoranda") which was formally approved by the Board of Directors in 1935 and became effective January 1, 1936 (amended October 25, 1937). Under the provisions of the Memoranda, it is mandatory for members of the Association to participate in the title registration system. Under certain terms and conditions, the registration service is also available to non-member producing and/or distributing companies, or individuals, who elect to use its facilities. These non-members have the privilege of registering their titles upon a basis of equality with members of the Association.

ORGANIZATION — The headquarters of the Title Registration Bureau is located in the Association's New York office where the Director of the Bureau is stationed. The Title Committee consists of a Chairman and of one representative from each member company. Members of the committee are appointed by the President of the Association. The Director of the Bureau works closely with the committee and is an ex-officio member.

The committee holds an annual meeting and meetings at such other times and intervals as provided in the Title Memoranda.

The Title Registration Bureau maintains close contact with the Production Code Administration in Hollywood in connection with the Bureau's Production Code activities.

The membership of the Title Registration Bureau at present includes all members of the Association and approximately 200 non-member signatories to the voluntary registration agreement.

FEES — (a) Each participant is required to pay an annual subscription charge, at the beginning of each fiscal year, April 18th, of Eighty Dollars ($80.00).

On and after October 18th, and until the fiscal year end of April 17th, the subscription charge rate is one-half, or Forty Dollars ($40.00).

(b) Each participant is required to pay a fixed service fee of One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) for the first title that he has registered but he is then entitled to nine additional registrations or any number thereof without further charge. Upon registering the eleventh title and the first of any additional group of ten, the applicant is required to pay another One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) in each instance. The maximum service fee is Two Thousand One Hundred Dollars ($2,100.00) for the registration of two hundred and one (201) titles or more during the year.

At the fiscal year end of April 17th, no part of the fee is refundable nor is the title count cumulative to the next year.

(c) If for any reason a title is returned to the applicant without being registered, there is no charge.

(d) A service fee of Five Dollars ($5.00) is imposed for the extension of each title. This fee applies only to the extensions of priority of original titles to which there are any reserve registrations.

OBJECTIVES — The registration of motion picture titles serves several purposes:

(a) It protects the valuable titles of published books and produced plays acquired for motion picture production, as well as original titles with popular appeal, against the use of identical or harmfully similar titles.

(b) It establishes priorities and other usage rights.

(c) It prevents the costs and time-consuming processes of litigation in adjudicating conflicting claims.

(d) It enables the theatre-going public to easily identify motion pictures without confusion due to misleading similarity between titles.

(e) It discourages the use of morally or socially objectionable titles in the interest of good public relations for the industry.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURE — (a) The registration of a title is initiated by sending a formal application to the Title Registration Bureau. Because of the numerous time elements involved in the registration plan, the application form is "time-stamped" (date and hour) upon its receipt.

(b) Titles which are considered to be in violation of Section XI of the Production Code are not accepted for registration. Notice of disapproval and the reasons therefor are sent by letter to the applicant.

(c) Titles which are deemed acceptable for registration under the Production Code are checked for identity with both produced and unproduced motion pictures. The titles are then carefully searched for possible similarities to previously registered titles. A notice of the status of the titles is then sent to the registering company by means of a daily report which is distributed to all subscribers. The report includes new registrations, withdrawals, releases, protests, withdrawals of protests, expirations, extensions, waivers, address changes, and all other information of general interest, including new memberships.

(d) Differences of opinion regarding similarity and conflict and other title controversies may be adjusted by direct negotiation between the interested registrants. If these negotiations fail to bring about an amicable solution of the controversy, the matter may be referred to the Association for possible mediation or conciliation. If this procedure fails to resolve the dispute, it may then be referred to arbitration for decision. Decisions so rendered can be appealed to the Board of Directors of the Association for final determination.

(e) At the end of each month an Expiration Report is published listing all of the titles which are due to expire in the ensuing month.

(f) An additional function of the bureau is the consideration of titles as to their acceptability under Section XI of the Production Code. This service is for those companies which do not register titles with the bureau but which submit their productions to the Production Code Administration for its seal of approval.

GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS — Each subscriber to the title registration plan is required to register all of his titles with the Association, indicating on the application form the classification of the title; that is, whether the title is to be used for a feature picture, or a short subject, or a song, and whether the title is that of a copyrighted produced play, a copyrighted published work, an uncopyrighted original story, uncopyrighted produced play, copyrighted unproduced play, or an uncopyrighted unproduced play.

Each registrant is limited to one hundred original feature titles and two hundred original short subject titles at any one time. There is no limitation on the number of song titles and reserve registrations.

A prior registrant may protest within a prescribed period of time the registration of any subsequent title which he deems to be harmfully similar or in conflict with his registration. The subsequent registrant is required to acknowledge the protest within a specified time period. If the parties are unable to arrive at a mutual agreement and settlement of their controversy, they may ask for an arbitration hearing. Said proceedings are conducted before an arbitration board consisting of members of the Title Committee, or before three industry persons, mutually agreed upon by the disputants. As stated before, such decisions can be appealed.

Titles of pictures intended for production are granted indefinite protection if affixed to copyrighted material. Titles which are classified as "original" enjoy protection for a period of one year from the registration date. If on the anniversary date of the registration no reserve registration of the identical title has been made, the registrant's title is automatically extended for another full year. If, however, there are reserve registrations, the prior registrant may request a six months extension of priority on notice that he intends to commence production within that period. Said extension can be challenged (but rarely is) by a reserve registrant of the identical title. If, at the end of eighteen months his picture is completed, he may obtain an indefinite extension of priority. If he has not completed his film within his eighteen months of priority, but still wishes to retain the title, established procedure requires that he obtain the consent of the reservists.

In the case of identity, conflict or similarity between song titles and motion picture titles, the motion picture titles have a reasonable precedence over the song titles, but any unresolved dispute may be determined by arbitration.

After a picture has been produced and released, the title of the picture is placed on the so-called Release Index, or list of produced motion pictures. If the motion picture was based on a copyrighted work owned by the registrant, the title is automatically placed on the permanently protected list. Each registrant is also entitled to permanent protection for up to two hundred fifty original titles. All other titles registered and used for released pictures are protected for a four year period; during this period of protection, no other subscriber may use the title unless he obtains a clearance from the prior registrant.

STATISTICS—In the year 1962, 1,987 titles were submitted to the Bureau for registration; of these, 76 could not be accepted because of their identity with existing registrations.

The Bureau was notified of the release of 217 features and 276 short subjects in the same year. Its index of released film and short subjects contains approximately 50,000 titles covering the period 1900 through 1962.

Between January and December, 1962, approximately 608 titles were protested on grounds of harmful similarity. The majority of these protests were disposed of by amicable arrangements between the interested parties and in some cases it was agreed to postpone final settlement until a future date. Twenty-six cases were submitted to arbitration procedures and seven cases were appealed to the Board of Directors for final decision.

Extensions of priority registration numbered 1,550 and 317 registrations were permitted to lapse, during the year.

Subscribers reported the remake or reissue of 29 motion pictures bearing titles in protested categories.

Production Code approval was issued to 28 titles for non-participating companies which offered their productions to the Production Code Administration for its certificate of approval.

The applications of thirty new companies for membership were processed and accepted in 1962.

Telephone requests and correspondence were heavy.

No appeals were taken from decisions made in connections with the Bureau's administration of Section XI of the Production Code.

MOTION PICTURE EXPORT ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA

AMERICAN motion pictures constitute one of this country's leading export commodities. They are widely exhibited in every country of the world with the exception of Communist China and its satellite countries.

Monetary returns from motion pictures in foreign markets account for over half of the American film industry's total revenue. Few other American industries rely on foreign markets to such an extent.

In addition to their commercial importance, American films—more than any other medium of mass communication—are recognized as a powerful influence in fostering democratic attitudes and in conveying to peoples abroad an understanding of American life, customs and institutions. While American movies are popular primarily because of their superior entertainment values, the social and ideological by-products which they carry have had a tremendous impact on film-goers of every nation in which American films are exhibited.

The heavy reliance of the American film industry on revenues from abroad and the increasingly vital role its product is playing as ambassadors of democracy have invested the Motion Picture Export Association of America, Inc., with important responsibilities.

Constant objective of the Association's efforts is to hold down to a minimum, through negotiation, the restraints officially imposed by many foreign governments on the free distribution of American films, and to eliminate these curbs wherever possible. Typical of the barriers placed in the path of American films abroad are limitations on film imports, screen quotas, excessive import duties, dubbing taxes, and substantial levies on theaters, admissions and earnings.

Gains in the box office volume of American films and monetary returns from overseas markets paralleled the recovery of Europe and Asia from the economic and political disruptions of the post-war years.

Even though there has been little abatement in the obstacles that impede American film operations overseas, business volume remained strong in 1962.

Through MPEA efforts and negotiations, following are some of the noteworthy developments overseas in 1960:

New understandings were reached with India, Pakistan, and Argentina.

Serious problems stemming from heavy inflation in Brazil and Argentina were dealt with on a more-or-less continuing basis.

Distribution reorganization and other problems in Indonesia received considerable attention.

New problems developed in the newly organized states of North Africa and West Africa for action by the Association.

MPEA outposts abroad are located in London, Paris, Frankfurt, Rome, Rio de Janeiro, Tokyo and Djakarta.

MPEA's field representatives serve as liaison with foreign governments and film interests, and with member company distributors and report to MPEA headquarters on all matters relating to motion picture interests in their respective areas. Presence of these men in the field enables the MPEA to take prompt action on matters requiring remedial attention. Not infrequently, when adverse legislation is anticipated, speedy appeal and negotiation by MPEA have been successful in delaying and discouraging enactment.

Film Boards of Trade composed of local representatives of American motion picture distributors are maintained in 29 foreign countries. They operate under the general guidance of the Association and their activities, reported regularly and in detail, are shared with member companies.

The Advisory Unit for Foreign Films, created by Johnston in 1950 as an integral part of MPEA, continued its program of assistance to foreign film producers who seek its services.

The unit was set up for the purpose of making available to foreign producers or their representatives the information, knowledge and merchandising experience needed to help them market their product in the United States. Its basic objective is to encourage the importation of more good foreign films in this country, thereby helping to stimulate the flow of dollars to film-producing countries abroad.

The Advisory Unit is essentially consultative in character. Statitsics on the American film market compiled specially by the Unit for foreign film producers are readily available. The Unit gives information on the clearance of films through U.S. customs; on standard distribution and exhibition practices; the operation of the Production Code; state and local censorship regulations and other items—all calculated to smooth the path of the overseas producer who has a film to sell here.

COMMUNITY RELATIONS DEPARTMENT

The Community Relations Department provides information and assistance to civic, cultural and educational groups and leaders who are interested in directing the attention of the public to worthwhile current motion pictures as well as to a greater appreciation of the film medium. This department also assists exhibitors and distributors in adapting their programs to meet community needs and interests.

Among the activities to which the department gives its cooperation and sponsorship are the following:

Review Services

The Community Relations Department with the cooperation of the motion picture distributing companies, provides previewing facilities for the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations, composed of the following: American Jewish Committee, American Library Association, Daughters of the American Revolution, National Federation of Music Clubs, Federation of Motion Picture Councils, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Council of Women of the U.S.A., Protestant Motion Picture Council, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, Schools Motion Picture Committee.

Each of the above organizations designates a motion picture chairman who appoints a reviewing committee, varying in size between 10 and 50 members. These trained previewers submit their reviews of current entertainment films to the editorial chairman of their individual organizations.

The chairmen in turn use this material in twice monthly editorial sessions to compile the composite reviews of the Film Estimate Board of National Organizations. These reviews are printed in THE GREEN SHEET, representing the consensus of the membership of the Film Estimate Board. In addition, several of the participating organizations reprint their individual reviews in their own bulletins or magazines.

Motion Pictures having outstanding merit, in the opinion of the Film Estimate Board, are awarded a star. If the opinion of any one or more organizations is not in agreement with the estimate of the majority, the differing opinions are noted at the end of the review in question.

THE GREEN SHEET is a free service, published primarily for the use of mass media, educators, clergymen, theatre managers and others who are able to disseminate its contents to a wider audience.

Special Service

Pictures Based on Books or Plays: A listing of pictures in current production or release which are based on books or plays is printed monthly as an additional feature of THE GREEN SHEET.

Children's Film Services

The following services are available for aid in children's film programming:

Children's Film Lists: Upon request, lists of films suitable for children may be obtained.

Cooperative Community Planning of Children's Film Program: Community groups wishing to initiate special film programs for children, with the help of local exhibitors, may obtain descriptive material on procedure and suggestions as to types of programs.

Formation of Children's Motion Picture Committee: Information on the information on the formation and functioning of a children's or schools' motion picture committee is available from the department on request.

Suggestions for Judging Suitability of Films for Children: Groups working with film programs for children (educators, librarians, parent-teacher groups, recreation workers, etc.) may obtain a list of principles that can be applied in the selection of films for children.

Organization Services

Program Suggestions: Organizations wishing to plan meetings which deal with any facet of the motion picture industry can receive assistance in the planning of such programs. This includes ideas for program content as well as suggestions for the presentation of material.

Program Planning with Local Exhibitors: Community organizations wishing to develop cooperative programs with local exhibitors may obtain suggestions as to types of programs and their administration.

Exhibitor Services

Individual exhibitors, or organized groups of exhibitors, may request assistance in the planning of programs designed to develop favorable community attitudes.

Services to Motion Picture Councils

Since organizing the Federation of Motion Picture Councils, the Community Relations Department has continued to work with all councils, individually and collectively, toward developing efficient administration and constructive programming which will serve both the community and the motion picture industry.

PUBLIC RELATIONS DEPT. ACTIVITIES

The department is concerned not only with the overall public relations program for the industry, but with MPAA press relations as well.

Trade Papers: The department is in contact with the 11 daily and weekly trade papers serving the motion picture industry. The papers are serviced with press releases, stills and occasionally press interviews and press conferences are arranged.

General Press: Special feature material is made available from time to time to the daily press and important stories are frequently distributed to a list of some 900 motion picture critics and 650 newspaper editors throughout the country. In addition other material concerning the industry is supplied to the wire services, the financial press and to the weekly news magazines.

Foreign: All MPEA foreign offices are also provided with news and reviews from the American press of interest to their particular territories. On request from foreign publications, the department gathers special material, provides stills for overseas displays and frequently provides material requested by USIA offices for overseas use.

Foreign Visitors: Film personnel, newspaper and magazine writers and official foreign government visitors are assisted by the department. Schedules are arranged for foreign guests to visit theatres, studios and meet representatives of our member companies. During 1961 the department greeted representatives from Japan, India, Israel, Germany and Latin America.

MPAA International Film Relations Committee: The department meets each month with this Committee to review procedures for clearing accredited correspondents from foreign publications, to revise and bring up to date lists of such correspondents, to set policies concerning the material made available on request from foreign sources, and other promotional activities.

MPAA Advertising and Publicity Directors' Committee: The department arranges for monthly meetings with this Committee in connection with matters relating to public relations, advertising and promotion problems involving all member companies. In this connection the department coordinates the special promotion campaign for the Academy Awards telecast.

The Committee, during the past year, has been active in promoting better press relations throughout the country and in combating press censorship of motion picture advertising. A subcommittee on press relations is active throughout the year. During 1962, at the request of the Advertising and Publicity Directors Committee, Gordon White, retiring director of the Advertising Code Administration, visited executives of leading newspapers in some twenty cities to determine if there were any problems concerning motion picture advertising. The report of his survey was most encouraging. He met few, if any, problems—and where problems had arisen they had been worked out amicably between the paper and the local exhibitor. A regular contact was maintained during the year with representatives of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Other promotional campaigns carried on by the Committee during the past year have been National Library Week and Book Week.

MPAA Newsreel Committee: The department arranges for meetings of the MPAA Newsreel Committee. The department works with the newsreels in providing service to the U. S. Government Savings Bonds program, American Cancer Society and the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Exhibitor Contacts: The department is in regular contact with representatives of all national exhibitor associations, as well as COMPO. Material for exhibitor use in their local areas to combat censorship, as well as speeches, publicity and special feature articles for local press are supplied to exhibitors on request.

General Information: The department receives and services many inquiries each day from the public, from industry contacts and from the member companies.

Playdate Bulletin: This mimeographed bulletin is published each week. It lists current motion pictures appearing in all Broadway and midtown theatres in Manhattan. It also includes a listing of coming attractions with opening dates of both the current and coming films. This publication may be obtained upon request.

Screening Schedules and Weekly Listing: A complete schedule of all press screenings held in New York City is maintained for member companies. This serves as a clearinghouse for the scheduling of all screenings by all companies. Copies of advance schedules are provided to the members.

TEACHING FILM CUSTODIANS, INC.

Effective in mid 1958, the Educational Services Department of the Motion Picture Association of America has been merged with Teaching Film Custodians, Inc. (TFC).

The TFC Program functions to meet the social responsibility of the motion picture industry in the field of education by:

(1) Making available, to schools and colleges only, short subjects, newsreels with foreign voice and excerpts from feature pictures selected as applicable for teaching purposes, from the theatrical motion picture product;

(2) Providing limited grants of funds to state and national teaching-purpose groups for study, research and consultant service in the application of motion pictures in prescribed courses of study, teaching processes, and in portraying the national culture at its best;

(8) Publication of the Report on the Eighth Lake Okoboji Audio-Visual Leadership Conference, August 19-23, 1962, dealing with the topic, "Programmed Learning as Concern to Education." The Conference is sponsored by the Extension Division of the State University of Iowa (Iowa City) and the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction of the National Education Association with a partial grant of funds from TFC. It is attended by selected outstanding educators from all parts of the United States, Canada, Europe and South America.

(9) Continuing cooperation with the following educational institutions and associations in previously inaugurated services: (a) A Field and Consultant Service in cooperation with the Department of Audio-Visual Instruction of the National Education Association; (b) the Leadership Work Program in cooperation with the Council on Cooperative College Projects of the Negro Land Grant Colleges; (c) the Lake Okoboji (Eighth) Educational Leadership Conference under the auspices of the State University of Iowa. (d) Representation membership in the American Council on Education, National Education Association, Educational Film Library Association, Modern Language Association of America, National School Public Relations Association in connection with the Advisory Committee for the Golden Key Award to dramatize the importance of The Teacher in American Life.

The TFC program is a non-profit, educational service. It is maintained without compensation to the cooperating producing companies or the the educational institutions responsible for implementing its projects. The program carries out the statement, "developing the educational, as well as the entertainment values and general usefulness of the motion picture," which was included in the purposes for which the MPAA was formed in 1922.

Under this program, nearly 500 non-current theatrical short subjects were made available in 1939. These were selected from about 15,000 short subjects, then in the vaults of the member companies, for use in educational institutions in strictly classroom work.

The selections were made under the supervision of the Advisory Committee on the Use of Motion Pictures in Education.

For the purpose of handling the physical distribution of the films, the educators who were members of this Advisory Committee formed themselves into a non-profit corporation known as Teaching Film Custodians, Inc. Members of the Advisory Committee became the board of directors of TFC.

The present board members are: Mark A. May, chairman, director, Institute of Human Relations, Yale University; Arthur S. Adams, president, American Council on Education; Frederick H. Bair, Department of Education, State of New York; Melvin E. Brodshaug, Dean, School of Public Relations and Communications, Boston University; Kenneth W. Clark, vice-president, MPAA; Stephen M. Corey, Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University; John R. Emens, president, Ball State Teachers College (Indiana); Willard E. Givens, former executive secretary, National Education Association; William Jansen, former Superintendent of Schools, New York City; Wesley C. Meierhenry, assistant dean, Teachers College, University of Nebraska; Jay B. Nash, executive secretary, New York State Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation; Roy E. Simpson, Superintendent of Public Instruction, California; and A. L. Threlkeld, former Superintendent of Schools in Denver, and in Montclair, N. J.

Since its inception, the services of the board members of TFC and each of the cooperating committees have been rendered on a volunteer basis.

In 1943 the member companies of the MPAA authorized Teaching Film Custodians, to excerpt non-current feature pictures in the interests of providing these excerpts for study in classes of English literature, social science and other curriculum areas. The excerpts from feature pictures are distributed for classroom use under the same licensing terms which govern the distribution of short subjects.

Under the terms and conditions of the contracts with the producing companies, Teaching Film Custodians is permitted to license certain short subjects and excerpts from feature pictures to schools for limited periods with stated limitations as follows:

"Prints will be furnished only to bonafide educational institutions and agencies; the exhibitions shall be before classroom or kindred groups composed only of bonafide students or enrolled members of such educational institutions or agencies, and such exhibitions shall be an integral factor of class or group study and discussion."

"Admission fees, directly or indirectly, shall never be charged or permitted to be paid for admission at the door or otherwise in advance or afterwards, for the right to attend either single exhibitions or a series of such exhibitions."

Under the contract, these classroom pictures must be projected without change or alteration. The unauthorized copying of these films is a violation of the U. S. copyright law. Any unauthorized exhibition of these pictures would also be a violation of the copyright law. Also, under no circumstances may the prints be used in television broadcasts.

A TFC Handbook of Films for Classroom Use has been prepared listing and describing the short subjects and excerpts from feature pictures which are made available for educational purposes.

All funds over and above actual handling and distribution costs which accrue from license fees for Teaching Film Custodians pictures are devoted to the further development of audio-visual education. Among the experimental and research projects to which Teaching Film Custodians has contributed are the following:

The Motion Picture Research Project Yale University; the Commisison on Motion Pictures, American Council on Education The Division of Audio-Visual Education, National Education Association; the Research Project in Film Evaluation in cooperation with the Adult Education Association; regional audio-visual conferences in New York City; University of Syracuse; Atlanta, Ga.; University of Kansas; Los Angeles, California. (2); Sacramento, California; University of Oklahoma; Hood River, Oregon; Indiana University (2); University of New Hampshire (2); University of Florida; Virginia State College at the request of the Conference of Negro Land Grant Colleges; the State University of Iowa; and the University of Colorado.

Initially in connection with the statewide Iowa instructional program of the schools and colleges and subsequently in 1955, 1956 and 1957 the National Leadership Conferences on Instructional Materials was held at Lake Okoboji, Ia. In conjunction with the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, Teaching Film Custodians has been co-sponsor of the Curriculum Enrichment Program in Rural High Schools, State Department of Education, Nebraska, and the Evaluation of Teacher Training Activities in Audio-Visual Education, State College of Washington. The Nebraska Program, based on a four year comprehensive study, is described in the book, "Enriching the Curriculum Through Motion Pictures," by Dr. W. C. Meierhenry, University of Nebraska Press.

The authorization by the member companies of the MPAA to excerpt feature pictures has resulted in the expansion of the educational services program in the preparation of films to meet specific educational objectives. National organizations of teachers in specialized subject-matter areas seek the cooperation of Teaching Film Custodians, and appoint collaborating committees to assist in preparing useful materials from feature picture footage.

Among the organizations that have participated in this program are the Music Educators National Conference, the National Council for the Social Studies, the National Council of Teachers of English, National Science Teachers Association, American Vocational Association, American Home Economics Association, Department of Home Economics of the N. E. A., the Citizenship Education Project, Teachers College, Columbia University, the Committee on Human Relations composed of representatives of the Commissions against Discrimination of the states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey, American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, and the Catholic Audio-Visual Educators Association.

The costs of this excerpting program are paid by Teaching Film Custodians, and the films when completed and approved are distributed by Teaching Film Custodians.

TFC sponsors and distributes the series of 16mm informational and vocational films on the motion picture industry in school and community groups. The titles are as follows: "The Art Director," "The Cinematographer," "The Costume Designer," "History Brought to Life" "Let's Go to the Movies," "Moments in Music," "Movies are Adventure," "Screen Actors," "The Screen Director.""The Screen Writer,""The Soundman," "This Theater and You," and "Understanding Movies." These films are available from extension divisions of universities, school film libraries, public libraries and museums, or on application to Teaching Film Custodians, Inc.

TFC is active also in cooperating with various national and international groups in developing the educational usefulness of motion pictures and particularly those which are produced by the member companies of the MPAA. The program includes many cooperative projects with government agencies, with professional organizations in the visual education field throughout the United States, and such international organizations as UNESCO, the American Friends Service Committee, and the Departments of Education of various foreign countries. It has also cooperated with the Committee on International Non-Theatrical Events (CINE) in the screening and nomination of American non-theatrical films as entries on world-wide film festivals.

The TFC program has made the motion picture industry a very useful ally to education, and has developed common interests between the industry and educational leaders resulting in a clearer understanding of the relationship of the programs of both groups.

TECHNICAL SERVICES DEPARTMENT

This Department has as one of its responsibilities the analysis of logistical and mechanical problems that occur in the shipment, storage and servicing of films distributed to the nation's theaters. The department also extends to the member companies engineering and planning services directed toward efficiency and economies inherent in modern methods of film exchange operation.

In providing these services, the department continually studies all current technical advancements in film servicing equipment, new film bases, film splicing and repair devices, automatic film re-winding equipment, etc.

In connection with film servicing, the department keeps in close touch, through engineering societies, film manufacturers, equipment suppliers, with all advancements and new developments in projection processes and sound reproduction methods. The Technical Services Department continues to supervise the association's film exchange safety program, originally developed some 32 years ago on a self-regulatory basis.

The value of this program's continuation, in spite of the steadily decreasing percentage of nitrate flammable film, is evident as the association's member companies continue to maintain an almost perfect avoidance of fire loss in their operations. The film industry's fire safety record is unmatched in American industry.

Coupled with this safety effort is the department's constant protection surveillance of film condition, particularly pointed toward avoidance of film base and image deterioration in films stored for long periods. With the almost complete conversion to safety base film, the department maintains close liaison with the civil regulatory authorities in exchange centers to secure and maintain liberalization of the former highly restrictive regulations imposed on the exchanges when nitrate film was stored. In all but a few exchange centers, current safety films are now stored in open areas instead of the former confining film vaults releasing the companies from the heavy rent burden of specialized buildings required by laws proposed on flammable film storage.

The department's director also heads the association's Foreign Film Advisory Unit organized to assist overseas producers in the presentation of their film product to the member companies and independent distributors for possible distribution in the United States. In connection with this activity the department also renders technical aid to overseas motion picture organizations in almost every area of motion picture work extending from studio production, camera and laboratory equipment, theater design and even to the preplanning of drive-in theaters.

The director serves on the National Committee of Films for Safety organized for the purpose of encouraging the production of non-theatrical and theatrical films designed to prevent injury and loss of life in every area of human hazard. Each year this committee presents bronze plaque awards to the outstanding film produced in the safety field.

The department also supervises the maintenance of records covering non-theatrical institutions which obtain their film service from the member companies. In order to assure audience safety in these institutions and avoidance of unwarranted damage to the company films supplied, the department's survey of these places of exhibition includes (1) type of equipment used for 35 mm. exhibition (2) projection booth construction (3) experience and qualification of projectionist and (4) determination that the place of assembly has the approval of local regulatory authorities.

The department, in its functions, maintains a close liaison with the national and international organizations interested in reducing fire waste and life safety. These groups consist of the National Fire Protection Association, National Board of Fire Underwriters, National Fire Waste Council, Bureau of Explosives, Fire Protection Association of England, National Safety Council.

THE MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTION CODE

As Enforced by the Motion Picture Association of America

FOREWORD

Motion picture producers recognize the high trust and confidence which have been placed in them by the people of the world and which have made motion pictures a universal form of entertainment.

They recognize their responsibility to the public because of this trust and because entertainment and art are important influences in the life of a nation.

Hence, though regarding motion pictures primarily as entertainment without any explicit purpose of teaching or propaganda, they know that the motion picture within its own field of entertainment may be directly responsible for spiritual or moral progress, for higher types of social life, and for much correct thinking.

On their part, they ask from the public and from public leaders a sympathetic understanding of the problems inherent in motion picture production and a spirit of cooperation that will allow the opportunity necessary to bring the motion picture to a still higher level of wholesome entertainment for all concerned.

THE PRODUCTION CODE

General Principles:

1. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience shall never be thrown to the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil or sin.

2. Correct standards of life, subject only to the requirements of drama and entertainment, shall be presented.

3. Law—divine, natural or human—shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation.

Particular Applications:

I. CRIME:

1. Crime shall never be presented in such a way as to throw sympathy with the crime as against law and justice, or to inspire others with a desire for imitation.
2. Methods of crime shall not be explicitly presented or detailed in a manner calculated to glamorize crime or inspire imitation.
3. Action showing the taking of human life is to be held to the minimum. Its frequent presentation tends to lessen regard for the sacredness of life.
4. Suicide, as a solution of problems occurring in the development of screen drama, is to be discouraged unless absolutely necessary for the development of the plot, and shall never be justified, or glorified, or used specifically to defeat the ends of justice.
5. Excessive flaunting of weapons by criminals shall not be permitted.
6. There shall be no scenes of law-enforcing officers dying at the hands of criminals, unless such scenes are absolutely necessary to the plot.
7. Pictures dealing with criminal activities in which minors participate, or to which minors are related, shall not be approved if they tend to incite demoralizing imitation on the part of youth.
8. Murder:
   (a) The technique of murder must not be presented in a way that will inspire imitation.
   (b) Brutal killings are not to be presented in detail
   (c) Revenge in modern times shall not be justified.
   (d) Mercy killing shall never be made to seem right or permissible.

   (b) Stresses, visually or by dialogue, their temporarily attractive effects; or
   (c) Suggests that the drug habit may be quickly or easily broken; or
   (d) Shows details of drug procurement or of the taking of drugs in any manner; or
   (e) Emphasizes the profits of the drug traffic; or
   (f) Involves children who are shown knowingly to use or traffic in drugs.
10. Stories on the kidnapping or illegal abduction of children are acceptable under the Code only (1) when the subject is handled with restraint and discretion and avoids details, gruesomeness and undue horror, and (2) the child is returned unharmed.

II. BRUTALITY:

Excessive and inhumane acts of cruelty and brutality shall not be presented. This includes all detailed and protracted presentation of physical violence, torture and abuse.

III. SEX:

The sanctity of the institution of marriage and the home shall be upheld. No film shall infer that casual or promiscuous sex relationships are the accepted or common thing.

1. Adultery and illicit sex, sometimes necessary plot material, shall not be explicitly treated, nor shall they be justified or made to seem right and permissible.
2. Scenes of passion:
   (a) These should not be introduced except where they are definitely essential to the plot.
   (b) Lustful and open-mouth kissing, lustful embraces, suggestive posture and gestures are not to be shown.
   (c) In general, passion should be treated in such manner as not to stimulate the baser emotions.
3. Seduction or rape:
   (a) These should never be more than suggested, and then only when essential to the plot. They should never be shown explicitly.
   (b) They are never acceptable subject matter for comedy.
   (c) They should never be made to seem right and permissible.
4. The subject of abortion shall be discouraged, shall never be more than suggested, and when referred to shall be condemned. It must never be treated lightly or made the subject of comedy. Abortion shall never be shown explicitly or by inference, and a story must not indicate that an abortion has been performed. The word "abortion" shall not be used.
5. The methods and techniques of prostitution and white slavery shall never be presented in detail, nor shall the subjects be presented unless shown in contrast to right standards of behavior. Brothels in any clear identification as such may not be shown.
6. Sex perversion or any inference of it is forbidden.
7. Sex hygiene and venereal diseases are not acceptable subject matter for theatrical motion pictures.
8. Children's sex organs are never to be exposed. This provision shall not apply to infants.

IV. VULGARITY:

Vulgar expressions and double meanings having the same effect are forbidden. This shall include but not be limited to such words and expressions as chippie, fairy, goose, nuts, pansy, S.O.B., son-of-a. The treatment of low, disgusting, unpleasant, though not necessarily evil, subjects should be guided always by the dictates of good taste and a proper regard for the sensibilities of the audience.

V. OBSCENITY:

1. Dances suggesting or representing sexual actions or emphasizing indecent movements are to be regarded as obscene.
2. Obscenity in words, gesture, reference, song, joke or by suggestion, even when likely to be understood by only part of the audience, is forbidden.

VI. BLASPHEMY AND PROFANITY:

1. Blasphemy is forbidden. Reference to the Deity, God, Lord, Jesus, Christ, shall not be irreverent.
2. Profanity is forbidden. The words "hell" and "damn," while sometimes dramatically valid, will if used without moderation be considered offensive by many members of the audience. Their use shall be governed by the discretion and prudent advice of the Code Administration.

VII. COSTUMES:

1. Complete nudity, in fact or in silhouette, is never permitted, nor shall there be any licentious notice by characters in the film of suggested nudity.

2. Indecent or undue exposure is forbidden
   (a) The foregoing shall not be interpreted to exclude actual scenes photographed in a foreign land of the natives of that land, showing native life, provided:
      (1) Such scenes are included in a documentary film or travelogue depicting exclusively such land, its customs and civilization; and
      (2) Such scenes are not in themselves intrinsically objectionable.

VIII. RELIGION:

1. No film or episode shall throw ridicule on any religious faith.
2. Ministers of religion, or persons posing as such, shall not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on religion.
3. Ceremonies of any definite religion shall be carefully and respectfully handled.

IX. SPECIAL SUBJECTS:

The following subjects must be treated with discretion and restraint and within the careful limits of good taste.

1. Bedroom scenes.
2. Hangings and electrocutions.
3. Liquor and drinking.
4. Surgical operations and childbirth.
5. Third degree methods.

X. NATIONAL FEELINGS:

1. The use of the flag shall be consistently respectful.
2. The history, institutions, prominent people and citizenry of all nations shall be represented fairly.
3. No picture shall be produced that tends to incite bigotry or hatred among peoples of differing races, religions or national origins. The use of such offensive words as Chink, Dago, Frog, Greaser, Hunkie, Kike, Nigger, Spig, Wop, Yid, should be avoided.

XI. TITLES:

The following titles shall not be used:

1. Titles which are salacious, indecent, obscene, profane or vulgar.
2. Titles which violate any other clause of this Code.

XII. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS:

In the production of motion pictures involving animals the producer shall consult with the authorized representative of the American Humane Association, and invite him to be present during the staging of such animal action. There shall be no use of any contrivance or apparatus for tripping or otherwise treating animals in any unacceptably harsh manner.

Reasons Supporting the Code

I. Theatrical motion pictures, that is, pictures intended for the theatre as distinct from pictures intended for churches, schools, lecture halls, educational movements, social reform movements, etc., are primarily to be regarded as entertainment.

Mankind has always recognized the importance of entertainment and its value in rebuilding the bodies and souls of human beings.

But it has always recognized that entertainment can be of a character either helpful or harmful to the human race, and in consequence has clearly distinguished between:

a. Entertainment which tends to improve the race, or at least to re-create and rebuild human beings exhausted with the realities of life; and

b. Entertainment which tends to degrade human beings, or to lower their standards of life and living.

Hence the moral importance of entertainment is something which has been universally recognized. It enters intimately into the lives of men and women and affects them closely; it occupies their minds and affections during leisure hours; and ultimately touches the whole of their lives. A man may be judged by his standard of entertainment as easily as by the standard of his work.

So correct entertainment raises the whole standard of a nation.

Wrong entertainment lowers the whole living conditions and moral ideals of a race.

Note, for example, the healthy reactions to healthful sports, like baseball, golf; the unhealthy reactions to sports like cockfighting, bullfighting, bear baiting, etc.
Note, too, the effect on ancient nations of gladiatorial combats, the obscene plays of Roman times, etc.

II. Motion pictures are very important as art.

Though a new art, possibly a combination art, it has the same object as the other arts, the presentation of human thought, emotion and experience, in terms of an appeal to the soul through the senses.

Here, as in entertainment,
Art enters intimately into the lives of human beings.
Art can be morally good, lifting men to higher levels. This has been done through good music, great painting, authentic fiction, poetry, drama. Art can be morally evil in its effects. This is the case clearly enough with unclean art, indecent books, suggestive drama. The effect on the lives of men and women is obvious.

Note: It has often been argued that art in itself is unmoral, neither good nor bad. This is perhaps true of the thing which is music, painting, poetry, etc. But the thing is the product of some person's mind, and the intention of that mind was either good or bad morally when it produced the thing. Besides, the thing has its effect upon those who come into contact with it. In both these ways, that is, as a product of a mind and as the cause of definite effects, it has a deep moral significance and an unmistakable moral quality.

Hence: The motion pictures, which are the most popular of modern arts for the masses, have their moral quality from the intention of the minds which produce them and from their effects on the moral lives and reactions of their audiences. This gives them a most important morality.

1. They reproduce the morality of the men who use the pictures as a medium for the expression of their ideas and ideals.

2. They affect the moral standards of those who, through the screen, take in these ideas and ideals.

In the case of the motion picture, this effect may be particularly emphasized because no art has so quick and so widespread an appeal to the masses. It has become in an incredibly short period the art of the multitudes.

III. The motion picture, because of its importance as entertainment and because of the trust placed in it by the peoples of the world, has special moral obligations.

A. Most arts appeal to the mature. This art appeals at once to every class, mature, immature, developed, undeveloped, law abiding, criminal. Music has its grades for different classes; so have literature and drama. This art of the motion picture, combining as it does the two fundamental appeals of looking at a picture and listening to a story, at once reaches every class of society.

B. By reason of the mobility of a film and the ease of picture distribution, and because of the possibility of duplicating positives in large quantities, this art reaches places unpenetrated by other forms of art.

C. Because of these two facts, it is difficult to produce films intended for only certain classes of people. The exhibitors' theatres are built for the masses, for the cultivated and the rude, the mature and the immature, the self-respecting and the criminal. Films, unlike books and music, can with difficulty be confined to certain selected groups.

D. The latitude given to film material cannot, in consequence, be as wide as the latitude given to book material. In addition:

a. A book describes; a film vividly presents. One presents on a cold page; the other by apparently living people.

b. A book reaches the mind through words merely; a film reaches the eyes and ears through the reproduction of actual events.

c. The reaction of a reader to a book depends largely on the keenness of the reader's imagination; the reaction to a film depends on the vividness of presentation.

Hence many things which might be described or suggested in a book could not possibly be presented in a film.

E. This is also true when comparing the film with the newspaper.

a. Newspapers present by description, films by actual presentation.

b. Newspapers are after the fact and present things as having taken place; the film gives the events in the process of enactment and with the apparent reality of life.

F. Everything possible in a play is not possible in a film:

a. Because of the larger audience of film, and its consequential mixed character. Psychologically, the larger the audience, the lower the moral mass resistance to suggestion.

b. Because through light, enlargement of character, presentation, scenic emphasis, etc., the screen story is brought closer to the audience than the play.

c. The enthusiasm for and interest in the film actors and actresses, developed beyond anything of the sort in history, makes the audience largely sympathetic toward the characters they portray and the stories in which they figure. Hence the audience is more ready to confuse actor and actress and the characters they portray, and it is most receptive of the emotions and ideals presented by its favorite stars.

G. Small communities, remote from sophistication and from the hardening process which often takes place in the ethical and moral standards of groups in larger cities, are easily and readily reached by any sort of film.

H. The grandeur of mass settings, large action, spectacular features, etc., affects and arouses more intensely the emotional side of the audience.

In general, the mobility, popularity, accessibility, emotional appeal, vividness, straightforward presentation of fact in the film make for more intimate contact with a larger audience and for greater emotional appeal. Hence the larger moral responsibilities of the motion pictures.

Reasons Underlying the General Principles

I. No picture shall be produced which will lower the moral standards of those who see it. Hence the sympathy of the audience should never be thrown to the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil or sin.

This is done:

1. When evil is made to appear attractive or alluring, and good is made to appear unattractive.
2. When the sympathy of the audience is thrown on the side of crime, wrong-doing, evil, sin. The same thing is true of a film that would throw sympathy against goodness, honor, innocence, purity or honesty.

Note: Sympathy with a person who sins is not the same as sympathy with the sin or crime of which he is guilty. We may feel sorry for the plight of the murderer or even understand the circumstances which led him to his crime. we may not feel sympathy with the wrong which he has done.
The presentation of evil is often essential for art or fiction or drama.
This in itself is not wrong provided:

a. That evil is not presented alluringly. Even if later in the film the evil is condemned or punished, it must not be allowed to appear so attractive that the audience's emotions are drawn to desire or approve so strongly that later the condemnation is forgotten and only the apparent joy of the sin remembered.
b. That throughout, the audience feels sure that evil is wrong and good is right.

II. Correct standards of life shall, as far as possible, be presented.

A wide knowledge of life and of living is made possible through the film. When right standards are consistently presented, the motion picture exercises the most powerful influences. It builds character, develops right ideals, inculcates correct principles, and all this in attractive story form. If motion pictures consistently hold up for admiration high types of characters and present stories that will affect lives for the better, they can become the most powerful natural force for the improvement of mankind.

III. Law—divine, natural or human—shall not be ridiculed, nor shall sympathy be created for its violation.

By natural law is understood the law which is written in the hearts of all mankind, the great underlying principles of right and justice dictated by conscience.

By human law is understood the law written by civilized nations.

1. The presentation of crimes against the law is often necessary for the carrying out of the plot. But the presentation must not throw sympathy with the crime as against the law nor with the criminal as against those who punish him.
2. The courts of the land should not be presented as unjust. This does not mean that a single court may not be presented as unjust, much less that a single court official must not be presented this way. But the court system of the country must not suffer as a result of this presentation.

Reasons Underlying Particular Applications

I. Sin and evil enter into the story of human beings and hence in themselves are valid dramatic material.

II. In the use of this material, it must be distinguished between sins which repel by their very nature, and sins which often attract.

a. In the first class come murder, most theft, many legal crimes, lying, hypocrisy, cruelty, etc.

b. In the second class come sex sins, sins and crimes of apparent heroism, such as banditry, daring thefts, leadership in evil, organized crime, revenge, etc.

The first class needs less care in treatment, as sins and crimes of this class are naturally unattractive. The audience instinctively condemns all such and is repelled.

Hence the important objective must be to avoid the hardening of the audience, especially of those who are young and impressionable, to the thought and fact of crime. People can become accustomed even to murder, cruelty, brutality, and repellent crimes, if these are too frequently repeated.

The second class needs great care in handling, as the response of human nature to their appeal is obvious. This is treated more fully below.

III. A careful distinction can be made between films intended for general distribution, and films intended for use in theatres restricted to a limited audience. Themes and plots quite appropriate for the latter would be altogether out of place and dangerous in the former.

Note: The practice of using a general theatre and limiting its patronage during the showing of a certain film to "Adults Only" is not completely satisfactory and is only partially effective.

However, maturer minds may easily understand and accept without harm subject matter in plots which do younger people positive harm.

Hence: If there should be created a special type of theatre, catering exclusively to an adult audience, for plays of this character (plays with problem themes, difficult discussions and maturer treatment) it would seem to afford an outlet, which does not now exist, for pictures unsuitable for general distribution but permissible for exhibitions to a restricted audience.

I. CRIMES AGAINST THE LAW:

The treatment of crimes against the law must not:

1. Teach methods of crime.
2. Inspire potential criminals with a desire for imitation.
3. Make criminals seem heroic and justified.

Revenge in modern times shall not be justified. In lands and ages of less developed civilization and moral principles, revenge may sometimes be presented. This would be the case especially in places where no law exists to cover the crime because of which revenge is committed.

Because of its evil consequences, the drug traffic should not be presented except under careful limitations.

II. BRUTALITY:

Excessive and inhumane acts of cruelty and bruality have no proper place on the screen.

III. SEX:

Out of regard for the sanctity of marriage and the home, the triangle, that is, the love of a third party for one already married, needs careful handling. The treatment should not throw sympathy against marriage as an institution.

Scenes of passion must be treated with an honest acknowledgment of human nature and its normal reactions. Many scenes cannot be presented without arousing dangerous emotions on the part of the immature, the young or the criminal classes.

Even within the limits of pure love, certain facts have been universally regarded by lawmakers as outside the limits of safe presentation.

In the case of impure love, the love which society has always regarded as wrong and which has been banned by divine law, the following are important:

1. Impure love must not be presented as attractive and beautiful.
2. It must not be the subject of comedy or farce, or treated as material for laughter.
3. It must not be presented in such a way as to arouse passion or morbid curiosity on the part of the audience.
4. It must not be made to seem right and permissible.
5. In general, it must not be detailed in method and manner.
6. Certain places are so closely and thoroughly associated with sexual life or with sexual sin that their use must be carefully limited.

IV. VULGARITY:

This section is intended to prevent not only obviously vulgar expressions but also double meanings that have the same effect.

V. OBSCENITY:

Dances which suggest or represent sexual actions, whether performed solo or with two or more; dances intended to excite the emotional reaction of an audience; dances with movement of the breasts, excessive body movements while the feet are stationary, violate decency and are wrong.

This section likewise applies to obscene words, gestures, references, songs, jokes and gags.

VI. BLASPHEMY AND PROFANITY:

It is clear that neither blasphemy nor profanity should be permitted on the screen.

VII. COSTUMES:

General principles:

1. The effect of nudity or semi-nudity upon the normal man or woman, and much more upon the young and upon immature persons, has been honestly recognized by all lawmakers and moralists.
2. Hence the fact that the nude or semi-nude body may be beautiful does not make its use in the films moral. For, in addition to its beauty, the effect of the nude or semi-nude body on the normal individual must be taken into consideration.
3. Nudity or semi-nudity used simply to put a "punch" into a picture comes under the head of immoral actions. It is immoral in its effect on the average audience.
4. Nudity can never be permitted as being necessary for the plot. Semi-nudity must not result in undue or indecent exposures.
5. Transparent or translucent materials and silhouettes are frequently more suggestive than actual exposure.

VIII. RELIGION:

The reason why ministers of religion may not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on religion is simply because the attitude taken toward them may easily become the attitude taken toward religion in general. Religion is lowered in the minds of the audience because of the lowering of the audience's respect for a minister.

IX. SPECIAL SUBJECTS:

Such subjects are occasionally necessary for the plot. Their treatment must never offend good taste nor injure the sensibilities of an audience.

The use of liquor should never be excessively presented. In scenes from American life, the necessities of plot and proper characterization alone justify its use. And in this case, it should be shown with moderation.

X. NATIONAL FEELINGS:

The just rights, history, and feelings of peoples and nations are entitled to most careful consideration and respectful treatment.

XI. TITLES:

As the title of a picture is the brand on that particular type of goods, it must conform to the ethical practices of all such honest business.

XII. CRUELTY TO ANIMALS:

The purpose of this provision is to prevent the treatment of animals in films in any unacceptably harsh manner.

METHOD OF OPERATION

The following resolution, approved by the MPAA board on June 13, 1957, became effective Sept. 17, 1957, with the announcement by Eric Johnston, president, of the official establishment of the new Production Code Review Board:

1. The method of operation under the Production Code to assure its uniform interpretation and application shall be as follows:

   A. Prior to the commencement of production of a motion picture, the script therefor, or an outline treatment, or other suitable synopsis, shall, so far as possible, be submitted to the Production Code Administration. The Production Code Administration will receive such script or treatment in confidence, and will afford the submitting producer such confidential suggestions as experience, research and information indicate, stating whether in its judgment the motion picture to be based on such script or treatment would be in conformity with the Code or where in its judgment it would appear to depart from the provisions of the Code. Such opinion shall be subject to the final reviewing of the completed picture.

   B. After completion of production of a motion picture, it shall be submitted to the Production Code Administration in its final form intended for release. The Production Code Administration, having viewed the picture, shall inform the submitting producer, in writing, whether in its opinion the picture conforms or does not conform to the Code, stating specifically whether either by theme, treatment or incident the picture violates the provisions of the Code.

C. If the completed picture is approved by the Production Code Administration as in conformity with the Code it shall, upon its release, bear upon an introductory frame in every print thereof publicly shown, the official Seal of the Association with the word "Approved" above, and the words "Certificate Number" below such Seal and the number of the Certificate of Approval issued therefor. Each such seal and the word "Approved" and the words "Certificate Number" shall not vary from the design therefor in the photograph attached to this resolution, and shall be of the same size in relation to the frame as shown in such design photograph.

2. A. The Production Code Administration upon the issuance of every Certificate of Approval shall be entitled to receive therefor a fee in accordance with the uniform schedule of fees approved by the Board of Directors of the Association, based upon a reasonable classification as to negative costs, and fixed in a manner calculated to meet the expenses of the Production Code Administration.

B. Non-members of the Association may submit to the Production Code Administration materials for their motion pictures prior to publication and completed motion pictures in the same manner as members of the Association.

C. The Production Code Administration may, in issuing a Certificate of Approval, condition the issuance of such Certificate of Approval upon the agreement that all prints of the motion picture named in such Certificate of Approval shall be an exact copy of the picture as approved by the Production Code Administration; that no scene shall be added to or removed from the picture without the agreement of the Production Code Administration except when required by any duly constituted public authority, and that the title shall not be changed without written approval of the Production Code Administration and, furthermore, that only such advertising and publicity material shall be used in advertising and exploiting the picture as is approved under the Advertising Code of the Association. The Production Code Administration shall reserve the right to void its Certificate of Approval for any violation of such conditions and to require the Certificate to be surrendered and the Seal removed from all prints within seven (7) days after the voiding of any Certificate of Approval.

3. There shall be constituted a Production Code Review Board, whose duty it shall be to hear and consider an appeal from any decision of the Production Code Administration withholding approval under the Production Code of any motion picture.

The Review Board shall be composed of not less than 16 nor more than 22 persons appointed by the President of the Association with the advice and approval of the Board of Directors. The President of the Association shall be a member and act as Chairman of the Review Board. The other members composing the Review Board shall be:

A. Not less than 8 nor more than 10 members of the Board of Directors of the Association. In designating such members of the Review Board the President of the Association shall so far as possible designate a Director representative of each Class B member of the Association.

B. A number of members equal to the members from the Board of Directors of the Association, inclusive of the President. Such members shall be chosen from the producer and exhibitor divisions of the industry in such proportion as may be feasible. No producer member of the Review Board, additional to the Directors of the Association, shall be a staff producer employed by a member of the Association. The exhibitor members of the Review Board shall be selected from national theatre circuit and non-circuit theatre operations.

4. A. The members of the Review Board shall serve for a term of one year and until their successors shall have been appointed. The President of the Association shall have authority, with the approval of the Board of Directors, to fill all vacancies conformable to the composition of the Board as herein provided.

B. In case any member of the Review Board, because of absence from the country or other compelling reason is unable to be present at the hearing of any appeal and notifies the President of the Association to that effect in advance of the date fixed for the hearing of the appeal, the President of the Association may designate a substitute pro tempore for the purpose only of participation in the hearing, consideration and decision of that appeal. Such substitute member shall be of the same category as the member of the Review Board for which such substitute member is designated to serve. The President shall not name for the hearing of any appeal more than two substitute members for either directors of the Association or exhibitors not members of the Association or producers not members of the Association.

5. The members of the Review Board required to travel for the purpose of participating in the hearing or the consideration of an appeal, shall be entitled to actual travel and subsistence expenses, which shall be paid to them from the funds of the Production Code Administration.

6. The procedure governing appeals shall be as follows:

   (a) Notice of appeal shall be given to the President of the Association by the persons having a proprietary interest in the motion picture which failed of approval by the Production Code Administration. The Association will notify the members of the Review Board of the appeal and arrange, as promptly as possible, a convenient date and place for the hearing and consideration of the appeal.

   (b) The identical print viewed by the Production Code Administration shall be made available for viewing by the members of the Review Board either before or at the hearing for the consideration of the appeal.

   (c) The Review Board, at the hearing, shall hear the party appealing in person or by representative, and receive such written communications, memoranda or briefs as such party may desire to present. The Review Board may also hear a representative of, and receive such written communications, memoranda or briefs as may be tendered by the Production Code Administration.

   (d) The Review Board may admit such evidence as it deems relevant and material and determine the nature and length of oral argument.

   (e) The presence of 11 members of the Review Board shall constitute a quorum. The Review Board shall, as expeditiously as possible, decide the appeal by majority vote of the members present and shall notify the parties in writing of its decision. Such decision shall be final.

   (f) No member of the Review Board shall participate in an appeal in relation to any picture in which such member has a proprietary interest.

   (g) In case of the ineligibility of any member of the Review Board to participate in the hearing or consideration of an appeal, because of financial interest, the President of the Association shall designate a substitute member of the Review Board pro tem for the purposes of the appeal. Such substitute member shall be of the same category as the member of the Review Board for whom such substitute member is designated to serve.

   (h) The jurisdication of the Review Board in determining any appeal shall be limited to reviewing the decision of the Production Code Administration and it shall be without power or authority to change or amend the provisions of the Code.

   (i) If it should be of the opinion that the circumstances in connection with any appeal are such that, despite the provisions of the Code as applied by the Production Code Administration, an exemption should be afforded, the Review Board in its discretion may make such exemption, but solely with respect to the picture under review; provided that any such decision shall be approved by a two-thirds majority of the votes cast.

7. The Review Board may adopt supplemental regulations governing its procedure not inconsistent with those set forth above.

8. The Review Board shall exclude from its membership any representative of a distributor member of the Association who has distributed a motion picture which was not theretofore approved by the Production Code Administration or by the Review Board on appeal. It shall be authorized for good cause in its discretion to reinstate such member on application therefor.

4. The Advertising Code Administration shall proceed as promptly as it finds feasible to approve or disapprove the advertising submitted on the basis of whether it complies with the Advertising Code.

The Advertising Code Administration shall stamp its approval on one copy of all advertising approved and return such stamped copy to the company submitting the same. If the Advertising Code Administration disapproves of any advertising, there shall be stamped the word "Disapproved" on one copy thereof, which shall be returned to the company submitting the same; or, if the Advertising Code Administration so desires, it may return the same with suggestions for such changes or corrections in the advertising as will cause it to be approved.

5. After advertising (as defined in Section 2 above) for a motion picture shall have been approved by the Advertising Code Administration, if circumstances arise, either before or after the picture's release, which in the judgment of the Administrator seem to require the withdrawal of all, or any portion of such previously approved advertising, then, after consultation with the Advertising Advisory Council, he shall immediately file a written report with the President and Secretary of the Association (a) setting forth the situation existing at the time such prior approval was granted for such advertising, (b) reciting the intervening circumstances with resultant changes in the situation, (c) listing the reasons why in the opinion of the Administrator all or a designated portion of the advertising previously approved should be withdrawn and (d) certifying that if such advertising were then being presented to him for the first time, it would not be approved by him under the Advertising Code for stated reasons.

If the President of the Association (or a Vice-President of the Association in the absence of the President), upon receipt of such report from the Advertising Code Administration, is of the opinion that the situation presented is sufficiently serious to justify consideration by the Board of Directors, the Secretary of the Association shall be instructed to call immediately an emergency meeting of the Board, at which meeting the Board shall sit as a Board of Appeal with adequate opportunity for the producer and/or distributor of the motion picture to appear in person or through a duly authorized representative and present reasons orally or in writing, or both, as to why the prior approval of the advertising should be affirmed, and with adequate opportunity for the Administrator of the Advertising Code to appear and present reasons, either orally or in writing, or both, as to why in his judgment all or a designated portion of such previously approved advertising should be withdrawn.

Thereafter, the Board, meeting in executive session with the producer and/or distributor of the picture not voting, shall determine by vote of a majority of the Directors present and voting, whether all or any portion of the previously approved advertising shall be withheld from use and/or withdrawn, and such action of the Board of Directors shall be final and binding upon the producer and/or distributor of said film.

When any previously approved advertising for a motion picture is withdrawn pursuant to action of the Board hereunder, the company withdrawing same shall be reimbursed the unrecoverable portion of its out-of-pocket expenditures for such advertising to the extent deemed equitable and proper under all the circumstances by the Board. The amount of such reimbursement shall be prorated among all members of the Association including the company affected on the same basis as dues to the Association are currently paid.

If neither the producer nor the distributor of said film is a member of the Association, then the non-member withdrawing such advertising shall be reimbursed the unrecoverable portion of its out-of-pocket expenditures for such advertising by the members of the Association to the extent deemed equitable and proper under all the circumstances by the Board.

6. Appeals. Any company whose advertising has been disapproved may appeal from the decision of the Advertising Code Administration, as follows:

Within 10 days after its advertising has been disapproved it shall serve notice of such appeal in writing on the Director of the Advertising Code Administration and on the Secretary of the Association. Said notice of appeal shall set forth the grounds upon which the appeal is taken. Within a reasonable time after the receipt of such notice by the Director of the Advertising Code Administration and the Secretary of the Association, the President or, in the event of his absence from the country or his inability to act, a board consisting of three members of the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors of the Association appointed by him, shall hold a hearing to pass upon the appeal. Oral and written evidence may be introduced by the company and the Advertising Code Administration. Oral argument shall be had at the hearing and written memoranda or briefs may be submitted by the company and the Adver- or said board, as the case may be, may admit tising Code Administration. The President such evidence as is deemed relevant, material and competent, and may determine the nature and length of the oral argument and of the written memoranda or briefs to be submitted. The President, or said board, as the case may be, shall decide the appeal as expeditiously as possible and shall notify the company and the Director of the Advertising Code Administration in writing of the decision. Such decision shall be final.

A company appealing from a decision of the Advertising Code Administration under Section 14 of the Advertising Code shall have the right, by written notice to the Secretary of the Association, to appeal directly to the Board of Directors of the Association, whose decision shall be final. The provisions relating to evidence, argument and written memoranda or briefs, set forth in these Regulations, shall apply to such appeals.

7. Any company to which these regulations are applicable, which publishes, or makes available for sale or lease, or which in any way uses advertising without prior approval as herein above provided may be brought up on charges before the Board of Directors by the Director of the Advertising Code Administration, or by any of the following officers of the Association, viz.: the President, a Vice-President, the Secretary or the Treasurer. The company shall be entitled to receive a written statement of the charges and to a hearing before the Board of Directors. Within a reasonable time after the receipt of said statement of charges by the company, the Board of Directors of the Association shall meet in a Special Meeting to hear and pass upon such charges. Oral and written evidence may be introduced by the company and by the Advertising Code Administration. Oral argument shall be had and written memoranda or briefs may be submitted by the company and by the Advertising Code Administration. The Board of Directors may admit such evidence as it deems relevant, material and competent, and may determine the nature and length of the oral argument and of the written memoranda or briefs to be submitted. The Board of Directors, by a majority vote of those present, shall decide the matter as expeditiously as possible.

If the Board of Directors finds that the company has published, or made available for sale or lease or in any way used advertising without prior approval as hereinabove set forth, the Board may take one or more of the following actions:

a) Direct the Production Code Administration to void and revoke the Certificate of Approval granted by the Association for the picture so advertised and require the removal of the Association's seal from all prints of said picture, and the Production Code Administration shall thereupon do so;

b) Require the company, if a member of the Association, to pay to the Association as and for liquidated damages, not more than $100 for each publication, lease, sale or use of an unapproved item of advertising which has been published, made available for lease or sale or used, provided, however, that the total sum assessed for advertising relative to one motion picture may not exceed the sum of $25,000. The amount so assessed and collected shall be used by the Association for expenses incurred in the administration of the Advertising Code. It is recognized that any violation of the Advertising Code will disrupt the stability of the industry and cause serious damage to the Association and its members which cannot be definitively computed.

The decision of the Board of Directors shall be final.

8. Each company shall assume responsibility for seeing that all its employees and agents comply with these regulations.

ACADEMY'S PURPOSE: IMPROVEMENT OF QUALITY

By WENDELL COREY

President, Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences

WHEN THE BY-LAWS of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences were written in 1927, they clearly spelled out the reasons for establishing our annual "Oscar" Awards and their significance to the industry:

"To advance the arts and sciences of motion pictures and to foster cooperation among the creative leadership of the motion picture industry for cultural, educational and technological progress . . . to recognize outstanding achievements by conferring annual awards of merit, serving as a constant incentive within the industry and focusing wide public attention upon the best in motion pictures. . . ."

It is significant to the officers of the Academy today that stress was put on the encouragement of greater achievements at even that very first affair. Last April 8 marked the 35th time that motion picture industry craftsmen proudly accepted the highest accolade of their fellows.

Not once in all those years has the Academy lost sight of its original purpose of helping to improve the artistic quality of the film medium. The public acclaim bestowed on the "Oscar"; the entertainment value of the Annual Awards Show; the benefits accruing to the industry from presenting a two-hour program of suspense and thrills to an audience of millions are welcome added attractions but still are no more than by-products of the successful fulfillment of the Academy's avowed purposes.

If the "Oscar" competition had ever been permitted to become a mere popularity contest, our little golden statuette would not today bear the stamp of genuine artistic accomplishment. I am sure that the Academy's adherence to the theme of recognizing achievement, the manner in which nominations are made and the voting conducted, have kept it in a position of eminence in the minds of the persons who can be so honored, and the vast public which annually applauds the winning achievements.

Study, for a moment, what a quick glance at the list of winners clearly reveals. Motion picture makers long have realized that everyone has an equal opportunity to be honored in the category in which he specializes. Past results prove that an achievement doesn't have to have been accomplished in connection with a multi-million dollar picture or a sensational box office success. At the same time, no craftsman need feel that his work will be lost in the magnitude of an overpowering spectacle.

The fact that "Oscar" never runs true to predictions makes the movement of opening the little white envelopes one of extreme suspense year after year. There have been only a handful of times when a "best picture" seems to carry other efforts to victory. "Ben-Hur" gathered a total of 11 Awards, "West Side Story" 10, "Gigi" 9, and three others have assembled 8 "Oscars."

Throughout the years of the Awards, there have been 22 times when the director of the year's best pictures has also won.

There have been 16 times when not a single player won an "Oscar" in a best picture selection. Four "best pictures" have not been accompanied by any other honor. And this list includes such film classics as "Mutiny On The Bounty" (the first production) and "Grand Hotel." Five of the year's top movies have been coupled with only one other "Oscar" winner. These include productions like "The Greatest Show On Earth" and "Rebecca."

Statistics are not always dull, particularly when they prove a point or refute a misbelief. The Academy is proud that no individuals, companies or groups have ever enjoyed a strangle-hold on "Oscar" honors.

In so closely-knit an industry, it might be expected that there would be some who, like the New York Yankees, seldom give anyone else a chance.

Yet, the records show that only one actor (in the supporting ranks) has won three Awards; five women have repeated for best actress; three men for best actor; two men for best supporting actor; and no woman for best supporting actress honors.

In 35 years, only 11 directors have won more than once. There have been no less than 108 different writers presented with "Oscars"; 52 cinematographers have divided 56 Awards; and similar facts can be found in other categories.

Under the Academy's method of singling out these best efforts, no Award ever is easily won. That is why performers and technicians will tell you that winning an "Oscar" is easily the most important event in their professional lives.

COMPO HAS AMBITIOUS PROGRAM

By CHARLES E. McCARTHY
Executive Vice-President
Council of Motion Picture Organizations, Inc.

COMPO entered 1963 with one of the most ambitious programs in its history as the result of directives given to it at its annual meeting on Nov. 20, 1962.

In addition to its continuing fight against screen censorship at Federal, State and local levels, COMPO was authorized to wage a campaign for the repeal of the existing Federal admissions tax of 10 percent over $1.00; to seek exemption, wherever possible, of theatre employees from the provisions of minimum wage laws; to organize exhibitor support for the Academy Awards promotion; to revive the Audience Awards promotion with a climactic television spectacular; to co-ordinate plans for exhibitor participation in expanded film production, with a study of England's EADY plan included, and to continue its sponsorship of regional merchandising plans.

Despite all the court decisions invalidating state and local laws aimed at movie censorship, the proponents of such legislation apparently never give up in their efforts to control or dictate screen content. Repeatedly defeated in their frontal attacks by seeking to establish censorship boards with arbitrary powers, they now seek to establish classification of films for adult and juvenile viewers and to compel exhibitors, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, to deny admittance of teen-agers to films classified as for adult showing only. Quite apart from giving any individual, or group of individuals, the right to decide what pictures may or may not be exhibited, it would impose an intolerable burden on exhibitors in trying to prevent unauthorized persons from buying tickets or otherwise gaining entrance to films restricted to adult viewers.

Pursuing their campaign on the grounds of alleged obscenity in recent films, censorship advocates may be expected to introduce legislation seeking film control in at least a dozen states. In their own interest, as well as that of the entire industry, exhibitors must unite to combat such legislation and to enlist the help of all other media of communication which will not be spared if censorship in whatever form finally is forced upon the motion picture industry. COMPO, of course, will continue to cooperate with exhibitors and distributors in doing everything within its means to protect the industry's interest.

In addition to the Federal minimum wage law, which establishes a basic minimum rate of $1.25 an hour this year to those subject to its provisions, nearly one-half of the 50 states have enacted state minimum wage laws governing at least some classes of theatre workers. With all but four of the 50 State legislatures meeting this year, it is not only likely but highly probable that minimum wage legislation will be introduced in states not now covered and that a higher basic minimum or an extension of the current rate to classes of workers not now covered will be made in states where limited wage orders are now in effect. State Labor Commissioners of Delaware and Montana advised COMPO at the turn of the year that minimum wage legislation was being prepared for submission to the 1963 legislatures of those states while Carlyle F. Gronning, Labor Commissioner of Utah, stated that a wage order covering the amusement industry was contemplated. Exhibitors in several other states expressed the belief that efforts to enact a minimum wage law also were likely to be made in their states.

Inasmuch as a large percentage of theatre employees, particularly in small situations, are part-time employees or students, who are not wholly dependent upon their wages for a livelihood, establishment of a basic rate, primarily intended for full-time workers in other industries, works undue hardships for the motion picture industry. Exhibitors, therefore, feel that they should be given exemption from high minimum rates, especially for ushers and other part-time employees, and COMPO is prepared to offer its assistance wherever needed.

With the President favoring a substantial cut in both individual and corporate income taxes, indicating the possibility of another huge government deficit, the chances of obtaining further relief in excise taxes becomes increasingly difficult. However, COMPO will continue to press for elimination of the remaining Federal admission tax of 10 percent over $1.00. As in previous campaigns, COMPO has organized tax committees at the State level and in practically every Congressional district of the country. During the holiday recess, members of these committees were able to make direct contact with their Congressmen and U.S. Senators and to present the industry's case for complete elimination of Federal admission taxes. Meanwhile, COMPO has assembled financial, statistical and other data for use if and when excise tax hearings are scheduled before the House Ways & Means and Senate Finance Committees.

When a theatre closes, as thousands have done in recent years under the pressure of high admission and other taxes, TV competition and rising operating costs, the business of other merchants in the neighborhood invariably has suffered. As proof of this is the fact that in many such communities where theatres have closed, or threatened with closure, neighboring business men have raised money to reopen them or keep them operating. Elimination of the Federal admission tax would help keep theatres in a healthy condition, save the jobs of their employees and help business generally.

TO FOSTER, CARRY ON AND ADVANCE

By REID H. RAY

President, Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers

FORTY-SEVEN YEARS AGO (July 24, 1916) when ten men met in Washington, D.C., little did they know that the organization they were founding would play such an important role in the engineering of more than one industry they were then representing. Even less could they have imagined today's world of audio-visual communication in education, and in public affairs, industry and religion.

In 1916, when those engineers met to form the Society of Motion Picture Engineers, the motion picture industry was "growing up," and required engineering standards and advancement in theory, practice, and presentation for this new form of entertainment. So, the Society became established as the place where engineers could collectively conquer the critical hurdles along the long road leading to sound films, and later, to telecasting.

The Society grew rapidly, paralleling the swift advancement from the days of the flickers. By 1930, 750 members were enrolled and scores of technical papers were presented at semi-annual meetings. In the thirties, technological developments moved fast with sound and picture on one film; the Society founded a monthly Journal to keep engineers abreast of the many new technical developments and to publish industry standards. The scope broadened with color films, high-speed photography applications, new recording methods, and then, in the 1940's, television.

With a membership of more than 4,000 in 1950, the Society had become well known for its engineering activities and for motion picture and sound recording standards accepted throughout the world, its test films and a superior Journal, local Sections in six areas of the United States, active participation in education training programs, annual awards for outstanding engineering contributions, and successful semi-annual conventions.

The SMPTE begins 1963 with more than 6,500 members, and its Journal has an additional 1,700 subscribers. These members reside in 61 countries so the Society has an international outlook on all problems within the scope of its aims and objects.*

The theatre industry has always had the attention of SMPTE in its engineering activities; a concern to bring excellence to the theatre screen to satisfy the ultimate patron. Advances in any phase of the industry are a part of every convention and engineering papers published in the monthly Journal of the Society. In 1961 there were 135 pages of Journal subjects relating to the motion picture industry on such subjects as: Projectors and Projection, Sound—Optical and Magnetic, Exhibition Theatre Plans, Lighting and Screens, Printers and Printing, Laboratory Practices, Color Films, Studio Construction, Cameras and Exposure, and Equipment, General. In 1962 the Journal published 139 pages on the same subjects. More than 50 pages of "Progress Report" material much of which is pointed toward equipment and techniques used internationally in theatre exhibition and film production centers is an annual feature.

For the gamut from production and projection, the Society publishes such papers as "Special Photographic Effects as an Aid to Low-Budget Production" and entire groups of papers such as the seven papers on "Set Construction and Special Effects." Another group in 1962 was seven papers on "Education and the Society." A special group was nine papers on "8 mm and New Small-Format Film Systems" which is importantly related to the overall engineering approach of the Society, national and international, wide-screen and small format film.

SMPTE serves as Secretariat for the International Standardization Organization Technical Committee 36 on Cinematography. The SMPTE sponsors two American Standards Association Committees: PH22 (Motion Pictures) and C98 (Combined Visual-Aural Magnetic Recording for Television). The Society also cooperates in many ways with the Institute of Radio Engineers, National Association of Broadcasters, and the Inter-Society Color Council.

During 1962 ten Engineering Committees, totaling 250 members, released 34 standards and five recommended practices in the areas of magnetic sound film, including test films, and of film dimensions and video tape. Within this large group of Engineering Committee members are top engineers from leading American corporations. These men devote to developing new standards, a total of thousands of hours of their technical skills in research work.

For 1963 the Engineering Vice-President and his committees have high priority for standards where color is involved. The Engineering Committees are now working on more than 110 projects which are in various stages of study and development. Much attention will also be given to film projection practices. With the establishment of the new American Standards Association, Sectional Committee C98, there will be released many full standards for video tape. A new general project is the development of overall testing methods for television picture quality. It may also be noted that every American Standard is reviewed by SMPTE Engineering Committees after it has been in effect for five years; is reaffirmed or put into the process of revision.

In 1963 the Society is enlarging its activities in the field of education. In 1962, in the group of papers on "Education and the Society" the question was asked, "where will our future film-makers, television producers, instrumentation and electronics engineers come from if not from our universities and colleges?" At present, there are twelve institutions in the world with major programs granting degrees in various aspects of the field of cinema. A large education committee, with members on both East and West Coasts, and the Advisor on Education to the President of the Society, have been charged to present to the SMPTE Board of Governors recommendations for activity in this challenging field. During 1962, on the West Coast, several courses in sound and laboratory practices were offered and registration had to be cut off when the classes totaled 100 persons. Under the sponsorship of SMPTE and the University of Southern California, the semester course is to be offered again in 1963.

So, as SMPTE enters its 47th year, it will be earnestly pursuing its aims: To foster, carry on and advance the engineering and technical aspects of the motion-picture, television and allied arts and sciences . . ." With 6,500 members professionally involved in industry, government and in educational institutions, 1963 will witness the Society playing a dominant role in the fields it is dedicated to serve.

*Local Sections now number 13 and are located in strategic cities from Canada to Texas; Boston to Hollywood. This brings the local members into closer contact to engineering subjects within their areas. These Sections meet at least seven times per year.

ACTORS GUILD
SHOWS LEADERSHIP

By JOHN L. DALES
National Executive Secretary, The Screen Actors Guild

UNDOUBTEDLY, THE MOST SIGNIFICANT happening of a busy year for the Screen Actors Guild was the adoption of a new policy to guide the Guild's collective bargaining negotiations with the producers of theatrical feature films.

In debating what course to follow in the negotiations scheduled for 1963, the Guild Board of Directors sought an answer to the questions: What will do the most good for the greatest number of actors? What will help to revive the domestic feature film production industry, now at a record low point?

We were faced with the fact that the overwhelming weight of evidence shows that in the past, high production costs in the United States, as well as cheaper labor costs abroad, both above and below the line, have been a major cause of the decline of feature picture production in this country.

We also knew that our existing contract was a good one and provided good wage minimums and working conditions.

It was with these thoughts in mind that the Guild Board recommended to the membership that "in view of the present state of the domestic theatrical motion picture production industry, with employment of American actors in this type of picture at an all time low, the Guild will not seek increases in existing wage rates or changes in working conditions which would substantially increase the cost of hiring actors in films made in the United States."

In a nationwide mail referendum, the Guild membership approved the Board's recommendation by a vote of 5,279 to 188 and opinion leaders and the responsible press from coast to coast congratulated the Guild for its intelligent leadership in our industry.

We are not suffering under the delusion that this action will cure the production industry's ills overnight. But we are hopeful that, along with other developments, it will help to increase production of features in this country. Costs of American producers operating in foreign countries have risen and are continuing to rise, tax loopholes and foreign havens are beginning to be closed, and a joint union-management committee is working with government agencies to stop unfair foreign competition and elimination of inducements to American producers by foreign government.

In another important policy decision, the Guild announced that in all future contracts, we will demand guarantees of equal employment opportunity for Negro actors.

The First Annual Screen Actors Guild Award "for outstanding achievement in fostering the finest ideals of the acting profession and advancing the principles of good citizenship" was presented to Eddie Cantor in 1962 for his service to the American public over a period of many years.

The Guild in 1964 will continue, as always, to be an organization of integrity and responsibility and one of which all motion picture actors may be proud.

HOLLYWOOD NEEDS ITS PUBLICISTS

TO UPGRADE WORLD IMAGE

By CHARLES A. MOSES
President
The Publicists Association, Local 818, IATSE, AFL-CIO

HOLLYWOOD

EFFORTS TO INSURE HOLLYWOOD'S status as the film capital of the world and to upgrade its image as a cultural center will be accomplished with the essential assistance of the film industry's three hundred plus publicists.

These publicists are in constant daily communication with every media and are preparing the necessary material used to promote our films in every part of the globe. They are, in effect, one of the most important groups in the selling of Hollywood's image in this country and abroad. Communications and information in every phase of American life are highly important assets in any program designed to focus attention on accomplishments and the selling of products.

The number of college and university degrees held by publicists is among the highest of any group in the entertainment industry. Many publicists serve their communities, state and nation as elected officials and as members of civic projects including that of Governor Edmund G. Brown's committee to promote and celebrate California's emergence as the number one State in the Union in growth and population. A large number of senior publicists are executives in the film industry and others represent agencies with offices in New York and Europe. Many are published writers, public speakers and world travelers. Some are closely affiliated with charities while others take active interest in youth and senior citizen activities.

The concept of a Hollywood publicist as a ballyhooing press agent dreaming up space-grabbing scandal and figuring out the best ways to undrape luscious starlets is as old fashioned as silent movies. The idea men of today have raised their sights and are selling entertainment on loftier levels. They have even written and circulated their own code of ethics. They are concerned about morals and creative values because they are aware of present-day mass acceptances. Public relations and publicity courses in colleges and universities have prepared and educated new publicists for the problems of selling through all media. Also, the smaller amount of films and limited number of stars has the large Hollywood press corps depending on the publicists. The result has been that the publicists are better able to control the quality of publicity and public relations and to present the industry in a better light.

Publicists are concerned with upgrading their own profession. They are vitally interested in the welfare of the whole industry. They are eager to participate in those projects which will enhance the image of Hollywood throughout the world. As experts in image making and public relations, they can be utilized on festival, code of ethics, museum and union committees, and in helping to represent the industry in vital areas on vital projects.

In working with creative and management teams, publicists will not only be an asset, but will be focusing attention on the capabilities and importance of their own profession. They are always proud to be a part of such projects which are designed to make Hollywood a cultural center and to maintain it as the world film capital. Creative and management teams must recognize this and take full advantage of the contributions which the publicists can make.

CROSSROADS

By LEON BARSHA

Former President

American Cinema Editors

I RECENTLY read an article by one of our leading film critics regarding the state of American films, and strangely, while I disagree with practically all that he said, I am in agreement with his conclusion.

His thesis is that American films have been made for a "supermarket audience" only, while foreign films have a more mature approach, so are interesting to an audience more in tune with the realities of the day. This is where I disagree.

The primary misconception is that foreign audiences are different from American and that film making in other countries has a different philosophy than ours. Allowing for regional traditions and language barriers audiences the world over will laugh at the same ridiculous or satiric situations and will cry at the same pathos. As for the philosophy of the different film industries—it must be the same; to reach as many people as possible and, along with that, to make as much fame and money out of each project.

It is foolish to think that there is any difference between the artist and businessman. Each in his own way wants acceptance by the world and the material rewards that go with it. No sane artist, be he painter, writer, musician or what have you, has been content to create and then hide his creation. The writer wants his works read, the musician wants his music played, the painter his pictures looked at. Those artists who were fortunate enough to have been accepted during their lifetimes were enver unwilling to put a proper monetary evalution on their works. The essential code was the same as the businessman's—charge what the traffic will bear.

No, the problem is not that the American film-maker is crassly looking for the dollar, therefore reaching for the lowest common denominator. The problem is that film making is a costly process and recoupment is possible only through reaching a large audience, and the films made do please a large audience.

But—and here is where I agree with the critic's conclusion—there is a growing audience which wants different films from the bulk of what we now make. This does not mean better films in the sense that such films should be produced to the exclusion of the mass films. There is a place for both. Right now I can think of at least six categories of music in simultaneous exposure: Rock-'n-Roll, Folk, Pop, Jazz, Classic and avant-garde. Each has its audience and each has its place in the world of music. So it is with all media of communications.

The difference is that films, along with radio and television, are the only media originated during our present technological evolutionary period and are capable of reaching countless more people than ever before. They are so young that we have not yet settled down to clearly seeing our audiences divided into separate groups nor to find the means of reaching each group.

I think we stand at the crossroad in films today. I believe we can and must find a way to make films for the possible smaller audiences who want films other than those with mass appeal. This is necessary because films—as all other enterprises—must be dynamic. As avante-garde music affects pop music, so avante-garde films will affect mass films. This interchange is the only means of keeping the art alive.

One other thing. The audience for "serious" films is growing. There are in this country at least 500 film societies devoted to such films—and the list is increasing. University and other groups increase the audience numbers tremendously. The time is fast approaching when, with a little ingenuity, it will be financially feasible to make films for this audience exclusively.

VARIETY CLUBS
36 YEARS OF SERVICE

By ROTUS HARVEY
International Chief Barker
Variety Clubs International

FOUNDED IN PITTSBURGH in 1927, Variety Clubs International and its more than 8,000 members are now celebrating the organization's thirty-sixth birthday. It seems hardly necessary to go into detail about the story of how Variety was formed, for virtually every showman in the amusement industry and those affiliated with show biz in the United States, in Canada, England, Ireland and Mexico is quite familiar with Variety Clubs International.

The amusement industry, as far as I know, is the only industry that has an organization of its own, whose sole purpose is to alleviate the suffering of innocent children.

Variety Clubs are known and respected in their communities, and have become a decided asset to that community's welfare program.

The past 36 years have been filled with achievement on behalf of hospitals, clinics, research centers, camps, boy's clubs, schools for the handicapped, playgrounds . . . the list is endless. And I am sure the next thirty-six years will be even greater.

The deeds of Variety and its components are less likely to make headlines, and sometimes are even scarcely noticed. But, for every person who has betrayed a trust, there are hundreds of members in Variety who have kept the trust. And for every instance of an individual who has been less than honest, there are hundreds of children in hospitals, homes, schools and youth clubs who lead a better life because of show business people in Variety. Variety is the side of the industry devoted solely to helping others. During the 36 years of its existence, it has raised over $80 million. During the past year, the folks of Variety spent more than $3 million for aid to children outside this industry, regardless of race, color or creed. Not a staggering sum when calculated by today's standards, but staggering in the efforts required to accumulate these funds, and staggering in the effect this amount has on the lives of the children benefitted in the 36 cities.

Life has been very good to most of us, and I am sure we all agree that by being a member of Variety and assisting in its good works, we are saying thanks for our good fortune.

To those who are not members we earnestly urge you to join Variety—"The Heart Of Show Business"—composed of showmen who make the time to help others. Their reward is the light and the laughter they bring to their very own, very special audience of unfortunate children everywhere.

As International Chief Barker, I salute the thousands of Barkers who have done such a magnificent job, and I am sure the hundreds of thousands of children who have been helped would also like to say "Thank You."

DECADE OF PROGRESS

By JEAN W. MULLIS

President
International Association of WOMPI

SEPTEMBER 1963 will mark the tenth anniversary of the International Association of the Women of the Motion Picture Industry, the group having met for the first time, four clubs strong, in Dallas in September, 1953. The successful endeavors of the young group in the past decade is most impressive, all of which redounds to the credit of the motion picture industry.

Founded on service to all mankind and the promotion of the motion picture industry, WOMPI members have devoted thousands of man-hours to aiding their less fortunate, plus having contributed more than $225,000 to various charitable outlets. The Association, now composed of thirteen clubs with a membership of 565, has experienced great success in acting as a public relations coordinator between the public and our great industry.

During the year 1962, WOMPI in the United States and Canada contributed approximately 20,000 service hours and $65,000 in bringing rays of sunshine into the lives of the handicapped, the aged, and needy children. A new club was chartered in Indianapolis and key prospects are currently being contacted in other exchange cities.

The Association has one project—the sponsorship of a room at the Will Rogers Memorial Hospital and Research Laboratories. The amount needed for this sponsorship is donated by the members of the thirteen clubs, each member contributing ten cents a week for this purpose.

WOMPI members are now making every minute of the present count to insure the pleasant vision of a successful future, placing particular emphasis on Extension, Industry Service, Will Rogers Memorial Hospital, membership and service.

Each of the thirteen clubs operates on an individual basis and is rendering meritorious service to their communities through a wide range of activities.

Members of the Atlanta Club are busily engaged in carrying out their service project program which includes bingo and special parties for the patients at Highview Nursing Home, furnishing prizes and refreshments. Food, clothing and gifts are provided for underprivileged children at Plantation Manor, and for a needy family. Members are assisting handicapped children to learn to swim, donating linens and fruit juices to our Lady of Perpetual Care Cancer Home, addressing thousands of envelopes for the Crippled Children's Easter Seal Campaign, furnishing materials to the children's ward at Grady Memorial Hospital, for use in stuffing animals and toys, and a monetary donation is given each month to a former employee of the film industry.

The Charlotte Club furnishes gowns and blankets for babies born at the Good Samaritan Hospital, and donates used clothing to the Hospital. Parties are given at Green Acres Home for the Aged, with prizes and refreshments donated by individual members, and the residents of the Home receive $1 on birthdays. Surgical bandages are made for the American Cancer Society. Clerical service is given during the United Appeal Drive, and members addressed 15,000 envelopes for the March of Dimes Drive. Fruit baskets and magazines are furnished to patients at Chronic Ill Hospital at Thanksgiving, and inmates at Lee's Nursing Home are given fruit baskets as Christmas gifts.

Although activities of the Dallas Club members center around plans for the forthcoming tenth annual convention to be held there in September, 1963, the Club's service projects are not neglected. Many hours are donated to the Dallas Lighthouse for the Blind, making surgical dressings for the American Cancer Society, dressing dolls for the Salvation Army, providing entertainment for hundreds of children at Christmas and continuing their interest in the Dallas Service for Blind Children.

The Denver Club members are working with the Holy Ghost Center, donating many hours and financial assistance. Thev also save postage stamps for the Sisters of St. Catherine's Hospital and sponsor the X-ray unit on Film Row for the Tuberculosis Society.

In Des Moines, service projects include the Polk County Juvenile Home, and toys and games are provided for the children. The Des Moines Club has adopted a girl, buys clothing and gifts for her and sends her to summer camp. Thanksgiving baskets are provided for needy families. Dolls are dressed for the Salvation Army, clerical work is furnished to Easter Seal Center, screenings are arranged for nurses at Broadlawns County Hospital, and help by members is given several days a month to Broadlawns Polk County Hospital.

Indianapolis, a more recently organized Club, has adopted a nursing home as its service project, and monthly visits and entertainments provide the inmates many hours of enjoyment.

VARIED SERVICE PROGRAM

The Jacksonville Club has a varied service project program, including birthday parties for All Saints Home for the Aged and the River Garden Hebrew Home for the Aged. The Club provides films for the Juvenile Shelter twice weekly, also films and refreshments monthly for the Northeast Florida State Hospital. They assist Senior Citizens with shopping, driving and escort them to churches. Volunteer work is done by the members for the American Cancer Society, the Heart Association and Multiple Sclerosis; and they have arranged for the Muscular Dystrophy film to be shown in all theatres in the Jacksonville area. Assistance is also given to the March of Dimes. Food and clothing are provided for the City Rescue Mission, Salvation Army and Catholic Charities.

VARIETY SHOW PRESENTED

Service projects enthusiastically undertaken by members of the New Orleans Club include a variety show, "WOMPI Follies," for hospitals, Old Folks Home, a detention home, a mental institute and other institutions. Refreshments are served by the members following the show. A monthly game night for inmates at St. Anna's Home for the Aged provides entertainment and motion pictures are frequently shown. Prizes and refreshments are donated by club members. Two needy families are supplied monthly with groceries, clothing and other items. Old nylon hose and magazines are supplied to hospitals. Members clip cancelled stamps for a missionary and collect used eye-glasses for Eyes for the Needy. Two annual theatre parties are held each year, one for under-privileged children, the other for orphanages, with gifts, candy and popcorn provided for approximately 250 children. At Christmas, members assist the Missionary Sisters in stuffing over two thousand bags with candy, fruits and toys distributed to poor children in areas outside of New Orleans. Help is given to the Tuberculosis Association and the Crippled Children's Easter Seal Drive, by addressing and stuffing envelopes. Trailers are booked and delivered to downtown theatres for the Tuberculosis Association, Cancer, Heart Fund and Easter Seal. The New Orleans Club has adopted a 12-year-old girl at the Louisiana State Mental Hospital, and members of the Club visit, correspond, and provide gifts for her on special occasions.

TRAINING UNDERPRIVILEGED

The New York Club serves coffee and cookies the first Monday of each month at the USO (United Service Organizations). On Saturday afternoons members help at the Girls Club of New York, in training underprivileged children to play, do crafts, cooking, and other items. A children's picture is screened once a month, and the children are Hospital. Dolls and animals are stuffed for the children at the St. Louis City Hospital, McMillan and Shriners' Hospitals. Eggs are dyed at Easter for the children at the Chronic entertained with a party. Members are stuffing animals for the Jacobi Hospital children's ward.

For service projects, the St. Louis Club members act as hostesses once each month at the USO, and furnish lunch for the boys. At Christmas, they bake dozens of cookies and donate large boxes of clothes for the Chronic Hospital and Sunshine Mission. For Mothers' Day, folders are made and stuffed with handkerchiefs for the women of the Jewish Shelter for the Aged.

GROCERIES FOR THE ELDERLY

Service projects of the Toronto Club include screenings at the Second Mile Club every month and the club serves refreshments. Members provide groceries every other week for an elderly couple, and at Christmas pack, and deliver Christmas hampers for elderly people. They are also knitting baby clothes for Children's Aid.

With Dallas hostess to the tenth anniversays convention in September, 1963, an SRO attendance by the loyal and dedicated members is expected to view the many accomplishments of the past decade.

The Association of the Women of the Motion Picture Industry, through the concentrated efforts and successes of its member clubs, looks forward to a future filled with additional growth and widespread emulation throughout the United States and Canada. WOMPI will continue to move forward through the true earnestness of each member's spirit to render aid to the needy in many walks of life and to further the industry they serve.

INTERPRETATION

Accurate interpretation is nowhere more important than in printing. For the printer must combine the soul of the artist, the keen perception of the writer, with a true grasp of fundamentals, and superlative technical skill.

At Barnes, we have not perhaps, reached the ultimate in perfection, but we are proud to feel that our services are sought by many.

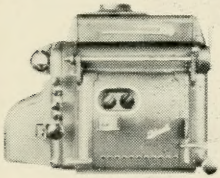
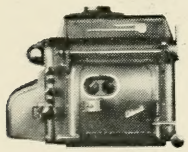
Ashcraft

PROVED BY TEST...BY FAR THE BEST



Arc lamps and Rectifiers For Every Projector
... For Every Theatre ... The World's Finest!

HERE ARE THE FACTS



Ashcraft

SUPER CINEX . . . The masterpiece of the most experienced projection lamp designer. No other lamp has even remotely approached its perfection from every point of view—mechanically, electrically, optically, hydraulically or its fine air-conditioned system. Its durability and stamina have been proved. More and more fine theatres and drive-ins are re-equipping with Ashcraft Super Cinex daily due to their fine reputation for perfect screen light and service. Current range with 13.6 mm carbon, 125-165 amperes.

Ashcraft

CINEX 35/70 SPECIAL . . . The Great of the Ashcraft Arc Lamps is a modified Super Cinex. Like the Super Cinex no third element or relay lens is necessary regardless whether 35 mm or 70 mm film is being projected. Uses a 13.6 mm high intensity positive carbon at current ranges between 125 and 140 amperes.

Ashcraft

CORE-LITE . . . the latest and most phenomenal producer of white light at lowest possible operating cost in the family of Great Ashcraft Arc Lamps. Same arc burner and arc controls as the SUPER-CINEX. Same quality and built-in reliability. The lamp is optically designed to give greater white light distribution at less cost for carbons and electricity. There is none better—anywhere . 75-110 amp.

Ashcraft

RECTIFIER . . . THE SPECIAL CORE-LITE 12 PHASE HIGH REACTANCE RECTIFIER . . . designed for the requirements of the Core-Lite lamp, this rectifier will give the best results. Low reactance 6 phase rectifiers should not be used. Certain motor generators, but not all, are acceptable.
